U.S. ON TRAIL OF BREWERS' CASH BACKING PRESS

Senate Orders Quiz on Alleged German "Slush Fund."

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—The senate today ordered a searching investigation of the extent to which the brewers have invested in newspapers for the purpose of fighting prohibition and the extent to which agents of the German government subsidized American newspapers for the dissemination of German propaganda.

The committee on judiciary will begin the investigation next Monday in pursuance of a resolution by Senator Jones of Washington directing the inquiry and also calling upon A. Mitchell Palmer, alien property custodian, and the department of justice to produce such documentary evidence bearing upon the charges as they possess.

The information requested of the department of justice relates to the alleged political activities of the United States Brewers' association.

Senator Thomas Sterling of South Dakota, author of the resolution, declared that the charges made by Edgar Wallace in a recent issue of the London Weekly Dispatch that fifteen German brewers of America in association with the United States Brewers' association, furnished the money, amounting to several hundred thousand dollars," for the purchase of the Washington Times by Arthur Brisbane.

Mr. Palmer also submitted a letter to substantiate his charge that German-American liquor interests "have actually been willing to finance great newspapers for the purpose of spreading German propaganda and sentiments in this country."

This was a letter written by Alexander Konta to Dr. Dernburg, the head German propagandist, who was expelled from this country in 1914, advising him that in purchasing a newspaper for German propaganda purposes, he could count upon the support of the distillers and brewers, who would be ready to advance illimitable capital to an organ fighting prohibition.

Would Boost Personal Liberty.

"In ordinary circumstances," Konta wrote, "a loss of from $250,000 to $300,000 a year would have to be provided for, but I believe that, owing to my connection with certain interests in this country, this could be greatly reduced, if not wiped out altogether by attention to newspaper management.

"Prohibition is seriously occupying the minds of the brewers and distillers of this country. It is not a question of temperance, which they advocate, but of the actual prohibition by law of the sale of beers, wines, and liquors. A paper that would not be hostile to the personal liberty of the citizen to drink in moderation what he pleased could count upon the powerful support of the brewers and distillers, who command almost illimitable capital, and what is more, means of giving the paper in question a circulation large enough to attract advertisers.

Would Impress Native Americans.

"Add to this a discreet appeal to every German society in the country for support by its members, and we may easily count upon a national daily circulation of 500,000 copies. This, I am sure, would be a circulation among Germans and German-Americans, whereas what is wanted is native American readers, but if this German circulation is built up discreetly as I suggest, the man in the street will only be impressed by numbers. A large circulation, widely advertised, would impress the native American and lead him to take the paper. And, meanwhile, a deficit would be changed into a profit to be used for further propaganda.

"The interests to which I refer have repeatedly consulted me on this very subject of a newspaper not hostile to their industry, and I know they would be more than ready to give their support to the plan now in hand.

Moment Favorable to Plan.

"Now is a general survey of the field. Financially the moment is favorable to the plan under discussion. The newspapers have suffered heavily from the war, and for some of them the loss of German advertising has practically killed them. Others are in a precarious condition, and would welcome the chance to sell out at a good price.

15 FIREMEN QUIT; ACCUSE CHIEF OF BOCHE BACKFIRE

Anti- and Pro-Americanism Basis of Oak Park Fight.

Fifteen firemen in Oak Park resigned in a body last night and at 11:30 o'clock walked out. It was the climax of a five months' quarrel over the alleged anti-Americanism of Herman J. Schoff, fire chief, and the discharge of Frank W. Savage, a fireman, declared by them to be for super-loyalty.

The only men left to guard Oak Park in case of fire at midnight were Chief Schoff himself, George Houren, fire captain, who has been with the department twenty-two years, and six firemen at the substations. Houren decided he'd kind of stick around, as he wouldn't feel natural away.

The first casualty followed right after the meeting. Lester Wilson called the chief something or other, and the chief ordered his arrest.

The Charges.

Among the things that aroused the men to action are charges that Chief Schoff refused to permit them to hang a service flag in the station after two men had entered service; refused to permit them to join a patriotic parade and refused to fly flags from the fire station.

After demanding the discharge of Chief Schoff and the reinstatement of Savage, the petition announced to the village board that if it failed to act the resignations should be considered effective.

Wesley Fisher, an attorney with offices [illegible] presented the petition. Every one [illegible] began to shout to Calvin H. Hill, president of the board, and an hour and [illegible] minutes later the board [illegible] finally did call a banquet had kept him away. Mr. Folger then said the board the "word of fifteen loyal Americans" ought to have more weight with them than "that of one pro-German."

"Rope!" Some One Yells.

Just then some one hollered to get a rope and it looked as if something might happen. If George Houren hadn't volunteered to go back to the station and keep the fires away there's no knowing what might have happened.

The fifteen firemen stomped off home and five new firemen appointed at the meeting went with them. Their appointment cannot be confirmed until after they pass medical examination. The city fathers who were at the meeting are:

William C. Payne, Dan Nelson, H. S. Nelson, George W. Payott, R. R. Cuthbertson, and T. W. Hales.

FIREMEN QUIT AT ROCK ISLAND.

Rock Island, Ill., Sept. 19.—By Sunday Rock Island will be completely without fire protection unless there is some unexpected turn in the situation here. Yesterday every member of the fire department with the exception of the fire chief and his two assistants turned in their resignations to the city commission, all to take effect by Sunday morning. The present situation is the culmination of a wage dispute begun last spring.

Mrs. James Ward Thorne Loses a $3,500 Bracelet

The police last night were asked to search pawnshops for a diamond studded bracelet belonging to Mrs. James Ward Thorne of 1200 Lake Shore drive. The gem is worth $3,500. It was lost yesterday.

Mrs. J. Haines, secretary to Mrs. Thorne, made the request of the police.

M'ADOO PUTS STOP TO PLAN TO BOOST TAX

7 Billions for Army Not to Be Raised by Bigger Levy.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—The anxiety of administration leaders in congress over the revenue program was relieved today when Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo announced that he would not ask any increase in the $8,000,000,000 war tax bill to meet the war department's request for $7,000,000,000 more for the army.

The treasury department issued this statement today after a telephone conference between Secretary McAdoo and Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee:

"Secretary McAdoo stated today that it is not the intention of the treasury department to ask for more than $8,000,000,000 of taxes for the current fiscal year. He expressed the belief that it will survive to go further at the present time and that conditions then may develop in the future will [illegible] the question of further increase [illegible] taxation.

Talk to Continue.

As a result of this statement the scheduled conference between Secretary McAdoo and the secretary was called off. Mr. McAdoo will go to the capitol tomorrow, however, to meet with the house and senate conferees on the bill designed to stimulate the sale of Liberty bonds.

Indications tonight were that the revenue bill would be passed tomorrow by the house and sent to the senate Monday. The measure will be referred to the finance committee, which expects to be ready to make its report within several weeks.

Mr. McAdoo's statement indicates the abandonment of the policy of meeting one-third of the war appropriations by direct taxation, it was pointed out at the capitol today. It had been planned originally to meet war appropriations on the basis of 40 per cent of taxation and 60 per cent of bonds. This was later revised and made 33 1-3 per cent of taxation to 66 2-3 per cent of bonds.

Includes Loans to Allies.

In determining the proportion of taxes to bonds, congress hereafter will use as its basis of computation a sum deemed adequate to cover all actual expenditures plus loans to the allies, according to the present intention of leaders.

When the ways and means committee decided to agree with the treasury department in the raising of $8,000,000,000 by taxation it was on the calculation that the appropriations and loans to the allies for the present fiscal year would be approximately $24,000,000,000, or $2,000,000,000 a month.

Expenditures authorized and additional requests for money, however, have boosted the total of appropriations, authorizations, and loans to the allies close to the $37,000,000,000 mark.

Many senators do not believe it will be possible for the government to spend $24,000,000,000 during the present fiscal year.

PERSHING WIRES WILSON THANKS OF WHOLE ARMY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—In reply to the message of congratulations upon the victory of the American forces in the St. Mihiel salient sent by President Wilson, Gen. Pershing sent the following cablegram:

"Please accept the most sincere thanks of the American expeditionary forces for your stirring message of congratulations. Your words of commendation have been received with deep appreciation by all ranks and will inspire in us a higher sense of our obligations to our country.

"I assure you that it shall always be the endeavor of the army in France to prove worthy of the confidence of the American people."

Up in Air 28,000 Feet, Feat of Chicago Aviator

Canton, O., Sept. 19.—What is thought by Capt. R. W. Schroeder of Chicago to be a new record in altitude was made by him yesterday in a test airplane flight from the Dayton aviation field to Canton. He ascended more than 28,000 feet, his records show. He found a temperature of 22 degrees below zero centigrade. His finger tips were frozen.

BURGLAR SHOOTS STORE WATCHMAN WITH STOLEN GUN

Fired upon by a burglar intrenched in the firearms department of the Fair store last night, John Reder, 60 years old, a watchman, was wounded twice. Reder was shot through the left arm and wrist. The shooting brought Thomas McGlave, night superintendent, who found him on the floor.

The watchman caught the burglar in the act of piling revolvers upon a showcase on the second floor. As soon as the man perceived he was seen he fired, using a stolen gun. It is thought the same bullet made both wounds.

Reder, who lives at 1246 Cleaver street, was taken to a hospital. It was said his wounds were not dangerous. The burglar escaped by breaking a window, climbing out upon a fire escape, and dropping down into the alley in the rear of the store.

The only clew he left was an old greasy cap he dropped in his flight.

U.S. ORDERS QUEST FOR CAUSE OF NEW EPIDEMIC

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—Laboratories throughout the country were asked today by Surgeon General Rupert Blue of the United States public health service to aid in determining the exact nature of the micro-organism causing Spanish influenza.

It was well known, the surgeon general said, that the epidemic of influenza which swept a large part of Europe and the United States in 1893 was an infection caused by a very minute bacterium usually spoken of as "Pfeiffer's bacillus." It was important to know, he added, whether the present outbreak was due to the same kind of germ.

Girl Dressed as Jackie Attempts to Enter Camp

Waukegan, Ill., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—Miss Anna Brenner, a pretty girl from Hammond, Ind., was so attached to her sailor sweetheart that she donned his white cap and blouse yesterday, and with her hair doubled up under the jaunty cap, tried to enter a Great Lakes camp with him.

Vigilant agents of Lieut. Martin Fritman, provost marshal, detected her and she now is held at the Waukegan detention home. She said she merely wished to be with her sailor sweetheart.

GERMAN LABOR CENTERS CRY: "GIVE US PEACE"

Social Democrats Ask War's End; Fight On, Hindenburg Says.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 19.—Peace demonstrations organized by Social Democrats were inaugurated today at Essen and Cologne and in a large number of towns in Saxony, according to a dispatch from Cologne to the Dutch news papers. Thousands of persons are said to have attended the meetings.

It was reported that Chancellor Hertling today said an armistice is possible in the near future and that Germany is willing to consider the eastern frontier question.

Konstantin Fehrenback, president of the German reichstag, declared in a recent interview that it was not impossible to hope for an armistice before winter "despite the enemy's bellicose shouting." The interview was printed in the Rhenish Westphalian Gazette of Essen.

Says Army Must Fight On.

Field Marshal von Hindenburg has issued a proclamation to the German army in the field, according to the Zeitung am Mittag of Berlin, in which the German commander in chief alludes to the recent Austrian peace offer, saying that it does not involve an interruption in the war operations.

The field marshal adds that a readiness for peace is not in contradiction with the spirit with which Germany is waging the struggle. The proclamation says, in part:

[The proclamation evidently was issued before Hindenburg heard of President Wilson's "No."]

"Our ally has now made a fresh proposal to hold a discussion. The fighting will not be interrupted.

"Breaking the Enemy's Will."

"The army's task is to continue the struggle. In four victorious years of war the German army has energetically protected the homeland and proved to the enemy our invincibility. Only by this means do we help break the enemy's will to destruction.

"Vigilant agents of Lieut. Martin Fritman, provost marshal, detected her and she now is held at the Waukegan detention home. She said she merely wished to be with her sailor sweetheart.

"While continuing to fight, we have to wait to see whether the enemy is sincere and this time ready for peace negotiations, or whether he will again reject peace with us unless we are prepared to buy it on conditions which would destroy our people's future."

France's Reply to Vienna.

PARIS, Sept. 19.—An official note issued tonight says that Foreign Minister Pichon, in acknowledging to the Swiss minister the receipt of Austria's peace proposal, sent with his letter a copy of the official journal containing Premier Clemenceau's speech in the senate on Wednesday. This speech, he said, constituted France's reply to Vienna.

BRITAIN STIRRED BY ATTACK ON ELECTION PLAN

Chicago Tribune-New York Times Cable.
[Copyright: 1918.]

LONDON, Sept. 19.—Some sensation has been caused by a letter signed "Ex-Minister" published in the Times this morning, asking "Are we all going mad?" The writer, whose identity is the subject of much guesswork, Lord Rosebery's name being most frequently mentioned, considers that the immediate dissolution of parliament would be a source of dissipation, and adds:

"In the midst of the terrible stress of this gigantic war, perhaps at the supreme crisis of this war, when we are straining every muscle and making every sacrifice to concentrate on a struggle for life or death, are we really going to plunge Great Britain, and Ireland besides, into the disruptive chaos of a general election—a general election with all its dissipation of energy, its various incalculable issues, its distraction from the only purpose which signifies at this moment? It would really seem a plan of our enemies or our invisible hand, whatever that limb may be."

The Times makes no comment on the letter. Its publication arouses much speculation, for Lord Northcliffe generally has been understood to have been one of the strongest advocates of a general election this autumn.

DISTRESS CALLS FROM STEAMER

Quincy, Ill., Sept. 20.—Distress signals from a river steamer several miles above Quincy early this morning caught the ear of the bridgetender on the Burlington bridge, who notified the police. The police have manned a launch and left for the scene. It is believed that the signals came from the St. Paul, which took an excursion up the river early in the evening.

"Bomb" Thrown in Loop Proves Only Box of Snuff

When August Malm, 52 years old, of the St. Charles hotel, after denouncing the government, threw a pineapple shaped box on the sidewalk at La Salle and West Randolph streets last night the crowd scattered thinking it a bomb. Ald. Arvid Lofgren seized the package and discovered it contained Swedish snuff.

Doctors Doubt Recovery of Archbishop Ireland

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 19.—Archbishop John Ireland of the St. Paul diocese of the Roman Catholic church, who has been ill for a long time, is gradually becoming weaker, it was announced at his home here tonight. Tonight his physicians declared that they have grave doubts whether the archbishop would survive.

THE HAGUE, Sept. 19.—The Rheinisch Gazette reports that all the allied ministers, formerly at Jassy, war capital of Roumania, have been arrested in Petrograd, including the American minister, Vopicka.

(Charles Vopicka of Chicago was appointed as minister to the Balkan states and represented the United States in Bulgaria as well as Roumania. He left Jassy after Roumania made peace with Germany.)

GERMANS WARN ROUMANIA.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 19.—The North German Gazette, the German semi-official organ, reports that there is serious agitation in Jassy and the unoccupied parts of Roumania, in which the queen is the prime mover, to renew the association of Roumania with the entente. King Ferdinand, it is asserted, is holding aloof, but under certain circumstances might yield to the pressure.

The North German Gazette, and likewise the Rheinische Westphalian Gazette, which also prints the report, both warn the Roumanian government that it is assuming a great responsibility in countenancing the agitation.

TROOPS FIRE ON FOOD RIOTERS IN HUNGRY HOLLAND

Parade Streets, Attack Bread Wagons, Rob Bakeries.

Chicago Tribune-New York Times Cable.

THE HAGUE, Sept. 19.—Rioting has again broken out in the larger towns of Holland, because of the serious food conditions. Groups of men, women, and boys pass through the towns plundering bakers' carts and shops and demanding bread. All kinds of food wagons stuffs are plundered and shop windows are broken.

The streets of The Hague, Amsterdam, and Rotterdam are strongly patrolled by mounted police, and mounted troops have been sent to help maintain order. Shopkeepers are barricading their windows. In Amsterdam the infantry fired a number of volleys, six persons being injured. Twenty-two were arrested. A mob had first stoned the soldiers, and bricks had been thrown from roofs.

It is expected that much more serious disturbances will have to be coped with this winter unless food conditions improve.

Report Germany Had Off, Too.

Much is heard about Germany being on the verge of starvation. Conditions here, especially in the more densely populated districts, are similar to those in Germany, a fact confirmed by persons recently from Germany. Americans probably would be astonished if they realized how little the Dutch people have to live on.

It is practically impossible to live on the government rations, and there is little to buy outside the distribution. The people's sufferings are ascribed in some quarters to mistakes committed by a foolish and unforeseeing government and to the selfishness of the farmers, who have continued to export.

Hunger Unappeased.

The people are now actually hungry. Potatoes are the main means of subsistence, and there is not enough of these. The ration of bad bread is hardly sufficient for a meager breakfast, without coffee or tea. Half a pound of butter must suffice two weeks. There is practically no meat, although the "bone" system is supposed to make it possible to procure a quarter of a pound twice monthly.

Bread is much worse in quality and less in quantity than in Germany. The flour used for bread is not only musty from having laid too long on the shore in Amerika, but is now mixed with linseed potato flour, and various other indigestible ingredients. It was first intended to use this adulterated flour only for cattle.

Many Americans Rations.

The average rations are a half pound of cheese, a tenth of a pound of coffee, a half pound of butter every two weeks, also a half pound of sugar, and a bottle of a pound of oatmeal or barley monthly. There has been practically no meat for months. Eggs are now an event in the household, and cost 20 cents each. Butter by black market costs 60 a pound. Many Englishmen are obliged to economize with the rent they pack or [illegible] [illegible]

FRENCH SMASH CANAL DEFENSE; GET TWO TOWNS

St. Quentin Nearly Outflanked, North and South.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—More than 10,000 German prisoners and sixty guns already have been counted following the British offensive yesterday in the St. Quentin area, Field Marshal Haig reported tonight.

Furious counter attacks have been met and crushed on various parts of the sixteen mile front, it is announced, the heaviest fighting being in the region of Epehy and Gouzeaucourt. In these assaults the German losses have been extremely heavy, the night report says.

The French, three and a half miles southwest of St. Quentin, have fought their way over the St. Quentin canal and have captured the villages of Contescourt and Castres, the Paris official statement tonight announces. Further to the south the French also have occupied the village of Essigny, which is five miles due south of St. Quentin. The [illegible] of Essigny is on the east bank of the canal is counted as an important success.

In Old Positions.

The British armies are now in their old positions, facing and overlooking the Hindenburg line, and over some stretches have gained the enemy's old first line trenches, having driven the Germans to their support system.

In the vicinity of Villaret, it is unofficially reported, the British are holding more than two miles of the outpost line of the Hindenburg system.

As a result of the assault launched yesterday the situation of St. Quentin has become more menacing for the Germans. The British have pushed their front so far to the north of the city that a slight further advance will threaten to outflank it in this area.

Reach Near Cambrai.

The heaviest fighting on the British front early today was in the north, southwest of Cambrai. After an artillery bombardment of great intensity the Germans attacked over a wide front in the vicinity of Trescault. The British, however, completely repulsed the onslaught, inflicting heavy losses on the enemy.

Soon after the Germans threw forward strong infantry forces somewhat north of Mouvres and at places succeeded in entering the British trenches. Counter actions by Field Marshal Haig's men, however, immediately reestablished the positions.

In the battle for the Chemin des Dames Gen. Mangin's army has gained further ground northeast of Soissons. This ground is higher and therefore dominates the position, which is now less than half a mile away.

CLEAR OUT STRONGHOLD.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, Sept. 19.—2 p. m.—[By the Associated Press.]—Despite the serious menace which the British established yesterday over the Hindenburg line by their capture of ridges northwest of St. Quentin, the Germans this morning continued to nurse their grievances without renewing on a large scale their costly counter attacks of last evening.

Fighting still proceeded, particularly on the extreme flanks of the battle front, where the British were cleaning out strong points and straightening their line, but the initiative remained entirely with them.

That the situation created by the British seizure of the long Hindenburg outpost line and the dominating heights in front of it could not remain satisfactory for long caused a frequent [illegible]

Germans' Rear Menaced.

Whether the enemy would away further heavy counter attacks depended largely on the hourly distant reports coming to the command of the war correspondents following the Germans. Since they began their backward movement they have made the British fight for every inch of ground gained, and have contested every foot of the way with the utmost stubbornness.

The enemy's losses yesterday were enormous, both in the enemy fighting line and in the numerous counter attacks which were thrown in heavy masses to a desperate attempt to regain part of the lost position. The whole area of the long battle front is [illegible] with dead in the field [illegible] grown into a brilliant and important success which was not forecast in the original limited plans. Not the least important feature of the victory was the slaughter inflicted on the enemy forces, particularly during their frenzied counter attacks, when they were mowed down like wheat with the machine guns, or swallowed up in a maelstrom of crashing shells from the British barrage.

There were few spectacular incidents in yesterday's fighting, although the operation as a whole was spectacular enough when one considers that these gallant English and Australian veterans had in many places to fight their way up three lines of ridges, with valleys intervening, working forward doggedly over slimy ground in the face of a vicious machine gun and rifle fire from a myriad of strongholds and from numerous villages and hamlets, which had to be surrounded and crushed into submission.

Hard Fight at Holnon.

On the right flank there was especially bitter fighting about Holnon village. The British had captured part of this place the day before, but the Germans still held a section of it, with machine guns trained from every house. These had to be cleared out, and this had to be done systematically by small parties who dared the hostile fire and bombed the Huns out of their hiding places.

A far more serious engagement was waged east of the village, where the Germans had constructed a quadrilateral trench system, which was heavily armed. Here the contending forces struggled throughout the day at close quarters. The British toward evening gained a footing in the trenches and continued to press the attack during the night. Part of the system was still unsubdued this morning and it was being stormed.

Pockets of Quick Firers.

Throughout this sector there were pockets of German manned machine guns, and each of these garrisons was a legion unto itself. Between Holnon and Fresnoy-le-Petit were three little patches of woods. These fairly bristled with machine guns. They were finally cleared out, but it was a desperate adventure for those doughty English troops, who went charging through them amidst a hail of bullets and combed the occupants into silence.

The eastern part of Fresnoy was still in the hands of the enemy this morning, with the British holding the western section and pressing the defenders hard.

To the north in the center of the battle line the Australians pushed through to their final objectives, and even beyond, in some places, with their accustomed thoroughness and disregard for their personal fate. The overseas men worked around those villages which were strongly held and employed a heavy smoke barrage with great success.

Confused by Smoke.

Prisoners declare that because of this smoke screen they never knew where the Australians were going to strike next, and as a result there was more or less confusion among the Germans opposite them.

Le Verguier and Villeret were taken without much trouble, about Hargicourt, and Templeux-le-Guerard, however, there was hard fighting. There are numerous quarries in this section and these were filled with German machine gunners. The rangy Australians were about and amongst the enemy like a whirlwind and he was a lucky Hun who lived to take the long trail back to the prison camp.

The Australians had to negotiate three ridges here and on the last of these, which overlooked the Hindenburg line, the Germans made a determined "last ditch" stand.

Savage work characterised the fighting here, but the Germans were no match for the hard-hitting easterners and were forced to fall back little by little until they reached the outpost system to the Hindenburg line. This defense was heavily wired and strongly held. Back of it, on the eastern side of the canal, lay the main Hindenburg line of fortifications.

Charge Barbed Wire.

Against this outpost line the Australians advanced from their ridge without pause and charged into the barbed wire. The Germans were killed, captured or driven back in flight. The overseas men took twice as many prisoners as they had casualties.

Not only was the outpost line taken over, but in some places the British went further into Hunland than they had been before at this point since the war began.

The British advance was assisted by a novel innovation in the way of machine gun barrages. Two hundred and fifty rapid firers were brought up and concentrated at one point. These guns opened a terrific barrage, during which each one of them pumped 25,000 rounds of ammunition into the German defenses. The enemy was absolutely overwhelmed. In one small place, for example, 240 dead later were found.

BOCHE ARTILLERY STRONG.

LONDON, Sept. 19, via Montreal.—Correspondents at the front emphasize the stiffening of the enemy resistance, making yesterday's British advance all the more remarkable. German gun power is unusually strong, long range, high velocity guns being employed to draw a line of fire, almost equal to a barrage, across a wide extent of country. Hence, for the first time for a long period more British casualties are due to shell splinters than to machine gun bullets.

An important feature of the advance is that the British have not merely passed their old line of March 21 but have attained their greatest success near Bellicourt, where the St. Quentin canal, which is practically an integral part of the Hindenburg line, runs three or four miles underground. This tunnel begins near Bellicourt and ends near the village of Le Catelet. Lempire heights, commanding the tunnel, is largely in British hands.

DRIVE ON ST. QUENTIN.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN PICARDY, Sept. 18.—Delayed.—[By the Associated Press.]—The troops of the French army under Gen. Debeney, who pursued the Germans from the region of Montdidier, have, after a few days of comparative inactivity, successfully resumed their attacks in the region of St. Quantin in conjunction with the British.

The French have advanced close to Dallon, less than two miles from the western outskirts of St. Quentin. Here they are fighting the Germans on the Hindenburg line and every inch of the ground is being disputed stoutly by the enemy. Apparently the Germans are determined to hold the plateau which lies just west of St. Quentin, south of Francilly, east of Savy, and north of Dallon.

Gen. Mangin's army attacked along the front northeast of Soissons today and captured the Colombes farm on the plateau just east of Sarcy and just south of the point where the Chemin des Dames branches off from the road leading from Soissons to Laon.

A strong counter attack led by grenadiers of the Prussian guard was repulsed by the French, who drove the enemy back of the road leading from the plateau of Ange Gardiens to the Colombes farm. This road is less than a half mile from the Chemin des Dames.

This success puts the French in possession of part of the important plateau of Ange Gardiens, which commands the ridge along which runs the famous "Ladies' Way" for a considerable distance.

The earthworks of the Hindenburg line are stronger than anything of this kind hitherto constructed, but the soldiers behind them have not today the same fighting spirit that they had a year or even six months ago.

ALLIES CONTINUE ADVANCE IN MACEDONIA

1—London reports Serbians, assisted by French and Greek detachments, have advanced more than twelve miles and recovered forty-five villages and important heights.

2—Sofia reports heavy artillery firing near Lake Doiran. British attacks were repulsed.

AMERICANS TAKE FOUR PRISONERS WITHOUT A SHOT

WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES IN LORRAINE, Sept. 19.—[By the Associated Press.]—Four German prisoners have been brought in and delivered to the officers of the American intelligence department for interrogation without a shot having been fired. An officer and a patrol of fifteen men were checked one night by wire which had been electrified. The patrol returned the next night with material to bridge the wires. It was raining, however, and the Germans had turned off the current.

The patrol crossed the wires, came to another wire, and wandered through an abandoned communication trench until a sentry was encountered. One of the Americans, addressing the sentry in German, succeeded in obtaining the counter sign before the sentry discovered the American's identity.

With the sentry a prisoner, the patrol moved on until a second sentry was met. This German recognized the Americans and fled to his dugout. The Americans battered down the door and captured him and two of his comrades.

BULGARS FLEE, USE TORCH, FOR TWELVE MILES

Serbs and French Take Forty-five Towns in Balkans.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—The Bulgarians are in flight in Macedonia and are burning stores and villages, according to a Serbian official statement received here.

The allied troops now have advanced more than twelve miles and their progress is so rapid that they have not been able to count the prisoners and war material taken. New regiments thrown in by the Bulgarians have been forced to retreat with the others.

The Serbian and French troops have taken the towns of Topolcta, Potshishta, Beshishta, Melynitsa, Vitolishta and Rasimbey, and thirty-nine other villages and towns. They have also taken the height of Knehov Kamen.

Bulgars Flee in Disorder.

PARIS, Sept. 19.—Describing the operations in Macedonia under date of Sept. 19, the war office communication tonight says:

"On Sept. 17 and 18 the allied armies in the east greatly extended the successes of the two preceding days. The Bulgarian divisions engaged on the front of the attack retreated in disorder on the Cerna. Our troops, in their pursuit, have reached the Cerna on one part of its course and have occupied in the mountainous zone Gyurov Kamen and Chazerna, have crossed the Belashnitsa river and gone beyond the region of Rojden, as well as the Blatets massif.

"The enemy left behind prisoners and considerable material, which have not yet been enumerated.

"In the region of Lake Doiran British and Greek troops likewise have carried forward an attack and gained a foothold in the enemy first positions notwithstanding stubborn resistance. A great number of prisoners have already fallen into their hands. The attack continues."

Sofia Statement Denies.

SOFIA, Wednesday, Sept. 18, via London, Sept. 19.—"Between the village of Gradeshnitza and the Jojorik heights," says the official statement issued today by the Bulgarian war office, "violent infantry fighting, lasting the entire day, occurred in front of our new positions. Repeated enemy attacks were repulsed.

"Near Lake Doiran, on the eastern section of the Macedonian front, there was heavy artillery firing by both sides.

AIRPLANE STRUTS WEAK, U. S. HOLDS GERMAN WORKER

New York, Sept. 19.—Following the discovery that dangerously defective airplane wing struts were being turned out in the plant of the Curtiss Engineering company at Garden City, an employe of the company, who gave the name of Edward F. Marchenet, was taken into custody tonight by New York agents of the Enemy Alien bureau. His wife also was held.

Federal authorities say they have information that the man, who claims he is a native American, was born in Prussia, that his real name is Marschneider, and that he has been in the employ of the German government since 1907.

Both the man and his wife are held on charges of failing to register under the enemy alien law, pending a further investigation. It is asserted that a number of wing struts made recently at the Curtiss plant in Garden City were made in two pieces, cleverly brazed over, but so weak that they would break in the air when a heavy strain was put on them.

VISIT OF UKRAIN CHIEF PLEASES KAISER WILHELM

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 19.—Gen. Skoropadski, the Ukrainian dictator, has returned to Kiev from Berlin. Before leaving on his trip to Kiev he sent a farewell telegram to Emperor William, who, according to a Berlin dispatch, replied as follows:

"I am very pleased that you take with you satisfactory impressions and that you have convinced yourself of the interest and sympathy with which the rennaissance of the Ukrainian people is viewed here. Your establishment of personal relations with those in authority in Germany will, I trust, conduce to mutual confidence and understanding and facilitate further collaboration."

French Chamber Passes New 4 Per Cent Loan

PARIS, Sept. 19.—A new loan bill was passed today by the chamber of deputies and the senate. The amount of the loan is unlimited. It is at 4 per cent and runs for twenty-five years. Besides French rente certificates and national defense bonds Russian bonds will be accepted in payment to the extent of half the subscription.

Vienna Munition Blaze Kills Many, Official Report

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 19.—Many persons have been killed or injured in a fire in the Woellersdorf ammunition factory in Vienna, according to an official report received here. After the fire there was a panic among the workers in the shell making section of the factory.

BATTLE STATEMENTS

FRENCH REPORT

PARIS, Sept. 19.—The war office statement tonight reads:

We extended our gains notwithstanding the enemy's stubborn resistance, and advanced beyond Contescourt, which is entirely in our hands. We also captured Castres. We have reached the outskirts of Benay.

We broke all counter attacks on the plateau to the west of Jouy (Soissons sector), inflicting severe losses on the enemy, appreciably increasing our advance and capturing 100 prisoners.

EARLY REPORT

In the region of St. Quentin the French troops continued their progress and have penetrated Contescourt, which the enemy is defending with desperation.

North of the Aisne there was heavy artillery activity. A strong German counter attack in the region of the Moisy farm was without result. Our troops maintained their positions completely and inflicted losses on the attackers.

We have repulsed several German raids in the Champagne and along the Meuse.

BRITISH REPORT

LONDON, Sept. 19.—The war office statement tonight reads:

Further reports confirm the heavy nature of the counter attack which the enemy delivered yesterday afternoon north of Trescault and the severity of the losses inflicted on his divisions, including the Sixth Brandenburg division.

Fighting has taken place today in the sector east of Epehy and also in the neighborhood of Gouzeaucourt, where we gained ground north of Gauche wood.

On the remainder of the battle front only local engagements are reported.

We captured a few prisoners today in local fighting south of Auchy-Les-La Bassee, and improved our positions slightly west of Wytschaete (in Flanders). Hostile raiding parties were repulsed east of Neuve Chapelle and north of the Ypres-Comines canal.

The prisoners taken by us in the operations begun yesterday northwest of St. Quentin exceed 10,000. We also captured over sixty guns.

Yesterday the enemy aircraft activity was slight. Four hostile planes were brought down and three others were driven down out of control. Four of our machines are missing.

Our planes kept in touch with the advancing troops and assisted in the attack by bombing and with machine gun fire as well as by reporting many targets to the artillery. During the twenty-four hours sixteen tons of bombs were dropped.

EARLY REPORT

Yesterday afternoon a violent bombardment from a large number of guns was opened by the enemy on the northern portion of the battle front, between Gouzeaucourt and the Arras-Cambrai road. Telephone communication with the divisions in the line was rapidly cut by the intensity of the hostile fire.

At 5 o'clock in the evening German infantry attacked in strength on a wide front from the neighborhood of Trescault northward. At all points they were completely repulsed with great loss by troops of the guards of the Third and Thirty-second divisions. Another strong attack delivered shortly afterward north of Mesnyres also was driven off with heavy German losses. At certain localities bodies of the enemy succeeded in reaching and entering our trenches, where they were overwhelmed by counter attacks.

In all such localities our line has been re-established and is intact.

Many prisoners have been taken by our troops and great numbers of German dead are lying before our positions on the whole front of the enemy attack.

South of Gouzeaucourt the operations of the Third and Fourth British armies continued successful yesterday evening and last night. English troops progressed north of Pontruet, reaching the outpost positions of the Hindenburg line in this sector.

On the left the Fourth Australian division renewed the attack at 11 o'clock at night and carried the outpost positions of the Hindenburg line after heavy fighting. Many prisoners and a number of machine guns were taken in this successful operation.

This division and the first Australian division now hold the outpost positions of the Hindenburg line on the whole of their respective fronts.

Further north severe fighting has taken place east of Ronssoy and Epehy. We have gained possession of Lempire and beaten off determined hostile counter attacks.

In the Villers-Guislain sector the division which in yesterday's advance took several hundred prisoners recaptured Gauche wood, which the enemy had regained by a counter attack. Late in the afternoon it repulsed with heavy losses a strong counter attack launched by the enemy from Villers-Guislain. At Gauche wood repeated attacks delivered by the enemy in the afternoon and evening were repulsed.

By a successful local operation carried out yesterday morning we improved our positions south and east of Ploegsteert (Flanders) and captured a number of prisoners.

AMERICAN REPORT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—Gen. Pershing's communique today says:

Headquarters, American Expeditionary Forces, Sept. 19.

Section A—In the Woevre our detachments made a successful raid into the enemy's lines, capturing fifteen prisoners. In the Vosges a hostile raiding party was repulsed with losses.

GERMAN REPORT

BERLIN, via London, Sept. 19.—The official communication from headquarters this evening says:

On yesterday's battle front between Havrincourt wood and the Somme the British limited themselves to violent partial attacks, which were repulsed everywhere.

EARLY REPORT

After fluctuating fighting on the front between Gouzeaucourt and Hargicourt yesterday, the towns of Epehy and Ronssoy remained in the enemy's hands.

Further south the German positions were penetrated by the Australians, but after hard fighting the latter were brought to a halt west of Bellicourt and Bellenglise.

Between the Omignon rivulet and the Somme, English troops attacked in cooperation with the French. Using strong forces they attempted to break through our lines at St. Quentin and north of that town. The engagements, which lasted until evening, ended in complete failure for the enemy. In vigorous fighting the enemy was driven back to the positions from which his started. Here East Prussian regiments and the Alsace-Lorrainian infantry regiment No. 60 distinguished themselves.

South of the Somme a French partial attack failed. On a thirty-five kilometer wide front of attack we ascertained by means of prisoners the presence of fifteen enemy divisions.

Between the Ailette and Aisne rivers the artillery duels increased in intensity in the afternoon. Vigorous partial attacks, which were especially directed against our lines on both sides of the Laffaux-Chivignon road, were repulsed.

In the Cotes-Lorraine the fighting activity was revived. There were minor foretield engagements. During a thrust against Manheulles (northwest of Fresnes), we took prisoners.

Greeks and Frenchmen Draftable Under Treaty

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—Draft treaties between the United States and Greece and between this country and France were ratified today by the senate. They were identical, following the general provisions of the recent agreement with Great Britain, and furnish a method by which Greeks and Frenchmen residing here can be drafted into the army.

Civil War Veterans Talk of Thierry and St. Mihiel

Chateau Thierry and St. Mihiel replaced Gettysburg and Appomattox as topics of discussion yesterday when 200 or more civil war veterans assembled at Wheaton for the annual reunion of Du Page county Grand Army men. Alongside the G. A. R. pins on many of the blue coats were service star bars. Speakers included former Gov. Joseph Fifer, Bishop Samuel Fallows, George Roger, Harlow V. Holt, Richard H. Peterson, and B. N. Armstrong.

Arrest Ten for Fraud in Big U. S. Army Contracts

New York, Sept. 19.—Charged with conspiracy to defraud the government, ten employes, and government inspectors at the factory of Rosenwasser Brothers Inc., Long Island City, which has army contracts totaling $8,907,000, were arrested tonight by agents of the department of justice. Warrants also have been issued for Leo Rosenwasser, president of the corporation, and his brother Morris.

Conservation and Clothes

"An Editorial"

IN ORDER that the government may devote the maximum amount of materials and labor to the production of war essentials it is imperative that every individual regulate purchases for his own use according to his needs.

Just how much clothing, for instance, one should buy is a matter of personal conscience and decision, but we believe every patriotic American can and will do with less than in normal times.

In announcing our complete Fall Exhibit of Men's Apparel we wish to emphasize the fact that Capper & Capper quality clothes are directly in line with practical conservation. By giving longer service, retaining a dressy appearance until worn out, they undoubtedly are the most economical clothes to buy.

Select clothing this fall conscientiously and with discrimination. It is a time to adhere to proven standards. You who have worn Capper & Capper clothes know their high rank in woolens and workmanship. This Season's Exhibit is just as worthy of complete confidence, and, at our fair prices, offers clothing buyers the opportunity to practice conservation without sacrificing appearance.

YANK CANNON POUND ENEMY DESPITE RAIN

Patrols Work Far Toward German Lines; Weather Bars Airmen.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE LORRAINE FRONT, Sept. 19.—6 p. m.—[By the Associated Press.]—Clouds, from which rain poured most of the time, covered the sector north of St. Mihiel like a blanket today, forcing the allied airmen to cease their punishment of the Germans.

Patrols were active, carrying out operations far beyond the line and occasionally the enemy's artillery fired violently and blindly into the sector.

Boche Raid Fails.

At midnight a raid was made by the Germans against the American line near Vandieres, northwest of Pont-a-Mousson, at the same place where the first early morning attack was directed against the American outposts on the edge of Rappes wood. No prisoners were taken and it is doubtful if any information was taken back by the raiders.

Three of the five American airplanes lost yesterday were those belonging to a bombing formation which dropped two tons of explosives on German troops near Mars-la-Tour, south of Conflans. The group was attacked by ten enemy machines. One German airplane dropped. Caught at a disadvantage the Americans separated and three of the planes were brought down in flames.

No Heart to Attack.

It would appear that the Germans are convinced that further attacks at an early date are improbable and they themselves have neither the ability nor the heart to counter attack. The situation rapidly has become like that on all sectors where both sides are content to harass each other day in and day out.

A bombardment that is heavy enough at times to be called a barrage is laid down early in the morning. It is followed by another some hours later. The remainder of the day is devoted to occasional shots and attempts against the active allied airplanes.

Battered Units Relieved.

American observers, both aerial and those at fixed posts, report decreased activity behind the German lines. This is taken to indicate that the units battered in the American advance have been relieved by fresher troops.

Shells from German 77 calibre guns are pounding the American forward positions, while those from the 105s and the 150s are falling in the back areas. From time to time the shells reach points throughout the sector, but only at rare intervals does the enemy fire give the impression that a concerted effort is being made.

The enemy is entrenched in the second lines of the Hindenburg system, and the Americans are in their new positions facing them. The enemy is entirely on the defensive.

GERMANS FEAR AMERICANS.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE LORRAINE FRONT, Wednesday, Sept. 18. — [By the Associated Press.] — Fear lest the Americans would advance and overwhelm them, bitter complaint at bad food, and general despondency at the prospects of the war are the keynotes of letters written home by German soldiers and found on their persons when they were captured.

A certain American division which took more than its quota of prisoners has made an exhaustive examination of these letters and found that the morale, even of the men in the Tenth Bavarian regiment—conceded to be the best opposing the Americans—is decidedly low, if it can be judged from private letters never intended for American consumption.

Looks Bad for Germany.

"It looks very bad for our dear Germany," writes one soldier to his wife. "Who knows whether the Americans will break through?"

Another soldier wrote: "The men are so embittered that they have no interest in anything, and they only want the war to end no matter how. We are only slaves of the government."

Five prisoners captured near the village of Woel today, who belonged to the Fourteenth storm battalion, agreed that even these crack troops are discouraged by the Franco-American successes north of the Marne and around St. Mihiel.

One prisoner, a Socialist, said the civilians in Germany are discouraged with the way the war is going and look upon the struggle as a capitalistic effort. There is great depression in all parts of Germany as the result of the recent successes of the British, French, and Americans, he said.

"Germans everywhere are at last realizing the fact that the Americans are good fighters," he continued. "They appreciate the fact that the American successes are encouraging to the allies and discouraging to the German soldiers." He said that the German troops estimated the American equal to the Germans as they were in 1914.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS' HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Sept. 19.—Yesterday was one of the great days of battle for the British. Nearly everywhere on the line of attack they gained their objective and now overlook the enemy's main defenses of the Hindenburg line. North of St. Quentin fierce counter attacks were launched by the enemy against Gauche wood and near Villers Guislan not once only but many times.

These were crushed by the Seventeenth division with superb courage. They averted a dangerous situation in a critical hour. This division has been fighting incessantly since Aug. 8, when they waded across the Ancre, fought on day by day, week after week, with a battle every day, until they have again reached the very line from which they fell back on March 21.

Attack North of Mouvres.

On the left of the line of battle, or rather outside its boundary, the enemy made a formidable attack north of Mouvres and against Havrincourt after a tremendous bombardment. Reinforced by the Sixth German division, they advanced in depth with a determined spirit. They were ordered to break the British lines by their commanders, who realised perfectly that they cannot sit down in the Hindenburg line and let disaster overtake them so constantly without losing all power over their troops, and suffering a worse defeat.

This counter attack was made after a council of despair, to deal the British a heavy and demoralizing blow. The enemy brought up some forty batteries.

They flung down a frightful line of fire and advanced under its cover, but they were against Britishers, who were resolved to hold their ground. The Guards were there and the glorious old Third division, heroes of the defense of Arras in April last, and of many battles, and they maintained their positions by a steady rifle and machine gun fire, supported by field batteries who found quick targets among these masses of Germans and slaughtered them.

Expelled from Poels.

The enemy was able to get into some of our advanced positions, but at tragic cost of life and blood, and was expelled from all ground gained towards the end of the day, when his dead lay thick there. This complete failure piled up losses which the enemy suffered yesterday in all parts of the field.

There were many astounding episodes of fighting and the enemy's defense revealed many varied states of courage and fear among his troops. Their Alpine corps on each side of Epehy fought with the most fierce valor, and did not yield anywhere until they were utterly overcome. In other parts of the field, groups of machine gunners and infantry held out in isolated positions, in small woods, houses, in ruined village earthworks, in old trench lines, and continued to fire.

Fortify Old Tanks.

Troops following the first waves had a good deal of trouble with them. In Gauche wood German machine gunners established themselves in four derelict British tanks and made forts of them. Here they held out for some hours, sweeping the area around them with machine gun bullets. Some of our men believed they were German tanks.

Not realizing the meaning of these armored shelters, several times the Seventeenth division was forced back through Gauche wood, but every time they thrust the enmy out and at the end of the day were in possession.

South of Villers Guslian on Chapel hill the British captured two officers and fifty men and captured four machine guns which had not fired a shot, so quickly had the British battalions surrounded them. Here as in other parts of the line the troops advanced under the cover of a dense smoke screen and the enemy was confused as to direction of attack and the whereabouts of the attackers.

One unit alone took 70 prisoners with a loss up to that time of only six wounded.

CLEMENCEAU AND FOCH SEND U. S. MESSAGES BY CORNELL CHIEF

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—President Jacob Gould Schurman of Cornell university, who arrived here today after three months' tour of England and France, said he asked Premier Clemenceau for a message to the American people and that the premier replied:

"We make war to the end—to the very end of the end."

The next day President Schurman met Marshal Foch and asked for a similar message, and the generalissimo replied:

"Tell the Americans to send as many men as possible and as quickly as possible, because the more men they send the sooner we will bring the war to an end. The American soldiers are fine soldiers."

ITALIANS ATTACK HUNS ON BRENTA; RAID ELSEWHERE

ROME, Sept. 19.—The war office communication issued today says:

"In the mountain region, astride the Brenta, we carried out this morning successful surprise attacks. On the Asiago plateau our troops penetrated two portions of hostile intrenchments north of the line of Cima di Val-Brenta-Col del Rosso. Forty prisoners were taken.

"South of Col Caprile during a sudden raid of the enemy's positions more than ninety prisoners were taken.

"Tuesday night three attempted enemy attacks east of Mont Petrical failed.

"In Albania, north of Pojani, our patrols had small encounters with the enemy and took prisoners."

The Austrian Communique.

VIENNA, Sept. 19, via London.—The following official communication was issued by the war office today:

"Between the Brenta and the Piave, after the severe failures of the previous days, the enemy has discontinued his attacks.

GERMANS PLACE YANK CAPTIVES IN CENTRAL CAMP

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 19.—Rastatt, Baden, has been designated by the German war ministry as the central camp for American prisoners of war. The camp is situated at a point where the Rhine valley reaches the outer fringes of the Black forest, near Baden-Baden.

At present there are about 1,000 Americans interned in this camp, part of whom were in the fighting that has been going on since July 15, Sergt. Edgar M. Halyburton of Stony Point, N. C., has been elected their captain.

Capt. C. W. Maxson of Baltimore, Md., and Capt. Howard H. Kane of Washington, captured this spring, are both confined in the officers' camp at Rastatt, this camp being entirely independent of that where the privates are confined.

E. M. Roberts of Iroquis, S. D., who was blinded, is confined in the camp hospital. He was the eighteenth American to be taken and the first to lost his sight. He was captured Feb. 9.

GERMANS CLAIM WILSON'S WHIP DRIVES ALLIES

Chicago Tribune-New York Times Cable.

THE HAGUE, Sept. 19.—As was to be expected, Austria is made to bear the brunt of blame for the failure of the German peace offer. Having first expressed great surprise, the German press is now venting its wrath on Austria.

Even members of the German legation at The Hague pretended to be astounded and depressed at the news of the offer, although the correspondent learns on excellent authority that the Germans first endeavored to mobilize the Dutch government into intervening for peace. The Dutch refused so the Austrian scheme was resorted to.

Another peace offer in one form or another may be expected shortly from Germany. One thing which appears to cause astonishment is that the American and British newspapers treat the proposal as a German offer. The Austrian Reichspost in the meantime states that Austria sent the note after a conference with her ally, Germany, and in full agreement as to the appropriateness of the time for sending it.

Paints Wilson as Czar.

The Lokal Anzeiger points out that the Swedish minister handed the note to the American government. Before Secretary Lansing's official declaration was made it was hoped that the British government would take another viewpoint than that taken by Balfour.

"There was, in fact, definite information from London," the paper adds. "Probably Wilson made the decision over the heads of his allies and without considering them." The paper points to the promptness of the American answer, and says while London and Paris still were considering if the note should be answered jointly as the attitude of the whole entente, Wilson rushed out his answer. The paper says this shows that President Wilson has the entente in his pocket.

"Austria will now see that no agreement is possible between Austro-Hungary and America," the paper concludes.

Force to Uttermost.

"Wherever we look," the paper continues, "we see force, uttermost force, and no inclination for peace; nowhere a spirit of peace by conciliation, but merely the idea that Austria's peace offer is a sign of weakness.

"Nowhere is the offer taken honestly, and it will only have the effect of uniting the allies into a firmer block. Even voices from America do not recognise anything but a dictated peace, and if these represent the public opinion of the allied nations we can no longer count on any neutral power that would dare oppose America in influencing the world for peace. [This doubtless refers to the attempt to make Holland propose peace.]

"This has been shown on various occasions. It is evident that President Wilson will not give up his destructive policy."

PLAIN BURGLARY

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, Sept. 19.—[By the Associated Press.]—A striking example of German looting is found at the Vaubuin hospital, near Soissons, which was established and manabed by Mlle. Canton-Baccarat. Before the building was demolished by German shells it was completely sacked by German officers, the principal offender being an army surgeon whose name is known and has been placed on file for future reference.

Although supposedly under the protection of the Red Cross, this hospital was robbed of everything it contained, including 50,000 francs in money and securities from Mlle. Baccarat's safe, framed pictures and photographs, for which coarse caricatures were substituted. Linen bedclothes, laboratory instruments, and supplies valued at $300,000 and donated by Americans were taken.

All the finer objects were shipped to Germany and the ordinary hospital beds went to the dugouts of German artillery officers around Soissons. Two hundred of these have been recovered since the region has been reoccupied.

'Happy and Free Future' Is Kaiser's Goal Just Now

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 19.—To the Christian Metal Workers' union of Essen, Emperor William, according to the Lokal Anzeiger of Berlin, has telegraphed his gratification of their avowal of unshakable loyalty to the emperor and the empire. The emperor says he is confident "that with God's help the united strong will of the entire German people, ready for all sacrifices, will accomplish the attainment of a happy and free future."

PITCH "BIG TOPS" FOR WAR BENEFIT AT GRANT PARK

Circus Opens Today; Morning Parade Will Be First in Years.

Circus day is here. The Wallace-Hagenbeck shows will begin a short engagement at Grant park this afternoon for the benefit of the Stage Women's War Relief. Two performances, afternoon and evening, will be given daily.

Pioneer residents of Chicago, as they stood in Grant park yesterday afternoon watching the "flying squadron" of the circus at work, recalled that the last circus performance given on the lake front was more than twenty years ago.

Downtown Chicago will be treated to its first circus parade in more than a score of years this morning. The parade, augmented by floats from various theatrical associations, will move through the downtown streets.

Women in Parade.

One hundred or more members of the relief association will march in the parade this morning. A plan is on foot, if sufficient funds can be raised, to establish in Chicago a service home for soldiers and sailors where for 25 cents a man in uniform can get a night's lodging and a breakfast.

The entire proceeds of the post-season performance at Grant park will be donated to the war relief. The Wallace-Hagenbeck performers and workmen have a tender spot in their hearts for the women of the organization. When the injured and dying lay in hospitals in Gary and Hammond after the collision between a Michigan Central train and a section of the circus train, scores of members of the Stage Women's War relief hurried from Chicago to give comfort and aid.

Route of Procession.

The parade will start at the show grounds in Grant park and go over Van Buren street viaduct to Michigan avenue, south on Michigan avenue to Twentieth street, west on Twentieth street to State street, north on State street to Adams, west on Adams street to La Salle street, north on La Salle street to Randolph street, east on Randolph street to State street, south on State street to Monroe street, east on Monroe street to and over Monroe street viaduct into show grounds.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—Extension of an additional credit of $100,000,000 to Italy was announced today by the treasury, bringing the total credits advanced to that nation up to $860,000,000 and the total credits to the allies to $7,203,706,666.

FOE DROPS TEXT OF PEACE OFFER IN FRENCH LINES

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, Sept. 19.—[By the Associated Press.]—Aviators flying over the region of Epernay on the night of Sept. 16 dropped leaflets reproducing the Austro-Hungarian peace conference proposal in French.

There are no Austrian aviators on the western front, so far as is known. It is supposed, therefore, that the leaflets were dropped by German airmen with the object of starting a movement in favor of the proposal.

The only result of this propaganda has been to raise the presumption that while the proposal is referred to in Germany as an "isolated action" on the part of Austria, the German army at least approves it.

Bostonian Shoes for Men

Style 715—$8.50
The Civilian Last

HERE are facts that we can't tell you too often, or emphasize too strongly: The great economy of Bostonian Shoes is in the extra wear that quality gives. Quality of leather and workmanship, joined with foot form design and fine appearance, give the shoe service that you men seek who are earnestly striving to conserve and save.

There's a wonderful value in the shoe illustrated today, Style 715, at $8.50. This is a Tony red Russia lace shoe, designed along modified military lines, obtainable with plain or tip toe. Either with this shoe, or any other one of the Bostonian line at $6.50 to $11.00, you can count upon "extra wear" and the greatest comfort of any shoe you ever wore.

Finances of Brisbane Deal.

In support of the charges relating to Arthur Brisbane's purchase of the Washington Times, personally and not as the representative of William Randolph Hearst, Mr. Palmer said he had the originals of six checks aggregating $400,000 drawn by C. W. Feigenspan, a wealthy New Jersey brewer, and payable to the Federal Trust company of Newark, N. J.; a check for $25,000 of Mr. Feigenspan payable to Robert Crain, and five drafts for $345,000 of the Federal Trust company on the American Exchange National bank.

"These drafts," said Mr. Palmer, "are indorsed as follows:

"'Pay to the order of A. Thursby, Growing Circulation corporation, per L. B. Krause, vice president. For deposit pay to Equitable Trust company, Alice B. Thursby, per L. B. Krause, secretary.'

"A. Thursby is evidently Alice Brisbane Thursby, whose address, according to the record at the Equitable Trust company, is care Arthur Brisbane, 238 William street.

"The corporation directory for the year 1917 shows the following.

"'Growing Circulation corporation (N. Y.). Capital, $10,000. Office, 140 Nassau street. Telephone Rector 1502. Directors, William A. Dated, John T. Sturdevant, Thomas E. McEntegart. Further information unattainable. Trucking.'"

The Growing Circulation company gave a five year note for $200,000 to Feigenspan. Mr. Palmer submitted a copy of the following receipt by Mr. Brisbane:

Newark, N. J., June 21, 1917.—Received from C. W. Feigenspan, trustee, on account of note given for $200,000 by the Growing Circulation company: $25,000, $235,000, total $260,000.

This two hundred and sixty thousand dollars to be used in the purchase of Mr. Munsey's newspaper in Washington by me. The balance $40,000 (forty thousand dollars), to be paid in the near future.

A. BRISBANE.

Contributed by Twenty-Two Brewers.

That the brewers contributed the fund for the purchase of the Times, Mr. Palmer showed by the following letter:

Newark, N. J., April 1, 1918.—Robert Crain, Esq., Munsey Building, Washington, D. C.—My Dear Bob: All told I have received the following amounts from the following gentlemen:

George Ehret	$50,000	Reuter & Co.	15,000
C. Feigenspan	25,000	A. J. Houghton
J. Liebmann	25,000	Co.	10,000
J. C. G. Hupfel	7,500	Wm. Hamm	10,000
Jacob Ruppert	50,000	G. Pabst	50,000
Jos. R. Uhlein	50,000	Fred Miller
Edw. Landsberg	15,000	Brewing Co.	15,000

(Shares for this check to be made up as follows: E. G. Miller, $3,000; F. A. Miller, $3,000; E. P. Miller, $3,000; Mrs. C. A. Miller, $3,000; Mrs. E. K. John, $3,000.)

C. Schmidt & Sons	5,000	U. S. B. A.	30,000
F. A. Pabst & Sons	15,000	U. S. B. A. adv.	25,000
Bergner & Engel	10,000	Total	$407,500

Total advanced to the Growing Circulation Co. $375,000

Difference, cash on hand, including $25,000 advanced by the advertising fund ..... $ 32,500

I hold a memorandum in the shape of a note, given to me by the Growing Circulation company, a copy of which is inclosed. The difference of $75,000 which you will note between these two items is the matter to which I called your attention at the last meeting, and for which no note has as yet been given to me.

I was called on the telephone the same afternoon that you were in New York, but the party stated that he would see you in Washington, as his phone message to me was after the time of the leaving of your train. Yours very truly, C. W. FEIGENSPAN.

Quotes Brewer's Statement.

Mr. Palmer also quoted a statement by Brewer Feigenspan, who said:

"During the month of June, 1917, to the best of my recollection, the matter of the Washington Times became of mutual interest to Mr. Arthur Brisbane and a number of brewers. Mr. Brisbane, as I have been informed by him, had an option to purchase the Washington Times from Mr. Frank A. Munsey for a sum which I recall as being $500,000. The terms of the sale, as I recall them, were that $250,000 was to be paid down, the balance to be paid in installments of $50,000 each and every six months.

"In order to bring about the purchase of the Washington Times, I, at various times, advanced Mr. Brisbane funds through the Growing Circulation corporation, a corporation which I believe is either owned or controlled by Mr. Brisbane."

No Interest on Money.

In a letter to Brisbane, written June 29, 1917, Feigenspan said:

"It is understood that, after a period of five years, you will repay to me and my associate, at your discretion and convenience, on account of the principal, so much of the profits as may be derived from such newspaper as may, in your judgment, be taken out of the business without interfering with its proper operation and development; and that you shall be under no liability whatsoever for repayment of the sums contributed other than out of such profits.

"It is understood that no interest shall be paid upon this money, our claim to be satisfied in full upon the repayment of the principal without interest.

"You may, of course, repay part or all of the principal at any time and in any manner you may choose, and our agreement with you shall not be considered as giving me or my associates any interest whatsoever in said enterprise. Should you sell the paper at any time you will repay to us, up to the full amount of the princi, l that we may have advanced, any sums received by you in payment for the paper."

Brisbane to Pay Interest.

Mr. Brisbane, who is chief editorial writer for the Hearst papers and editor of the Hearst morning paper in Chicago, the Herald-Examiner, in addition to being publisher of the Washington Times, said last night that he intended to repay not only the principal to Feigenspan, but the interest also.

HALTS PURCHASE OF WAR BONDS AT LOW RATES

Government agents have notified Edward J. Mitchell, 6 East Thirty-first street, that he could not send out notices that he was prepared to pay cash for Liberty bonds and payment cards.

Miss Grace Shelby entered one complaint against him. She had been buying a $50 bond at the Lincoln State bank, 3705 South State street, and received a card from Mitchell offering to take over her contract. She said: "I called upon Mr. Mitchell, who advised me that he would pay me $24.50 for my $39.50 receipt, which I declined."

Mitchell said: "I got the names from an old list and from the directory. Government agents told me I could not send out notices, so I quit."

FRANCE BARES FULL STORY OF RUSSIA COMPACT

BY CHARLES H. SELDEN.
Chicago Tribune-New York Times Cable.
[Copyright: 1918.]

PARIS, Sept. 19.—The French government released for publication today the long expected Yellow Book, containing the hitherto confidential diplomatic documents which reveal the origin and development of the Franco-Russian alliance. The documents are remarkable in showing the French estimates as to just what Germany would and could do as a belligerent against France.

The Yellow Book consists of 107 letters, exchanged mostly between Qual Dorsay and the successive French ambassadors in Petrograd. It is divided into four chapters dealing respectively with the origins of alliance, August, 1890, to January, 1892; elaboration of the military convention between the two nations during 1892; conclusion of the military convention in 1892, and the naval agreement between France and Russia of 1912.

They constitute diplomatic narratives of first class political and historical importance.

Proves German Claim False.

A little more than a year ago, when George Michaelis, then German imperial chancellor, had obtained power to examine the confidential archives of the Russian government, he revealed to the world an agreement concluded between France and Russia through Doumergue on the subject of the future eastern frontier of France. This document was used by the Germans to support their allegation that a Franco-Russian alliance had been arranged with the fundamental object of aggressive action against Germany.

In order to prove beyond a question the falsity of this contention French Foreign Minister Ribot promised that the confidential documents showing the history of the origin and the development of the alliance should be published. This premise his successor, M. Pichon, has now fulfilled.

The documents now published prove beyond question, first, that the Franco-Russian alliance was directly caused by the German pretensions to the hegemony of Europe, which left France and Russia no possible alternative except to unite in a defensive alliance; second, that there is no ground whatever for German assertions that the alliance was entered into to enable France to reconquer Alsace-Lorraine; third, that the alliance at first was not especially directed against Germany any more than against Austria or even England, as its aim was directed against no matter what combination of powers might desire to disturb the status quo; and, fourth, that the French general staff in 1892 clearly foresaw and prepared, so far as possible, for the steps Germany would take and did take in making the onslaught which she launched on Europe in 1914.

Shows Basis of Alliance.

Perhaps the most interesting of these documents at the present moment is the report by the French Gen. de Miribel, with the approval of Freycinet, then French war minister, which Foreign Minister Ribot forwarded Feb. 4, 1892, to De Montebello, French ambassador at Petrograd, to be handed to the czar.

This report reveals what was the original French view of the basis on which should be constructed the military convention with Russia, which was afterwards on Dec. 30, 1892, approved by the czar and a few days later by the French government.

Prepared Only for Defense.

Miribel's report was as follows:

"France and Russia, being both animated by the same desire to preserve peace, the present note has been drawn up exclusively from a point of view of defensive war, provoked by an attack of forces of the triple alliance against either one or the other of these two powers or against both at once.

"Speed being more than ever the essential condition of success, active measures must be taken by both countries immediately upon danger becoming known, consequently the note assumes that the mobilization will be simultaneous in France and Russia and that it will follow in a few hours the mobilization of the forces of the triple alliance.

"As it does not appear that the other European powers will have taken an effective part in hostilities, the calculations as to military forces given below refer only to five countries—Germany, Austria-Hungary, Italy, France, and Russia.

Forecasts Kaiser's Plans.

"Germany will place on foot as field troops in the first line sixty-two infantry divisions, grouped in army corps, consisting of three or two divisions, which will be supported immediately by eleven divisions of landwehr to the total of seventy-three divisions, infantry nine divisions, independent cavalry, and 2,544 guns, or 1,550,000 men, who would be concentrated at the frontier towards the fourteenth day. The remainder of the German forces will remain at first in German territory.

"Italy will place in the first line in addition to her Alpine troops nine army corps on a peace footing and four divisions of militia, making a total of twenty-two infantry divisions, twenty-two battalions of Alpine troops, two divisions of independent cavalry, and 1,092 guns, or 360,000 men who could be concentrated near the Alps from the fifteenth day.

"Austria will place in the first line fourteen army corps on a peace footing of three divisions brought up to war strength, making a total of forty-two divisions of infantry, eight divisions of independent cavalry, and seventeen hundred sixty-six guns or nine hundred thousand men who would be concentrated on Russian frontier from the sixteenth day. The remainder of Austrian forces would be held within frontiers at first to either keep surveillance of Bosnia and Herzegovina or to guard military centers and home defenses.

France to Equal Germany.

"The forces of the triple alliance in the first line, therefore, would be 137 infantry divisions with their divisional cavalry, nineteen divisions of independent cavalry, and 6,432 field guns, or a total of 3,310,000 men.

"France will place in the first line very nearly the same forces as Germany, and after having provided for the defense of Algiers, Tunis, and for home and coastal defenses, will dispose of seventy-five divisions of infantry, seven divisions of independent cavalry, and 3,370 guns, or 1,550,000 men who would be concentrated on frontiers from the fourteenth day.

Shows Russia's Strength.

"Russia will place on a field footing forty-eight infantry divisions, reinforced by twenty-one reserve divisions. After providing for the safety of her various frontiers, chiefly with her reserve divisions, Russia will have available twenty-two army corps, three divisions each, making a total of sixty-six infantry divisions of four battalions per regiment, twenty divisions of cavalry with an average of twenty-four squadrons per division, one-half of which may be considered as having to be used as army corps cavalry, 20,000 Cossacks of second and third qualities, and 3,300 guns, or 1,600,000 men, part of which, owing to the big number of troops already in Poland, would be concentrated somewhat rapidly, but concentration of the remainder of which would be at rather later date, especially as concerns Cossacks of third class."

MUST LEND ALL WE CAN SCRAPE, BOND CHIEF SAYS

Billions Raised That Way Will Come Back with Interest.

"The time has come to sacrifice; we must lend to the last available cent in the fourth Liberty loan campaign," said Charles H. Schweppe, director of campaign for the seventh federal reserve district, in discussing the nation's war needs yesterday.

After recalling that Secretary McAdoo some months ago estimated the expenditures up to June 30, 1919, as $24,000,000,000, he pointed out that the war department had found it necessary to ask for an additional $7,000,000,000.

"In view of this tremendous outlay, need I ask every one to make solemn preparation for the forthcoming loan?" he asked. "If the added billions are raised through Liberty bonds every dollar will be returned with interest."

Teachers' Plan for Bonds.

A plan conceived by Mrs. Jacob Baur and Mrs. Irving L. Stern of the woman's auxiliary of the Chicago loan committee, by which officials, teachers, and employés of the board of education may purchase bonds on installments, was approved yesterday by the school principals in session at the Hotel La Salle and also by the board of education. Payments will be deducted at the rate of $5 a month for each $50 bond from the monthly pay checks.

Record Buyers to Name Tanks.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—The 240 communities which make the best record in obtaining subscriptions to the fourth Liberty loan will have the privilege either of naming one of the ships being built for the government, or of naming a tank that is to participate in the western front fighting. Announcement of the plan was made tonight by the Liberty loan publicity bureau. Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the president, who has been naming the ships, has agreed to allot 120 of the vessels for the purposes of the national contest.

Each of the twelve federal reserve districts will be assigned ten ships and ten tanks, and the conditions of the contest within the district will be determined by the reserve bank.

YANKEE OF 19 DOWNS AIRPLANE AND 11 BALLOONS

BULLETIN.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE LORRAINE, Sept. 19.—(By the Associated Press.)—Lieut. F. Luke of Phoenix, Ariz., the aviator who Tuesday night destroyed three enemy balloons inside the German line, added an enemy airplane to his list of victories at dusk yesterday. The fight took place near Verdun, and when the German machine was downed Lieut. Luke himself landed near by in order to make certain the capture of the pilot.

(The above Associated Press bulletin read in conjunction with the following special cable by Mr. Smith, "The Tribune's" war correspondent, shows that Lieut. Luke has destroyed eleven balloons and one airplane since Sept. 13.)

BY FREDERICK A. SMITH.
[SPECIAL CABLE TO CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

WITH THE FIRST AMERICAN ARMY, Sept. 17.—[Delayed.]—The first army has its cap off to Frank Luke, who has brought down eight enemy observation balloons since the morning of the 12th. Luke volunteered for probably the most perilous air work, going out on stunts astonishing to his comrades, and also probably astounding to the enemy.

I sought out this demigod of aviation who has become in a few days the American ace of aces in balloon destruction, and found him to be a lad of 19, whose blue eyes show innocuous surprise when he is asked about his exploits. His enterprises contribute to the fine record of American soldiers in this offensive. Sixty-three enemy planes have been downed since Thursday, nine of which are already officially recorded, and thirty balloons.

Chicago Boy Downs One.

Thorne C. Taylor, son of Judge Taylor of Chicago, dropped one, adding to his already fine record. Eddie Rickenbacker, former auto racer, just out of the hospital after a mastoid operation, added three to his string, two of which are official, giving him seven boche aircraft to date.

When the offensive opened volunteers were asked for balloon attacks. Luke and Joseph F. Wehner of Everett, Mass., stepped forward, although they had only been pilots at the front for a few months. They started, but became separated; but each got a balloon. That means they went singly far across the foe's line and flew close to the ground under the fire of machine guns and aircraft guns, which, with "Sunday onions," were filling the air with fire. The onions are balls of fire intended to ignite the plane.

Gets It in Writing.

It is said that Luke in the Marne campaign followed a boche ace far into German territory and dropped him, but there was no chance to confirm this for the official record. That was his first blood, and he determined his next accomplishment should be made official. After dropping the balloon in flames Luke recrossed our lines, alighting near an American observation balloon and getting an immediate written statement from the observer, who saw the battle.

The next day Luke was accompanied by Wehner, who, falling behind and reaching the other side of the German front, was just in time to discover Luke sending down a balloon in flames. Conscious of the fact that seven enemy planes were right on his tail, Wehner, rising, came down on the boche nearest Luke, shooting down the plane and saving his comrade. Wehner then gripped another boche, both then escaping. Luke's plane was riddled, a bullet hitting under the seat back of him, damaging the tank and cutting a strut.

Attacks Anti-Aircraft Guns.

Saturday Luke went out with Joe Dawson, getting another balloon, but he was piqued because the bag didn't burp, and descended almost to the ground, driving the anti-aircraft gunners away from their places.

Young Luke, who quit school in Phoenix, Ariz., to enter the war, causes Germany a loss of $7,000 for each balloon dropped, in addition to valuable instruments and maps requiring months to make. On Monday evening Luke and Wehner announced that they would get three, the first at 7:15, the second at 7:36, and the third at 7:45. Observers near the front saw the three fall almost exactly on schedule. The daring flyers were forced to return after dark, but were guided by rockets and flares, and finally reached home, both wrecking their machines in alighting.

The Arizona boy on the night on returning after bagging two more was forced to land far away and was picked up after walking some distance, suspected as a German in an American uniform. He proved his identity, but was forced to wait until morning before returning to his aerodrome.

Rickenbacker "Lies in Sun."

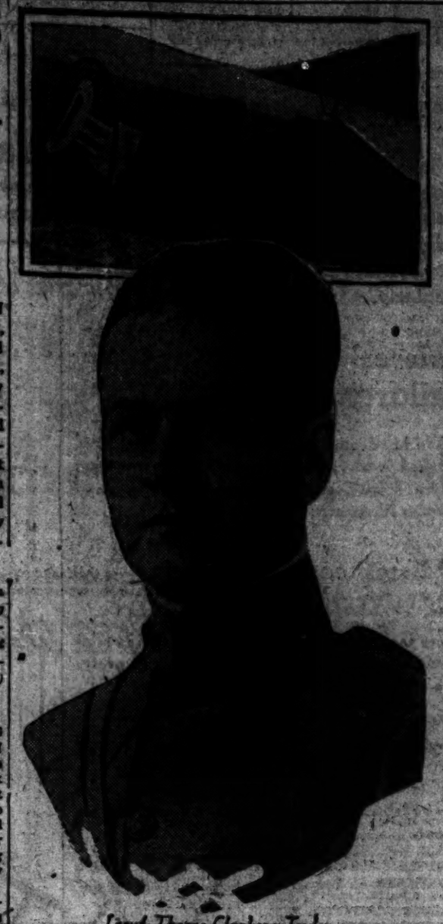
Rickenbacker is a different style of battler. "He lies in the sun," often 20,000 feet high, attacking only when he has the advantage or some comrade beneath needs help. He always flies alone. On Saturday, northeast of Vigneulles, Rickenbacker encountered four boche who were pursuing American bombers back toward our lines. He manoeuvered into the sun and came down on the rear German, then rising sharply or "zooming the German." He escaped to a safe altitude easily, as the downward swoop has such terrific speed it carries the plane up like a flash when the "zoom" starts.

PRIVATE HELD AS DESERTER.

Pte. David E. Murphy was arrested last night in Oak Park by Sergt. R. J. Decker of Jefferson Barracks, Mo., on complaint of Lieut. Raley of the Fifteenth company, U. S. cavalry. The constable stated Murphy deserted at Jefferson Barracks July 4.

BRINGING DOWN THE HUNS

Chicago Aviator Who Adds Another to the String of Boche Planes He Has Accounted For.



Lieut. Thorne Clarkson Taylor

Lieut. Thorne Clarkson Taylor, named in a cable dispatch to THE TRIBUNE from France this morning as having brought down another boche plane, is the son of Judge Thomas J. Taylor Jr. of the Appellate court, who lives at 1611 Green Bay road, Hubbard Woods.

Lieut. Taylor recently was made flight commander of the First pursuit group of the American aerial forces.

He is now flying a Spad, No. 12. The insignia on the tailpiece, Uncle Sam's hat encircled by a ring, was designed by John Wentworth, another Chicago aviator, now in France. The First Pursuit group has just been cited by Gen. Pershing for "effective and daring work."

Lieut. Taylor is 24 years old and has been in France a year.

HENRY FORD SAYS HE SPENT $23,529 TO ELECT WILSON

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—Henry Ford, through his secretary, Ernest G. Liebold, made a statement today as to the amount of money Mr. Ford spent in helping to reelect President Wilson.

The amount is $23,529.53, these figures being on file in Lansing and also at the office of the Ford Motor company.

"Every penny of the money went to advertise Mr. Wilson's campaign and every penny of the amount spent is itemized. The work was done entirely within the Ford organization and not a cent in commissions or gratuities was paid to any one," Mr. Liebold said.

Bogus Lieutenant Proves to Be Deserter from Army

Federal investigation into the military career of A. Shreves, taken into custody Tuesday while wearing the uniform of a first lieutenant, yesterday disclosed that he is not an imposter, as was at first believed, but a deserter from Camp Hancock. He will probably be returned to camp for court martial within a few days. Possibilities of a charge under the Mann act were rumored in connection with the woman found with Shreves in the Hotel La Salle at the time of his arrest. She was released yesterday. The authorities said she came to Chicago from Detroit, apparently in the belief that Shreves, who registered as Sherman, would marry her.

BY FRAZIER HUNT.
[SPECIAL CABLE TO CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

AT A FRENCH PORT, Sept. 18.—A brand new American destroyer on its maiden voyage covered itself with glory today when it came into port with 144 rescued survivors of a torpedoed British ship.

It is dangerous work to stop and gather up lifeboats, for it is a trick of the German subs to hover about and torpedo a rescuing ship. But this made no difference to the American destroyer. Hurrying to the spot it swung down the ladder and took on board five boatloads. All were wet and cold and many were almost exhausted.

The torpedoed ship was hit at 4 o'clock in the afternoon while the ninety-six passengers were having tea in the salon. All were thrown from their chairs by the explosion. The torpedo hit forward of No. 1 hatch, almost directly under the bridge. The man at the wheel, Paddy Farrell of Boston, was killed instantly. The American had been torpedoed six times previously, but this seventh time proved fatal.

Captain Stunned and Lost.

The officer on watch was badly hurt and the captain so stunned that three minutes later, when the ship sunk, he went down with it. A second after the explosion the passengers rushed on deck and the officers and men in the boiler and engine rooms hurried above. Lifeboats that swung out from the davits were lowered instantly.

The ship settled rapidly in the heavy seas. Fortunately the torpedo struck the fuel oil tanks and thousands of gallons of oil came to the surface to settle the waters. Men jumping from the ship and swimming to the boats had their eyes burned and hair plastered by the heavy oil, but it saved many lives.

Three minutes after the torpedoing the ship stood on its nose and then sunk like dead weight. Ten of the crew, including the skipper, first and second officers, and three gabbengers, either went down with it or were drowned. Ninety-three passengers and forty-eight members of the crew were saved.

Complete Rescue in an Hour.

No one saw the submarine then, but an hour and a half afterwards it came to the surface, opened the conning tower, and an officer stuck out his head and took a good look around. The survivors expected to be shelled, but in a few minutes the submarine closed the conning tower and disappeared. The men in the boats who had not been wet when they left the ship were soon drenched by the heavy seas. It took an hour before all were safe aboard the destroyer. Immediately the whole ship was placed at the disposal of the survivors. They were taken below, given warm drinks, alcohol rubs, and clothing, and then put in warm beds by the officers and crew.

When it came in at 9 o'clock this morning the survivors made almost pathetic attempts to thank the destroyer men.

Grateful Passengers.

"My own family couldn't have done more for me than those fine American boys," one elderly civilian said. "I was completely exhausted and suffering terrible chills. The boys rushed me to a warm bed and rubbed me with alcohol, then gave me good warm drinks. I slept like a baby. When I awoke they had dried my clothes and treated me like a prince. I shall never forget how kind they were."

Among the survivors were two American Y. M. C. A. men. Besides the sailor killed by the explosion they were the only Americans aboard.

For a brand new destroyer, making its initial bow into the danger zone, it was an unusual introduction. But it did the job splendidly. Simply another case of the efficiency and training of the American navy.

Illinois Marine Killed.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—One American lost his life when the British troop transport Missanabie was torpedoed in European waters Sept. 16. He was Ezra J. Miller of Tamaroa, Ill., a corporal of marines. The navy department received a report today correcting a previous announcement that there were no casualties among the naval and marine contingents on board.

West Bound Convoy Ship Sunk.

An Atlantic Port, Sept. 19.—A vessel arriving here today reported the sinking of a steamship in foreign waters on Sept. 9. The vessel, which was west-bound, was torpedoed and sunk in seven minutes according to the report here. A number of wounded Canadian soldiers may have perished, it was said. The vessel was a part of a convoy. The name of the ship destroyed was not made public.

GREAT LAKES MEN BEST OF FLEET, ADMIRAL SAYS

Admiral Benson, chief of naval operations, who recently visited Great Lakes Naval Training station, paid a high tribute to the authorities in charge and the work being conducted in the following interview published in the Great Lakes Bulletin:

"It is impossible to say too much in praise of Capt. William A. Moffett and the way he is conducting the station. The spirit that pervades the organization is so fine it is hard to define it in words. Every man seems to have an intelligent appreciation of what we are trying to accomplish, and with that failure is impossible.

"Great Lakes has always had the reputation of sending the best men to the fleet. It has maintained that reputation, and I know it will continue to do so."

PERSHING HONORS ILLINOISANS IN MARINE BATTLES

De Kalb Sergeant Wins Promotion for Management in Attack.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—The United States marine corps announced today a list of marines from Chicago and other cities in Illinois cited by Gen. Pershing for special bravery.

Corp. Neil S. Shannon, son of Neil J. Shannon of Foreman Brothers Banking company, was commended as follows:

"Corporal Shannon, Company M, in the capture of Bourescbes, June 6, 1918, showed rare coolness and heroism under heavy fire and while badly wounded."

He Carried Ammunition.

"Carried ammunition for distance of over one mile through the town of Bourescbes on June 6 under heavy fire."

First Lieutenant Clarence W. Smith of Champaign, Ill., son of Mrs. Martha M. Smith of Decatur, Ill., was recommended for the following:

"First Lieutenant Smith, Company D, assumed command of his company after the evacuation of the company commander and next in command. His cool handling of the attack made upon his lines on the night of June 2-3 was of such marked value that his platoon voluntarily united in recommending him to his regimental commander for appropriate reward. In meeting the situation with great coolness and in holding his men in line and so controlling their fire that the German advance on that part of the line was broken up Lieut. Smith demonstrated that he was able to meet a great emergency and exhibited qualities of coolness and decision in a highly commendable manner."

De Kalb Man Promoted.

Gunnery Sergeant Ralph C. Judd of De Kalb, now second lieutenant, was promoted following this recommendation for bravery:

"Gunnery Sergeant Judd, Company I, led his platoon against a strongly fortified machine gun position on June 8, 1918, in the Bois de Belleau. At a time when all the officers in his company were wounded, he assumed temporary command and demonstrated marked qualities of leadership."

The citations of Corporal Charles W. Brooks of Chicago and Lieut. Ralph William Marshall of West Chicago, also mentioned in the list, have been published previously in THE TRIBUNE.

PROBE HIGH LIVING COSTS.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—Special agents of the bureau of labor statistics investigating the cost of living will extend their inquiry to Columbus, O., beginning Saturday. Investigations already are in progress at Baltimore, New York City, Scranton, and Pittsburgh.

ARMY AND MARINE CASUALTIES OVERSEAS

CHICAGO AVIATOR MISSING AFTER FIGHT WITH HUN

Official Casualty Lists Bear Names of Nine of City's Heroes.

Five Chicagoans were named in the official casualty list issued last night. Four were named in the early lists. Of the nine, three were killed in action, one died from accident, three were wounded, and two were missing in action.

A letter received yesterday by the parents of Lieut. William Hugh Shearman Jr., an aviator, read that he had been missing since about the middle of August. He was last seen following a Hun plane which he had engaged in combat, about twenty miles behind the German lines.

Lieut. Shearman was with the Sixty-fifth wing of the Seventeenth United States aero squadron, which has lately been brigaded with British aerial forces. The parents live at 7616 North Ashland avenue. They are trying to obtain official verification.

Another unofficial casualty is that of Private Edward C. Randell, Company I, One Hundred and Thirty-first Infantry, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Randell, 6139 Aberdeen street, received notification yesterday that he had been killed in action.

Relatives received word yesterday that Lieut. Edward B. Isaacs, who was acting lieutenant commander of the transport President Lincoln at the time it was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine last July 31, is now a prisoner at Camp Villigen, Baden, Germany. He was taken aboard the submarine at the time. He is a brother of William I. Isaacs of 7627 Luella avenue and Dr. Charles F. Isaacs, 7626 Crandon avenue.

Rug section, fifth floor

Importer's oriental rugs at half

—and all regular stock reduced 20% —and more

The importer in question is retiring from business until the end of the war—and was glad to be rid of his stock "at a price." In addition

every Chinese, Persian and Indian rug

in our stock is reduced—not one rug reserved; all orientals at savings of at least 20%—in many cases more; and this notwithstanding daily advances in wholesale markets. Never such an opportunity in all the years we have sold the rugs of the Persian, Indian and Chinese orient. Many items of this character:

Weave	Size	Sale price	Regular price
Mahan	9.10x12.0	$140	$200
Cassaba	10.3x14.0	$185	$325
Chinese	9.2x13.4	$295	$400
Mahal	12.8x22.1	$495	$675
Kirman	9.2x13.4	$235	$450
Saruk	7.4x10.2	$175	$290
Chinese	10.3x14.4	$385	$595
Gorovan	10.3x13.5	$235	$325
Chinese	9.0x12.0	$285	$450
Mahal	9.10x13.9	$135	$235
Ispahan	6.10x10.4	$195	$275
Chinese	12.0x17.9	$525	$725
Meshed	7.6x10.0	$150	$215
Mousoul	3.4x6.0	$25	$35
Camels' hair	5.0x11.3	$95	$150

Owing to the very special character of this sale, we can send no oriental rugs on approval—and take none back for credit. Fifth floor.

ALLIED LABOR ADOPTS WILSON'S 14 PEACE POINTS

Rejects War Map Policy for Clearness and Moderation.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—The interallied labor conference today unanimously adopted a report made by the international relations committee recommending that the conference "subscribe to the fourteen points formulated by President Wilson, thus adopting a policy of clearness and moderation as opposed to a policy dictated exclusively by changes on the war map."

The conference also unanimously adopted the section of the committee's report regarding the Austrian note.

Wants Clear Views.

The committee report said the United States already has been able to reject the Austro-Hungarian proposal for a conference of the belligerents, and that the allies should make clear the identity of their views by public and collective declarations of their aims and intentions.

The committee favored an expression of opinion by the conference that the allies would be assuming a heavy and perilous responsibility by adopting a purely negative policy in their treatment of the Austrian proposals, but it urged the allies to interrogate their opponents regarding their general and particular war aims, which have never been defined, thus imposing upon the working classes the responsibility of choosing between the solutions proposed."

Like Wilson's Decision.

The committee report further said: "It is by defining their own war aims, jointly with the United States, with the same precision and clearness, that the allied governments will give the workers of the world the conviction that they are resolved to continue the struggle not in order to meet the aggression of the central monarchies by undertaking in their turn a war of conquest, but for the single purpose of establishing on an unassailable foundation a peace which will be just and lasting and in conformity with the aspirations of international democracy."

Demand Liberty in Russia.

The committee declared that if the Brest-Litovsk treaty were allowed to stand it would confirm the collapse of the Russian revolution and most gravely compromise the future of the democracy of the world. It invited the workers of the world to refuse to recognize any peace settlement which does not secure the complete freedom of the Russian people. On the other hand, it warned the workers to guard against the dangers of intervention in Russia.

The American delegates submitted suggestions that the allied governments should make explicit pronouncements to Russia to the effect that intervention was taking place in the hope of counteracting the sinister influence of the central powers upon the so-called Bolshevik government, which had suppressed the utterances and aspirations of a great majority of the Russian workers.

Alexander Kerensky, former Russian premier, told the conference that the members of the old constituent assembly were meeting secretly in Russia and attempting to create a government for the whole of Russia.

FORMER RUSSIAN EMPRESS BURNED TO DEATH, REPORT

LONDON, Sept. 19.—The former Russian dowager empress and three princesses and two grand duchesses, whose names are not reported, were burned to death about a month after the Russian emperor was shot, according to a story reaching London. The source of the story is given consideration in some quarters and an investigation has been started.

After the former emperor was killed the women were taken to an isolated village, according to the present report, and made prisoners in a residence. They were there only a few days when a crowd of Bolsheviki attacked the house. The women barricaded the doors and the house was set on fire. All the persons in the house perished.

"GOLD COAST" CALLS JUNK MAN

Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman Bargains with Dealer to Get Best Price Possible for Red Cross.

MRS. JOSEPH G. COLEMAN. ELA EDELSTEIN, JUNK MAN.

The plebeian cry of "r-a-a-gs" of iron" penetrated the confines of the "gold coast" yesterday when Ela Edelstein, one of the Red Cross junk men, received a hurry-up call from Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, 712 Rush street, to take away the rubbish which accumulated during her absence at Biddeford Pool, Me.

Mrs. Coleman personally gathered up her waste matter and sold it to Edelstein for Red Cross salvage coupons at the rear of her residence. Mrs. Coleman was interrupted by Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, who lives next door at 710 Rush street. "Don't let that junk man get away without seeing me. We are cleaning house, too, and I have quantities of rubbish to dispose of for the benefit of the Red Cross," Mrs. Carpenter said. The dealer had to dig up a reserve book of coupons to pay for Mrs. Carpenter's salvage.

The salvage bureau will inaugurate a rubber drive on Monday, when motorists will be asked to dump old tires and inner tubes in Grant park, at the foot of Harrison street. The government needs rubber, and every one will be given an opportunity to contribute rubber of every kind.

BRITISH TROOPS EVACUATE BAKU AS TURKS STRIKE

LONDON, Sept. 19.—Baku, in Trans-Caucasia, has been evacuated by the British, who have withdrawn their forces to north Persia.

The evacuation was made necessary, it is stated, because of the lack of steadiness of the Armenian troops when they were attacked by the Turks during August.

On Sept. 1, the day the evacuation was decided upon, the Turks again attacked, the allies of the British again failed to coöperate, and it is feared that the Royal Warwickshire regiment lost heavily.

Turks Ignore Treaty.

PARIS, Sept. 19.—Turkish troops have taken Baku, according to a Basel dispatch quoting a telegram from Constantinople. It is pointed out by the Temps that the treaty of Brest-Litovsk left Baku to the Russians, but that this does not prevent the Turks from continuing their advance.

Washington Not Surprised.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—The report of the occupation of Baku by Turkish forces came as no surprise to officials here, as they were informed two weeks ago that the British force had evacuated the city after wrecking the munitions plant and oil industry machinery. The British found they were unable to bring up sufficient reinforcements in time and withdrew across the Caspian sea to their base in Persia.

Baku is of small strategic importance, although it is of considerable value as an oil and munitions center.

CZECHO-SLOVAKS, SHORT OF ARMS, FORSAKE TOWNS

Bolsheviki and Germans Take Simbirsk, Kazan, and Volsk.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—The Czecho-Slovak forces in European Russia are being hard pressed by the enemy, largely owing to lack of munitions and stores. Within the last ten days the Bolsheviki, assisted by a considerable number of Germans, have succeeded in occupying Volsk, Simbirsk, and Kazan. The fall of Kazan appears to have been due entirely to lack of ammunition by the Czecho-Slovaks.

The Germans are reported to be concentrating considerable supplies at Kharkov and Bielogorod, with a view to an advance on the Volga and to prevent Gen. Alexieff's forces in the Don valley from joining hands with the Czechos about Samara.

Retreating North and South.

Bolshevik forces are retreating on both the northern and southern fronts, according to a Stockholm dispatch to the Daily Mail.

TOKIO, Tuesday, Sept. 10.—[By the Associated Press.]—The formation of a Russo-Japanese economic organization for the commercial and industrial development of Siberia virtually has been completed. Russia is represented in the corporation by twelve wealthy residents of Siberia, and Japan by the Bank of Chosen, the Oriental Development company, and the Sino-Japanese Industrial company. The organization will be capitalized at from $5,000,000 to $10,000, to be distributed equally between the Russians and Japanese. The main office probably will be at Harbin and the formal organization is expected within a month.

Anarchy in Petrograd.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 19.—Numerous refugees arrived today from Moscow and Petrograd, having left Petrograd on Sept. 13. They say the Russian capital is entirely in the hands of anarchists and that conditions are worse than ever before. There is no police protection or any other means to preserve order, and persons are openly murdered in the streets or held up and robbed, as there is no risk of punishment.

Armed gangs break into houses, stealing and murdering in their search for provisions, money, and clothing. Several of the refugees in this way lost all their property, even their clothes.

Misses' Apparel Opening Week Presents

This has indeed been a week of keen interest here to the younger generations. They have seen and chosen the new in fashion delightfully translated into terms of youth.

These days find the sections on their mettle. For they are the days reserved by so many young women for their selection. Everywhere are fashions as distinctive as these—

Frocks of Satin, $82.50, and of Velour Cloth, $105

Of these especially featured groups four charming styles are sketched here. Only brief descriptions are possible. To appreciate fully one must see them.

Fourth Floor, South.

Fall Coats and Frocks for Girls

A wonderful week-end for the outfitting of schoolgirls is at hand. It comes as a fitting climax to this fall

Opening Week Which Launches in Completeness The Modes for Girls

It's a week-end of opportunity, too. For some of the most attractive coats and frocks are singled out for special featuring.

Broadcloth Coats at $27.50 and Velveteen Coats at $37.50

The broadcloth coats are for the smaller girls. They are in the style at left center and have deep-piled fur fabric to fashion the collar, cuffs and pocket bands. $27.50.

The velveteen coats are for the bigger girls. Australian opossum blends its gray tones with the navy blue and Burgundy of the velveteen. Sketched at left. $37.50.

Corduroy and velveteen coats also at $18.75 to $85.

The serge frock in navy blue with old blue outlining the "bib" yoke. The skirt is in large flat box pleats. Sketched at the right center. $22.50.

The jersey cloth frocks, one of several styles. Grosgrain ribbon is used as binding—old blue on the beaver and brown, beige color with Pekin blue. At right, $25.

Fourth Floor, South.

The Schoolgirl's New Fall Hat

Very simple and girlish and very smart. Just the sort of hats mothers delight to find for their young daughters.

For the Smaller Girls Velour Felt Hats at $3.95

In a variety of simple shapes, simply banded or with streamers of grosgrain ribbon, and all the dark colors of fall to choose. One sketched at the left.

For the Older Girls—Velour Hats at $7.95 and $9.50

At these prices is practically every new style in velour hats the season has brought. Small sailors, larger sailors, tilted brim hats and drooping brim hats.

All the desired colors, including navy blue, taupe, beaver tones and black, are included, and a simple band trims each hat. One of a host of styles is pictured at the right.

PREMATURE DISCUSSION OF PEACE TERMS.

The declaration of Count Karolyi, the leader of the opposition in the Hungarian parliament, in favor of the fourteen propositions enumerated in Mr. Wilson's address to congress of last January, is significant and not unpromising. It is, of course, regrettable that Count Karolyi does not speak for the government rather than for the opposition, but governments fall, and the blows delivered by the reinvigorated armies of the entente are shaking the foundations of power in central Europe. It is not the present spokesmen of Austria who are likely to be making the decisive utterances when the end comes.

It is interesting to note that Karolyi mentions the fourteen propositions of Jan. 8 rather than the four generalisations of Feb. 11. The latter were put forth ostensibly to correct the impression that the former more concrete propositions were to be taken literally and as conclusive. We think it a tribute to Mr. Wilson's second thought that the Hungarian statesman avoids it in favor of the more definite declarations. It may be he has sensed the same embarrassment to us and our allies in more explicit commitments, which have in them the germs of serious disagreement.

To refresh the reader's recollection on these critical utterances, let us reproduce the four principles enumerated in the address of Feb. 11. They are:

"First, that each part of the final settlement must be based upon the essential justice of the particular case and upon such adjustments as are most likely to bring a peace that will be permanent.

"Second, that peoples and provinces are not to be bartered about from sovereignty to sovereignty as if they were mere chattels and pawns in a game, even the great game, now forever discredited, of the balance of power; but that,

"Third, every territorial settlement involved in this war must be made in the interest and for the benefit of the populations concerned, and not as part of any mere adjustment or compromise of claims amongst rival states; and

"Fourth, that all well defined national aspirations shall be accorded the utmost satisfaction that can be accorded them without introducing new or perpetuating old elements of discord and antagonism that would be likely in time to break the peace of Europe and consequently of the world."

"A general peace," added Mr. Wilson, "erected upon such foundations, can be discussed. Until such a peace can be secured we have no choice but to go on."

That, we should say, might be considered an ultimatum. Until these principles are formally accepted by the responsible spokesmen for the central powers, invitations to parley and other utterances pretending to look toward peace are, from the American point of view, mere diplomatic juggling. We do not care to enter into any chaffering contest. We cannot, so far as THE TRIBUNE knows, speak for Italy, or France, or Great Britain; but with America now supplying the sinews of war and showing no disposition to slacken effort or sacrifice, we think a general unity of position among the western powers can be relied upon. Count von Hertling and Count Czernin have "fundamentally agreed" to the four principles, but the Brest-Litovsk and Roumanian treaties were made after this Pickwickian declaration, from which we may estimate its value.

Burian's offer did not even go as far and could not be taken seriously. But while we must recognise that the principles laid down by the president require concrete application and that discussion must precede any peace treaty, we must never lose thought of the fact that with the governments now ruling central Europe the relation of our power and theirs is the exact measure of what can be obtained from them. We are engaged in a contest of force with a government which has made force its criterion. We do not see that we can afford to accept the academic concessions of these governments—even when they make them much more definitely than they have—as a preface to safe or profitable discussion. We do not see how we can afford to accept any proffer of peace or waste time and endanger our unity by any discussion, until our military and other forces have compelled substantial guaranties of sincerity. There is danger in the variety of allied interests. We must never forget that. There is danger in the absence of concrete agreement amongst us. Premature discussion with Germany and Austria is only too likely to make more disagreements among us than concessions from them. Eager as we are for peace, it would seem that we must still further break the power of central Europe in order to bring the whole settlement more fully within our control. While there is too even a balance of strength, the strain upon the allied chain will be too great to hazard.

TO BURN COAL AND HAVE IT.

Administrator Durham has proposed a means of conserving coal by requesting that all users burn bituminous exclusively until Christmas, reserving their anthracite until after that time. A number of Chicago apartment dwellers have supplemented this in a truly patriotic manner. They have proposed to their landlords that all heat be dispensed with until Nov. 1.

Leases customarily provide for heat on and after Oct. 1. Thus in buildings occupied by those inspired by self-denial there will be a saving of a month's fuel. But this, while it shows a magnificent spirit, does not seem quite the advisable thing in view of the small dependence we are able to place in autumnal weather conditions. More to the point, for the safety of the tenant and for the encouragement of the plan, would seem an agreement between landlord and tenant to dispense with artificial heat until such time as weather conditions make it mandatory. In this vein not a few flat dwellers, but perhaps many thousands, would find it convenient to engage in the pleasing work of coal conservation.

At Yale university heat will not appear in dormitory rooms this winter. This is not an unhealthful, but, on the contrary, a healthful temperature for all persons. Thus if we could combine the three plans, of less heat, a postponement of furnace operation until necessary, and the adoption of Mr. Durham's plan, there is hope for a comfortable winter.

FLEEING CRIMINALS.

Taking it by and large, it doesn't so much matter that four criminals, two convicted of murder and two others of lesser guilt, escaped from the Cook county jail. What does matter is that our political system is so flimsy that escapes of the sort are possible. It is worth repeating that no four criminals subjected to the most ordinary scrutiny can break the Cook county jail. Some aid other than the mere negligence of a $100 a month jail guard did the business.

The point is our whole attitude, domestic and political, is built on graft. It is a harsh term, but it is a true one. The man who is arrested for speeding looks around for a "friend" who has influence to temper the winds of justice. Once a man gets a complimentary ticket to a theater he forever thereafter considers it an imposition to pay for a ticket. A person who has a friend in the wholesale business does not consider it improper to negotiate his purchases at wholesale. Business men violate the smoke ordinance because politicians consider it advantageous to permit them. Lawbreakers have their political friends who will intercede for them. And while few politicians would have the crust to project a jail breaking, such a proceeding is but a step in advance of the habitual hunt for an easy way round the obstacle.

Such a man as Edward Wheed, who was hanged for his participation in a double murder, has no chance of escape. Wheed played the lone, criminal hand against society at large. Earl Dear, leader of the recent jail breakers, is no such amateur. Throughout his youthful yet abundant career he has always played with the aid of political sponsors who were able to reach into high places whenever Dear's liberty was jeopardised. And now, when he stands convicted of murder, that same influence, failing in the courts, tears open the jail to release him.

If Dear isn't caught the world will go right on. But so will the criminal politicians who find it convenient to be supported by lawbreakers. Martin Sicks, also a jailbreaker and accused of robbery, is reported to have been seen sauntering about various saloons. It is not impossible. We have too many citizens who follow the policy of letting well enough alone, even to the point of consciously sheltering fugitives. It brings influence in some wards.

Naturally there is a great to do about the escape of Dear and his companions. There are investigations and huge declarations of good intent. Dear may be caught, but not the criminal influences that made possible his escape. Voters must look farther than the county jail for that.

THE CARAVELS.

One of the real sentimental dabs on the broad, rough canvas of Chicago is the little Jackson park lagoon where ride at anchor the Santa Maria, the Pinta, and the Niña, the replicas of the fleet of Christopher Columbus. For the life of us we can't understand why the south park board nourishes an unholy ambition to destroy them.

Nothing in Chicago compares in romantic flavor with the quaint and stirring object lesson of the Spanish caravels. Nothing so full of meaning to the school child or the grownup. None can look upon them without a thrill of fervor, for in that they furnish perspective for our achievements. They symbolise the spirit that gave us America. And they mark an important epoch in the immediate history of the city in that they were the gifts of the nation that sent Columbus forth.

The park board should have better sense. The protection of the caravels entails no more expense than the repair of an occasional golf green or the adjustment of a water plug. Santa Maria, Niña, and Pinta, resting in the shadow of the Convent de la Rabida, is a bit of the fourteenth century nestling before us as we look down from skyscrapers and the decks of gigantic ocean liners of the twentieth century.

In spite of the almost sacred character of the relics the park board already has suffered them to be dragged half way over the continent by irresponsible adventurers, to be shown as dime museums and hawked about in the ports of strange lands, libeled for debt and no hand raised to protect them save that of distant folk whose regard for rare sentiment overrode the quibble for the dollars it required to save the Columbian replicas from destruction.

Jackson park was the home of the world's fair. It should always remain the home of one of the chief symbols of that which was called the Columbian exposition.

Editorial of the Day

COAL ECONOMY IN EASY LESSONS.

[From New York Commercial.]

The new New York district fuel administrator begins his fall campaign judiciously. Instead of issuing statistics on consumption of coal versus production in terms of millions of tons, or long treatises on freight capacities and movements of reserves, he addresses a plea to Mr. and Mrs. Householder to observe "clean the furnace day" on Sept. 21.

Here is a seasonable hint that any one can understand, especially with a bleak autumn wind chasing the shivers up and down his spine to give it emphasis. The district administrator gives especial force to his argument by pointing out that a clean furnace will work a saving to the owner's pocketbook. Here is a sample of the direct approach to the householder's interest:

"One one-hundredth of an inch of soot has the same power to resist heat as ten inches of iron."

This is but one of the pertinent hints. The rest of the communication is rich in information that the individual owner of a furnace will appreciate. They are worth repeating:

"Care for your own heater this winter.

"Storm windows and storm doors, weather strips, and such protective devices are economical of heat.

"Draw a bucketful of dirty water from the bottom of the boiler at least twice a week and fill again.

"Stoke frequently and in small amounts.

"Never shake a low fire until a little fresh coal has been added and given time to ignite.

"Keep a pan or bottle of water always on the kitchen stove. Moist air makes for comfort, health, beauty, and economy."

If all propaganda work were as simple and direct in its singleness of purpose Uncle Sam would get a more attentive hearing from the public.

JUST HER LUCK.

"There, my good woman, don't worry about your husband's going to the war. He'll come back again, just as he went."

"Sure, he will. That's just what I'm worrying about."—Baltimore American.

Concerning Some Old Stuff.

Sir: Did you notice in this morning's Vox Pop some bird just discovered "Locksley Hall," and Vox Pop gave him a thousand words or more on it? Can you beat it? Will you call his attention to the fact that Horace, writing in (you fill in the date), said:

"Daedalus the void air tried
On wings, to humankind by Heaven denied;
Acheron's bar gave way with ease
Before the arm of laboring Hercules.
Naught is there for man too high;
Our impious folly e'en would climb the sky,
Braves the dweller on the steep,

Which would go to show that they had airships in mind long before Milton and Tennyson. But just think of that bird only now learning of the existence of "Locksley Hall." H. H.

UNFAMILIARITY with "Locksley Hall" is not so strange as unfamiliarity with the celebrated passage from it; for it has been printed at least a thousand times since the war began.

HOOTS! TOOTS!

Sir: One part of the fill-um shows the armies of the various allied nations galloping over a plain. First came the English, then the French, etc. Finally the Scotch rushed into view, their kilts flying in the wind, and a woman behind me exclaimed excitedly: "Look, Annie, look! There's the Cooties now!" J. P. M.

MISSING.

The soldier boys are marching, are marching past my door;
They're off to fight for Freedom, to wage and win the war;
And yet I cannot cheer them, my eyes are full of tears—
My son, who should be with them, is dead these many years.

I've missed his boyish laughter, I've missed his sunny ways,
But now my bitter longing dims all the grief before—
His boyhood friends are marching, without him, past my door.

I've envied happy mothers the children at their knee;
Their very joys seemed given to mock my grief and me.
Time healed those wounds, but this one will pain me while I live—
When Freedom called her warriors, I had no son to give.

And still the boys are marching, are marching toward the sea,
To suffer and to conquer, that all men may be free.
Be glad for them, O mothers! and leave to me the tears—
My son, who should be with them, is dead these many years.

That Bell Song (Not from "Lakme").

Sir: Up on the Plover, in the early nineties, we smoked Standard and sang some forty-odd verses of the diving-bell song. Here's one of them:

Down in a diving bell
At the bottom of the sea;
Nice little mermaids, cute little mermaids,
All came a-courting me.
I grabbed a pretty one,
To kiss her was my wish;
But like an eel she slipped from me—
You can't hang on to fish.

Zip Butterfield.

Sir: From a moderate depth of memory I haul up the chorus, as it was sung by Harry Eades, the English comedian who accompanied the Swiss Bell Ringers in the days when comedians were funnier than they now are:

"Down in a diving bell in the bottom of the sea,
Yes, that's a pretty place, the fishy sights to see;
Down in a diving bell in the bottom of the sea—
Those nice little mermaids, pretty little mermaids,
All came courting me."

The song never attained the altitude of popularity of that which it succeeded:

"Up in a balloon, boys,
Up in a balloon,
All among the little stars,
A-playing with the moon."

W. E. B.

A VARIANT, submitted by L. V. N., is "There is a pretty place that fishers sigh to see." The response to F. A. H.'s query ought to hold his baby for a spell.

WHEN we were young and charming, or comparatively so, there was an epidemic of "Up in" and "Down in" songs. H. G. P. reminds of one we used to sing, in a manner of articulating—"Down in a coal mine, underneath the ground."

EMPYEMA.

"A was predicted a year ago, our soldiers in training last winter suffered from respiratory diseases much as did soldiers of old. The freedom from typhoid fever, diarrhoeas, smallpox, and camp fever—the old time scourges—did not extend to measles, pneumonia, empyema, pleurisy, bronchitis, and colds.

The papers are saying much about empyema now because there was a lot of the disease last winter, and somehow the idea has gotten around that it is a new disease. Empyema is a form of pleurisy and everybody knows pleurisy as a traditional enemy. A very large percentage of the pneumonias in the camps last winter were due to infection with the chain coccus known as the streptococcus rather than with pneumococci. The infection of the lung showed a great tendency to extend to the pleura, causing pleurisy. The pleurisy had a strong tendency to form walled off collections of pus.

A pleurisy in which the fluid in the pleural cavity is watery is more than apt to be tuberculosis. Of those with pus in the cavity only one in ten is tubercular. If the empyema comes down during pneumonia there is almost no chance that it is tubercular.

Empyema in children is generally due to the pneumococcus, the coccus of pneumonia. Of the empyema of grown people about half are due to streptococcus and about two-thirds of the remainder to the pneumococcus. In most cases the pus becomes walled off in a portion of the pleura and may be called a pleural abscess. This abscess may rupture into an air passage and get well without its presence having been suspected. I remember this case. A boy 6 years old had measles. As a part of his measles pneumonia developed. After the pneumonia left his fever kept up. One day he coughed and up came a small cupful of pus. After that he got well fast. Years afterward he went to the naval academy at Annapolis. The examining surgeon found the patch of thickened pleura where his empyema—for such he had had—was located. Now, twenty-five years later, he is in good health, and since no after effects have developed in twenty-five years it is not likely that any will.

Whenever a pneumonia is not following the regular lines, empyema should be suspected. If it can be located by listening to the chest sounds or by X-ray pictures the pus should be drained away.

In the early part of last winter the military surgeons did not suspect the frequency or importance of empyema during pneumonia. If they overlooked the disease we can be reasonably certain that it is frequently overlooked when present as a complication of pneumonia in civilians. Later on they were very much on the lookout for it and the death rate from pneumonia and empyema fell.

The proper treatment for it is drainage. A needle stuck into the pleura causes little pain and does no harm. If pus is present it drains away, whereupon the fever and other symptoms subside. The better results of treatment as noted during the last year are due to the prompter draining of the pus. When the drainage of pus has been prompt it has not been necessary to remove ribs or do other severe operations, as was the case when the empyema had been neglected.

APRIL 1.

A. H. D. writes: "Can you furnish a few facts concerning the use of saltpeter, the amount, how placed in the foods, etc., according to its use by the government for sailors and soldiers?"

REPLY.

Somebody has been putting something over on you. Look out or some man will put you a gold brick.

AILMENTS OF TONGUE.

R. K. writes: "Will you kindly reply to the following: [1] Describe fissured tongue. [2] Does it always signify cancer? [3] Of what other diseases, if any, is it a symptom?"

REPLY.

There are three conditions of the tongue any one of which might be what you are trying to describe. In the fissured tongue of Strumpell the tongue is enlarged, indented at the edges, uneven and ragged in appearance, and covered by a heavy coat with deep fissures. Constantly there are ulcers. A person with this condition should keep his mouth clean, should refrain from smoking, should eat carefully, and guard against constipation. Such measures result in cure. Some cases of fissured tongue are due to syphilis. On geographic tongue the surface of the tongue is patchy and has some resemblance to a map. The treatment should be by improving personal hygiene.

In leukoplakia there are hard, white, scaly patches on the tongue or inside the cheek. This condition is especially liable to develop in smokers. Leukoplakia is apt to be a forerunner of cancer. The other tongue conditions described are not.

NOT A CURE.

H. S. writes: "Will you kindly tell me your opinion in regard to the use of limestone phosphate or Jad salts taken in hot water each morning for one with kidney trouble, to stop the too frequent urinary flow, irritation, and discolor? Also should one with kidney trouble stop eating meat altogether?"

REPLY.

Limestone phosphate and Jad salts will not cure Bright's disease. Persons with chronic Bright's disease should eat meat considerably. The treatment of the fundamental cause of Bright's disease is regulation of the diet. However, to obviate Bright's the tendency among persons who are dieting is to underfeed. First discover by laboratory examination whether you have Bright's disease. If so, have a physician lay down rules for you and then see him periodically. Some book like Strouse & Perry's "Food for the Sick" will help you in dieting.

OLD AND BASELESS.

Mrs. A. S. writes: "Am informed that at the different army camps saltpeter is put in the men's coffee to still or tame their passion. Asking out of curiosity, will you tell me how much is used? Is saltpeter harmful? How much would do harm?"

REPLY.

This rumor is old, bald, toothless, and creaky in the joints. It was decrepit at the time of the civil war. In 1898 it got down off the shelf and hobbled around. And now it comes again. There is no basis for this "they say." There is no physiological basis for it and the army surgeons do not recommend it. Saltpeter in small doses is harmless enough. Its continued use in larger doses is not justified.

TREATING BOILS.

K. M. writes: "Will you please tell me what I should do to avoid boils? Every week or two this summer I have had a large boil. Would you advise a tonic? If so, what? How should it be taken? I am a girl 16 years old."

REPLY.

Take a warm soap and water bath daily. After the bath sponge the body with a saturated solution of boracic acid. Let this dry by evaporation. Use no poultices, fat meat or other filthy application to your boils. Take a cake of baker's yeast, suspended in water, three times a day. Eat no candy, no sweets of any sort, no desserts, no ice cream. Eat one-third as much bread, waffles, cereals and other starchy foods as has been your habit. Let tonics and blood purifiers alone.

FOOD AT THE MUNICIPAL PIER

United States Naval Auxiliary Reserve School, Municipal Pier, Chicago, Ill., Sept. 18.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—In last Sunday's TRIBUNE you printed a letter from "A Chicago Mother" under the heading "Chow at the Municipal Pier," in which the food at this station and also the method of feeding was very severely criticised.

In justice to the officers in charge of the commissary department of this station there is forwarded herewith official copies of the bill of fare for the period in question, which is followed absolutely to the letter, and it is requested that you, in an early issue, publish this bill of fare for the information of the Chicago mother in question and also other mothers who may have sons at this station.

The Chicago mother in question has been misinformed regarding the meals served here, and it is only fair, in view of her letter, that she come to this station at any time without giving us any advance notice and see for herself just what the men are getting and how it is being served. Apparently that Chicago mother is the mother of some young chap who has been pampered at home and when he got up against conditions that thousands of other men are accepting without a murmur was not capable of standing the gaff. This station is no school for babies, but no man with real red blood in his veins will have any difficulty in getting all he wants to eat of the best food it is possible to buy.
Edw. A. Evers, Captain, U. S. N. R.

"WILSON SAID 'NO!' YOUR MAJESTY"

[From the New York World.]

The FRIEND of the SOLDIER

The Friend of the Soldier will cooperate with the war risk insurance bureau of the treasury department, 1307 Stock Exchange building, Chicago, and with the committee of the Chicago Bar association on legal assistance to soldiers and sailors, 105 West Monroe street.

Address inquiries to Friend of the Soldier, "Chicago Tribune." Answers to as many as possible will be published in this department. To insure a personal reply an addressed and stamped envelope should be inclosed.

No attention will be paid to anonymous letters.

COMMON LAW MARRIAGE.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—[Friend of the Soldier.]—A man and woman have been living together for ten years and have one child 8 years old. What shall he put on his questionnaire, single or married, or are they married according to law?
J. R. R.

The relation indicated might be a good common law marriage had it been entered into prior to the act passed in 1905 making void common law marriages thereafter entered into unless a marriage was subsequently solemnized. If a legal marriage is entered into now the marriage will date back to the beginning of the common law marriage relationship and will then be a valid marriage for the purpose of the draft.

EX-SAILOR.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—[Friend of the Soldier.]—I am 35 years old and in the draft. I prefer going into the navy as I once served as fireman in that branch and have my honorable discharge with a recommend for reinlistment, both physically and otherwise. Will it be possible for me to get into this branch?
G. M. L.

We advise that you see your local board. They will advise you about entrance to the navy.

CAN GET RELEASE.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—[Friend of the Soldier.]—I enlisted in the British Jewish legion on Sept. 11. I only signed the application and have not been sworn in. Must I show up there or can I join the American forces? H. Weis.

If you wish to obtain a release report to the British-Canadian recruiting mission, 64 West Adams street, Chicago. We cannot tell from facts given in your letter if you will be eligible for service in the American forces or not. This will be decided by your local board.

MISTAKE IN AGE.

Chicago, Sept. 14.—[Friend of the Soldier.]—I find after I registered on Sept. 12 that I have made a mistake in my age. I registered as being born in February, 1873, and I have discovered that the correct date is February, 1872. This makes me past 46. What would you advise me to do? I should prefer to have it as it is. C. D. D.

Take proof of your age to your local board; they will advise you.

SOLDIER'S ADDRESS.

Joliet, Ill., Sept. 13.—[Friend of the Soldier.]—I received a letter from my brother on July 10 saying that he would soon sail for France. I have not heard from him since and cannot write to him as I have no address for him. Will the Red Cross locate him for me? F. D. G.

We advise that you write to the adjutant general, United States army, Washington, D. C., to ascertain your brother's overseas address.

CLASS 5 F.

Chicago, Sept. 14.—[Friend of the Soldier.]—I am a subject of Norway but have my first papers. I have a badly injured foot and so was given a deferred classification. Am married but have no children. My class is 5 F. Do you think I will be called for service? What does 5 F mean? H. M. A.

Class 5 F is "resident alien (not an enemy) who claims exemption." Under the present regulations you will not be called.

NAVY ENLISTMENTS.

Chicago, Sept. 14.—[Friend of the Soldier.]—Are aliens accepted in the United States navy? Are declarants accepted? Will the navy be open again for enlistments? If so, when? Sam S.

Applicants for enlistment must be American citizens, native or fully naturalized. First papers for naturalization are not sufficient. The navy will probably be open again for enlistments. No statement has been made regarding the time when enlistments will be accepted.

STILL IN THE DRAFT.

Chicago, Sept. 14.—[Friend of the Soldier.]—A man 45 years and 11 months has registered. By the time he gets his questionnaire he will doubtless be 46 years of age. Will he be subject to draft or is he automatically out of the draft? Reader.

Any man who had not reached his forty-sixth birthday on or before Sept. 12, 1918, had to register and is still subject to draft.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

As but limited space can be given letters in this department, writers must confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Unless they give us their full names and addresses their letters will not be considered. No manuscript will be returned unless the writer sends postage for that purpose.

THEY THINK FOR THEMSELVES.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I really think we all can have a good laugh on THE TRIBUNE. Despite THE TRIBUNE'S efforts (and no one can gainsay they were nothing short of herculean) Thompson carried every ward in Chicago except five; Britten, who will also be elected, beat Dobyns to a frazzle, and Mason had a runaway lead in Chicago for congressman-at-large. This shows plainly there are a lot of people who can think for themselves and are not domineered by the press. T. W. B.

"DISCLOSURES FROM GERMANY."

Chicago, Sept. 13.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—A few days ago I received a book, whose promising title is "The Disclosures from Germany." This book is written in German on one side and English on the other side.

What I think of Germany after having read this book is that the kaiser and his party should be crushed beyond recognition. Although I came from the old country myself, I must say now that I am almost ashamed to be a subject of the kaiser, which I hope will cease the minute I shall be allowed to take my second papers out.

In no clearer way could be stated where to look for the cause of this war than in these disclosures. And I believe if some of these pro-German and German people in this glorious country would get acquainted with Prince Lichnowsky's memorandum they would rally around the Star-Spangled banner and help win the war instead of obstructing it.

German or no German, let us open their eyes and teach them that kaiserism and hell are identical. R. H. Lotze.

P. S.—The book can be bought for a small sum from American Association for International Conciliation. [New York.]

"METZ."

Chicago, Sept. 13.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—THE TRIBUNE editorial "Metz" very aptly states that "civilian interpretation of military success is invariably oversanguine." This is directly attributable to the harebrained policy of the public press as regards achievements of the respective armies. So long as the newspapers continue to exaggerate our successes and to minimize the successes of our enemies, just so long will the nonthinking classes continue to consider a one mile advance in an easterly direction just about equivalent to a five mile advance in a westerly direction.

It is about time that the overenthusiastic newspaper writers be curbed so that the casual readers who do not consult the maps may not be further misled into believing that a victorious peace is to be forced upon our enemies in the near future. Albert W. Tapp.

THE REAL HEROES.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Why does your paper always harp on the one man administration, pointing at Ham Lewis and Secretary Baker? Those two men are heroes and you must admit it. When the boat was torpedoed recently, did not Ham chill himself while helping the crew and our boys to safety? He did that because your newspaper said so. Could you expect more from a man of delicate constitution, a man whose brave head was being weighed down by the heavy salt water in his whiskers? No, you could not; and you know it. Again, look what he has accomplished on his daring trip across the ocean. May God help him to return as safely.

Take Mr. Baker. Look at him! He is giving not only his valuable time but his very life to our country. Has he not thrown discretion to the wind and with his life in one hand and his answers to explanations in the other made two trips across? Of course he has, and you must admit it. And perhaps he may never reach home again. Read your paper of yesterday and see how bravely he rode up to Mr. Pershing's Paris house in an army auto, his clothes all covered with trench mud (not country road mud), even his eyeglasses here and there splashed with mud; proudly and bravely holding his gas mask in one hand and his steel helmet in the other. You may call this public gamouflage if you will, but it is true nevertheless.

And he risked this second trip across just to see what was the matter with our airplanes, and he did find out what was the trouble. He says our airplanes are O. K.; that they fly all right in this country, but the air over France is thick and full of holes or so porous that it lacks that necessary buoyancy to give our planes over there that birdlike appearance they have in this country. Give Mars and Newt their just dues—is all we our patriots ask of your valuable paper.
A Constant Reader.

WELL!

Chicago, Sept. 13.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Gentlemen of the press: I want to see to it that Chicago has a chief of police and that he is given full power of "The Blue Cross."
Miller S. Freeman.

GRIP SHUTS OFF JACKIE LIBERTY AT GREAT LAKES

Naval Camp Under Strict Orders to Stamp Out Spanish Influenza.

Spanish influenza, the new undesirable in Chicago's midst, was unmasked yesterday by Ald. W. O. Nance, head of the council health committee.

"It's just an old friend, or enemy, rather, traveling under a new alias," Dr. Nance said. "In the early '90s, when the disease first swept this country in virulent form, it was called la grippe. In more recent years it has been commonly called the grip."

Care Should Be Used.

Dr. Nance says that the epidemic already has struck his family, and a son now is recovering from a severe attack of the malady.

"Fresh air, warm but well ventilated apartments, and extreme caution with regard to sneezing, coughing, and spitting in public places are the chief precautions to be taken," he said. "Street cars should be well ventilated, and at the end of each trip they should be aired by throwing open all windows and doors for a few minutes."

"I have found that some of our Chicago apartments just now are underheated. The temperature should not be allowed to drop below 68 degrees.

Pneumonia Is Feared.

"The chief danger is not from the influenza itself, but from pneumonia, which is likely to follow. Virtually all the deaths attributed to influenza result from conditions accentuated by the grip or influenza."

The increasing prevalence of the disease along the north shore and especially at Great Lakes Naval Training station, has caused Capt. Moffett and his aids to take away the sailors' weekly liberty until the malady has run its course.

Secretary E. R. Gobrecht of the Waukegan Y. M. C. A., A. E. Eaton, Navy Y. M. C. A. secretary; H. E. Felts, office secretary; and Mrs. Lenore Waite, typist, being the entire executive staff, are ill with Spanish influenza.

As a result of a canvass of the situation Lieutenant Commander C. S. Roberts, executive officer, issued the order yesterday afternoon to take effect today.

Liberty Is Curtailed.

"In order to prevent the carrying of influenza to neighboring communities and also to prevent men from the station becoming sick while away from the station," the order reads, "no liberty will be granted until further orders to enlisted men, except chief petty officers and men on the subsistence list.

"Men sent off the station on duty will be required to return when practicable before midnight and sleep on the station."

Wild rumors concerning the deaths of scores of sailors from influenza are heard along the north shore. Station authorities said last night that only twenty-five deaths have resulted among 34,000 sailors from pneumonia since the epidemic started.

Several cases developed at two of the dormitories of Northwestern university, which have been placed under strict quarantine by order of a government health officer. Men housed there arrived early for the opening of the university.

EPIDEMIC RAGES ELSEWHERE.

The situation in other cities, according to last night's telegram, indicated serious epidemics in a number of places, as follows:

NEW YORK.—Fourteen new cases of Spanish influenza were found yesterday on a foreign vessel. Health Commissioner Copeland is making plans for a publicity campaign through moving picture slides to educate the public along preventive lines.

AYER, Mass.—Miss Margaret Sullivan, a nurse at Camp Devens, died today from pneumonia, contracted while she was caring for army men suffering from that disease and influenza. The deaths of nine enlisted men were reported.

NEWPORT.—Influenza among the men in the Second naval district was on the wane today. Three deaths and 130 new cases were reported, a decrease.

CAMP DIX.—Five more deaths resulted from Spanish influenza today, bringing the total to eleven.

FELLOWSHIP

Miss Leone Marie Hayes

The first weekly luncheon of the season of the Irish Fellowship club will be held Saturday at 1 p. m. at the Hotel Sherman. The luncheon will be in honor of Medill McCormick, Republican candidated for United States senator. Mr. McCormick will deliver an address.

An extensive musical program has been prepared, in which will be featured by Miss Leone Marie Hayes, harpist, and Miss Adna Mary Hayes, violinist.

F. D. ROOSEVELT HAS PNEUMONIA; GETS 'FLU' ON SHIP

New York, Sept. 19.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, is at the home of his mother here, suffering from an attack of pneumonia, which developed from Spanish influenza, contracted while on his voyage home from his recent visit to France and England. The illness is not serious, it was stated at his mother's home.

Mr. Roosevelt was brought to the home of his mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, as soon as possible after his arrival on a government ship at an Atlantic port today. It was learned that several other cases of Spanish influenza developed aboard the vessel during the voyage.

Mrs. Roosevelt said that the physicians in charge had reported the illness to be "a light attack of pneumonia." She added that his condition was favorable to an early recovery.

ANTI-SPITTING CAMPAIGN TO KEEP DOWN GRIP

First Deputy Superintendent of Police Morgan Collins yesterday offered a new suggestion which found favor in the city hall in connection with the contemplated renewal of the anti-spitting campaign during the threatened influenza epidemic.

The first deputy believes that stenciled sidewalk signs bearing the words "Don't Spit," would serve as a constant reminder to the careless and prove an effective deterrent.

"I notice that some western cities have adopted this plan," the first deputy said. "They have the stenciled words on the sidewalks at every street intersection."

Chief of Police Alcock said that the police are still "crusading" against the spitting nuisance as a result of a campaign made last spring.

"I have taken special notice only recently, and have seen no violations of the anti-spitting ordinance," he said.

Spanish Influenza May Stop Popularity of Kissing

Chicago physicians were unanimous yesterday in declaring that by far the most pleasant as well as the most dangerous transfer medium of the influenza germ is osculation. "No kissing" signs, they say, should be hung up in all the homes until the Pfeiffer germ has taken an indefintie leave of absence from Chicago.

COMMERCE BODY REPORT FAVORS TRACTION GRANT

Committee Urges Members to Work for Passage of Ordinance.

Announcement was made yesterday that the special traction committee of the executive committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce, after a thorough study of the new traction unification ordinance, has adopted resolutions favoring the new traction scheme.

In addition to finding in favor of the new ordinance it was recommended that the special committee and President Lucius Teter of the association organize at once a citizens' committee to work for the approval of the ordinance when it comes up for a popular vote at the November election.

Text of Resolutions.

The resolutions follow:

"Whereas, in view of the existing franchise rights of the traction companies, a comprehensive traction program can be carried out only through agreement on the part of the city and the respective traction interests; and,

"Whereas, the entire future of the city of Chicago depends upon the proper development of the city's local transportation facilities as a comprehensive system covering the extended area, and connecting by rapid transit lines the widely separated centers of industry and population; and,

"Whereas, Chicago's traction problem has been studied by a commission of most eminent experts, and the ordinance that has been passed has been prepared in the light of the exhaustive report made by such commission, and after careful study and consideration on the part of the city authorities and after an agreement has been reached between the city authorities and the respective traction interests, embodying the principle of service at cost under the control of the city and the management of trustees of demonstrated business ability and public spirit; now, therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the Chicago Association of Commerce approves the traction ordinance, and that it urge the voters of the city to vote in favor of the approval of said ordinance at the election to be held on the 5th of next November; and, be it further

"Resolved, That the special committee on the traction question, with the president of the association, at once organize a citizens' committee, which shall undertake to bring to the attention of the voters the important terms of the traction ordinance and the reasons why said ordinance should be approved by the voters of the city."

Ald. Schwartz Attacks Ordinance.

Ald. U. S. Schwartz, one of the speakers in the City club's traction debate yesterday, assailed the ordinance. He said the men now in control of the city's traction interests were not the real investors.

As to the specific objections to the ordinance the alderman insisted it presents the elevated roads with an annual income of $1,100,000 more than they have been receiving; that the question of raising fares above 5 cents is left in the hands of an unfair body, the board of trustees; and that the traction companies are released from one of the important obligations of the 1907 ordinance—the advancing of $5,000,000 for subway building purposes.

Fight Raise of "L" Fares.

Acting Corporation Counsel Chester Cleveland announced the city had made all plans to resist the efforts of the elevated railroads to obtain an increase in fares.

The first hearing on the question is set for next Monday before the state public utilities commission on the petition filed by the Northwestern Elevated Railway company.

ALBERT STRAUSS GIVEN PLACE ON RESERVE BOARD

Wilson Names New Yorker for Post Left by Warburg.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—Albert Strauss of New York, now representative of the treasury department on the war trade board, was nominated by President Wilson today to succeed Paul M. Warburg as a member of the federal reserve board.

Mr. Strauss, who is 54 years of age, has been a banker all his life and has been associated in recent years with various large enterprises. Since 1901 he has been a member of the firm of J. & W. Seligman & Co. of New York, which he joined as an employé in 1883 after graduating at the College of the City of New York. Among other connections, he has been a member of the executive committee of the Guaranty Trust company.

During the last year Mr. Strauss has served on the war trade board as the treasury spokesman, handling banking and foreign exchange problems.

DR. PRENTIS NOT SHELVED; WORK CHIEFS CHANGED

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—Reports that Dr. Percy L. Prentis of Chicago, former district superintendent for Illinois, and four other middle western states of the United States employment service, had been shelved at the instance of labor leaders, were officially denied here today and supplemented with the announcement that all district superintendents of the service have been eliminated.

A change of policy has been determined upon in the service which will do away with the thirteen district superintendents of the country and Dr. Prentis is one of them. The purpose is to make the state organization the basic unit and the reason given for the change is the tremendous growth of the service.

Director General Densmore has authorized a readjustment, centering responsibility for the federal directors of employment in the states; instituting uniform methods of office operation, and realigning the administrative work of the director general's office at Washington into five divisions, each in charge of a director.

COLVER DEFENDS U.S. TRADE BOARD IN PACKER CASE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—At a luncheon of the Round Table forum today Chairman Colver of the Federal Trade commission defended that board's recent report accusing the Chicago packers of maintaining monopolies and engaging in covert business practices of a reprehensible nature.

"We do not profess a 1.000 per cent batting average on accuracy," said Mr. Colver, "but we are satisfied that there are no serious errors or misstatements of fact in our report."

"Have not errors of serious consequence and misrepresentations of fact been pointed out to you by the packers?" Mr. Colver was asked by one of the guests during the discussion.

"No, with the exception of one man, for whom I have the highest regard," replied Mr. Colver. "He represents one of the packing firms, and he did come before us and challenge some of the statements regarding his company."

GERMANY USED BOLSHEVIKI TO ENSLAVE FINNS

Forced Withdrawal of Red Guards; U. S. Bares Assassination Plot.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—How the iron hand of the German general staff was extended into Finland through the German paid Russian Bolshevik government is pictured in today's installment of secret documents brought out of Russia for the American government. There also are some peremptory notes from the German military intelligence service to Trotzky, then the Bolsheviki foreign minister, telling more of the story of the suppression of revolutionary propaganda in Russian provinces after it had played its part in throwing the provinces into German control.

When the Bolsheviki were slow about opening the way for complete away for their masters in Finland, the German intelligence service had "the honor" to remind them that the withdrawal and disarming of the Russian Red Guard in Finland must be commenced immediately. Furthermore, the Russian agents were directed to send to Finland a trusty agent to deal with Yarvo Haapalainen, chief of the Finnish White Guard, who was disposed to be loyal to his country. This Edgar Sisson, who procured the documents, explains in a note, accounts for the sudden withdrawal of the Red Guard last March, leaving Finland to her fate.

DOCUMENT NO. 43

[Gr. (Great) General Staff, Central Abtheilung, Section M-R, No. 411, Feb. 26, 1918.]

VERY SECRET.

To the Council of People's Commissars: According to instructions from the high command of the German army, I have the honor to remind you that the withdrawing and disarming of the Russian Red Guard from Finland must be commenced immediately. It is known to the staff that the chief opponent of this step is the head of the Finnish Red guard, Yarvo Haapalainen, who has a great influence on the Russian tovarische (comrades). I request you to send for this struggle with Haapalainen our agent, Walter Nevalainen (Nevalaisselle), bearer of Finnish passport 3631, and supply him with a passport and pass.—Head of the department, O. Rausch; Adjutant, U. Wolff.

Note.—Written at the top of the letter and signed N. G., the initials of Lenine's secretary, N. Gorbunov, is the order: "Send to the commissar of foreign affairs and execute." In the margin is written, "Passport 211—No. 393," but unfortunately the name under which the new passport was given is not mentioned. This order explains the withdrawal of the Russian Red guard from Finland in early March and the abandonment of the Finish Red guard to its fate.

DOCUMENT NO. 44

[G. G. S. Nachrichten Bureau, Section R, No. 283.]

To the Commissar of Foreign Affairs: We are told that secret-service agents attached to Stavka are following Maj. Erich, who has been ordered to Kieff. I ask you to take urgent measures to remove the surveillance of the above named officer.—Head of the Department, Agasfer; Adjt. Bukhoim.

Note.—This note marks the period of acute irritation over the Ukraine between Bolsheviki and Germans. "Agasfer" is Maj. Luberts.

DOCUMENT NO. 45

[G. G. S., Nachrichten Bureau, Section R, No. 228, Feb. 4, 1918.]

To the Commissar of Foreign Affairs: By instructions of the representative of our staff I have the honor to ask you immediately to recall from the Ukrania front the agitators Bryansky, Wulf, Drabkin, and Pittsker. Their activity has been recognised as dangerous by the German general staff.—Head of the Department, Agasfer; Adjt. Henrich.

DOCUMENT NO. 46

[G. G. S., Nachrichten Bureau, Section R, Feb. 8, 1918.]

To the Commissar of Foreign Affairs: According to instructions of the representative of our general staff, I have the honor once more to insist that you recall from Estland, Litva, and Courland all agitators of the central executive committee of the soviet of workmen and soldiers' deputies.—Head of the Department, Agasfer; adjt. Bulkholm.

DOCUMENT NO. 47

[G. G. S., Nachrichten Bureau, Section R, No. 17, Feb. 17, 1918.]

To the Council of People's Commissars: The intelligence department has received detailed information that the agitators of the Petrograd soviet of workmen and soldiers' deputies have completely changed the character of the Estland Socialists' activity, which finally led to the local German landlords being declared outlawed. By order of the general staff I ask you to take immediate steps for the restoring of the rights of the above mentioned German landlords and the recalling of the agitators.—For the head of the department, R. Bauer.

To the Council of People's Commissars: By our agents it has been established that connections between the Poles, the Don, and French officers, and also probably the diplomatic representatives of the allied powers are maintained by means of Russian officers traveling under the guise of sack speculators. In view of this we request you to take measures for the strict surveillance of the latter.—Commissar Kalmanovich.

Note.—Sack speculators were food peddlers who went into the provinces and brought food to the cities for profitable sale.

DOCUMENT NO. 49

[Gr. General Staff, Section R, No. 151, Dec. 4, 1917.]

To the Commissariat of Military Affairs: Herewith the intelligence bureau has the honor to transmit a list of the persons of Russian origin who are in the service of the German intelligence department:

Sakharoff, officer First Infantry Reserve regiment; Praporschik Ter-Arytiuniants, Praporschik Zanko, Tarchuk, Golovin, Zhuk, Ilinsky, Chernlavsky, Capt. Postinkov, Scheuesmann, Sailors Trushin and Gavrilov.—Head of Department, Agasfer.

DOCUMENT NO. 50

[Gr. General Staff, central Grietan, section M, Jan. 14, 1918.]

VERY CONFIDENTIAL.

To the Chairman of the People's Council of Commissars: The Russian section of the German general staff has received an urgent report from our agents at Novocherkask and Rostoff that the friction which has arisen between Gen. Alexieff and Gen. Kaledin, after which the volunteer corps of Gen. Alexieff began the movement to the north, is a tactical step to have a base in the rear. In this way the army of Gen. Alexieff will have a reliable rear base protected by Cossack troops for supplying the army and a base in case of an overwhelming movement on the part of the enemy. The communications of Gen. Alexieff with the Polish troops have been proved by new reports of the Polish Bolshevik commissars, Shuk and Dombitsky.—Chief of the Division of General Staff, O. Rausch; senior aid, R. Krieger.

Note.—Important as showing that the Germans had a real fear of the military possibilities in the Alexieff-Kaledin movement.

DOCUMENT NO. 51

[Counter espionage at the Stavka, No. 263-78, Jan. 23, 1918.]

To the Commissariat of Foreign Affairs: To your inquiry regarding those agents who might be able to give an exact report of the sentiment of the troops and population in the provinces, I transmit to you a short list of the Russo-German agents-informers. In Voronesh, S. Sirtsef; in Rostov, Globov and Melikov; in Tiflis, Enskidze and Gavrilov; in Kazan, Pfaltz; in Samara, Ostpov and Voenig; in Omsk, Blagoveschensky and Sipko; in Tomsk, Dattan, Tarasov, and Rodionov; in Irkutsk, Zhinisherova and Gess; in Vladivostok, Buttenhof, Pannoff, and Erlanger.—Chief of counter espionage, Felerabend; Commissar, Kanmanovich.

[Counter espionage at the Stavka, No. 266, Jan. 21, 1918.]

To the Commission for Combatting the Counter Revolution: The agents of the counter espionage at the Stavka have established that the anarchists Stepan Krilloff, Fedor Kutzi, and Albert Bremsen, at Helsingfors, and also Nahim, Arshavsky, Ruphim, Levin, and Mikhail Shatiloff had during the recent days a conference with the chief of staff of the Petrograd army district Shpilko. After Comrade Shpilko transmitted to the anarchists the offer of Comrade Antenoff and Comrade Berzin to recruit agents for the destruction of several counter revolutionists, the latter expressed their willingness and immediately began the recruiting.—For the Chief of the Counter espionage; Commissar, C. Moshlov.

[Counter espionage at the Stavka, No. 471, Jan. 27, 1918.]

To the Commission of Combating the Counter Revolution: By us here there has been received a report from Finland, from Grishin and Bakhi, of the counter revolutionary activity of the lawyer Jonas Kastren. This Kastren, in the years 1914-'15, recruited on German funds Finnish volunteer regiments and sent them to Germany. Now he, together with Svinhuvid, Ernroth, and Nandelschtedt, is on the side of the White guards and is aiding them with money, supplies, and arms. It is necessary immediately to cut short the work of Jonas Kastren and his group.—Commissar A. Sivko.

Red Crown Gasoline 23 Cts. Per Gallon in YOUR Back Yard

If you haven't a storage tank on your premises install one at once—that's the convenient way to buy your gasoline.

If you cannot accommodate a storage tank then buy your gasoline at any of the Standard Oil Service Stations listed below.

It costs no more than inferior gasoline and gives greater mileage per gallon, more power and more speed, because it has the perfect chain of boiling point fractions, which is the only measuring rod for the efficiency of any gasoline.

BUYING LUMBER With Other Staples

YOU defeat your own best interests if you assume that present day prices of all important commodities are excessive.

For example, consider the price of good lumber, now and before the war.

Southern Pine

"The Wood of Service"

—used far more than any other for general building purposes—now costs somewhat more in dollars and cents than it did before the outbreak of the European war.

But that doesn't prove that Southern Pine is "high" today.

A fair determination of its cost is by comparison with the cost of other staple commodities, now and before the war.

Without considering the general decrease in the purchasing power of a dollar since 1913, suppose you were buying Southern Pine, using other commodities as mediums of exchange. Here are a few figures, based on Chicago prices, showing what your purchasing power was in 1913 and in the first quarter of 1918, from statements compiled by recognized statistical authorities. These show the amount of various staples required to purchase 1,000 board feet of Southern Pine in the years mentioned.

	1913		1st Quarter 1918
Wheat	23.4	bu.	15.1	bu.
Corn	35	bu.	16.6	bu.
Milk	553	qts.	319	qts.
Flour	5	bbls.	3.1	bbls.
Bacon	212.6	lbs.	139.9	lbs.
Potatoes	13.3	bu.	8.8	bu.
Cotton	189.5	lbs.	103.2	lbs.
Wool	95.8	lbs.	46	lbs.
Butter	74.6	lbs.	66.5	lbs.
Sugar	553.1	lbs.	437.9	lbs.

The foregoing clearly indicates that the value of Southern Pine, measured by its exchange value with other commodities, is far lower than it was before the war, and that its advance in cash cost has been far less than almost any other important commodity.

Southern Pine still remains the most economical and serviceable building material on the market—one essential commodity that is NOT high.

SENDING OUT OF QUESTIONNAIRES IS HALTED HERE

Draft Boards Await Order from Washington Before Resuming.

Sending out questionnaires by draft boards was halted yesterday and men seeking to enlist in the naval air service found it impossible. The questionnaires were held up because no official order has been sent for them to go out. It is expected that more questions will be added before they are mailed.

There was a rush at headquarters of the air service, 330 East Ohio street, of men who wanted to enlist, and there was another jam at 600 South State street, where naval recruiting headquarters are located. At the latter place the men were told that no recruiting could be done until an official order to accept men had been received.

Navy Not Ready Yet.

A wire received last night from THE TRIBUNE'S Washington correspondent quoted Secretary Daniels as saying that plans for inducting draft registrants into the navy would be announced in a few days. The navy is not prepared to take them now, the secretary stated.

Commander Culp, inspector of naval recruiting in the Great Lakes district, said last night that the navy is taking no men at present. He indicated his belief that the holding up of questionnaires was the real reason for this.

An order received from Washington at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon opened enlistments in the army aviation corps to such men as have serial numbered cards, which means men registered in the prior draft. The marines also are continuing to enlist men who have serial numbers.

Men Must Have Cards.

"Enlistment officers cannot take any man until he has a card," said R. H. Marlick, president of the Selective Service association. "The only exception would be men who are over the age of 44. It seems to me that the best thing for any man to do who wants to get into a special branch of the service is to get his questionnaire as soon as available and then get his draft board to give him his classification."

Jacob Bernheim, secretary of the central committee on registration, said questionnaires would not be given out until the official order is received and that in the meantime the boards cannot grant releases

Essential Job Hunters Hit.

An order was received yesterday from Provost Marshal General Crowder that men who have not hitherto been in an essential industry cannot now make a change. Many men in essential industries will be granted exemption, but they will not be permitted to claim exemption unless they have been previously engaged in work classed as necessary.

A selective service information bureau was opened yesterday at the Chicago Association of Commerce offices. Advice is to be given to men and help will be given in filling out questionnaires.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS WILL TRAIN MEN FOR ARMY WORK

Courses at 30 Night Classes; Crane on College Basis.

Plans for extensive war training courses in the public schools of Chicago have been completed and were announced last night by Assistant Superintendent William M. Roberts. The courses will be given in connection with the thirty evening schools, which open Monday, and as part of the two year collegiate course of Crane Technical High school. For the latter purpose the Marquette school at South Wood and West Harrison streets, one of the oldest landmarks on the west side, will be converted into a barracks.

Crane High school has for some time offered two years of college work in addition to the regular high school curriculum. Students in this course will accordingly be entitled to the status of college students, and as such will be inducted into the students' army training corps. They will receive their board and lodging from the government and the pay of a private.

Drill at Old Cub Park.

Quartered in the Marquette school barracks they will attend day sessions at Crane and evening classes at the barracks. For drill purposes they will make use of the old Cubs' baseball park at South Lincoln and West Polk streets. The use of these grounds has been granted them by Charles Murphy. The attendance is expected to exceed 800. Those completing the course will become candidates for commissions.

The courses in the evening schools will be in charge of Capt. Beals, director of physical and military training in Chicago high schools.

Schools with Evening Classes.

Following is a list of schools at which the evening classes will be held:
Komensky—South Throop street, near Twenty-first.
Marquette—Harrison and Wood streets.
Medill—West Fourteenth place, near Throop street.

Hammond—Twenty-first place and California avenue.
Herzl—Douglas boulevard and Lawndale avenue.
Jackson—South Shields street, near Damen.

Technical Training Offered.

The evening schools will offer training courses for noncommissioned officers, technical courses, courses for mechanics, automobile drivers, radio operators, etc. In the radio classes the men will be given preliminary training in code and tinsmith work to prepare them for the signal corps.

STUDENTS' CORPS OFFERS BEST WAY TO COMMISSIONS

The shortest road to a commission in the army is through the student army training corps in colleges and universities, said Edmund J. James, president of the University of Illinois, at the La Salle hotel yesterday. He declared that the Champaign institution, preparing to train 5,000 student soldiers, expects to be to the mid-west what Harvard is to the east.

"Aside from this opportunity to secure a commission," explained President James, "membership in this corps practically guarantees a place in the army, whether as commissioned or noncommissioned officer, mechanic, or infantryman, in which a man can render his largest service to his country.

"Men in class 1 may enter, provided they have not been selected for draft before induction into this corps, and those who have registered under the new draft may be accepted before they are actually classified in the draft.

Doesn't Protect Slackers.

"The training corps is not a device to protect slackers, for the men will be called out in proportion to the needs of the government. Its advantage is that it will offer opportunity to ambitious men who have not been drafted to show their fitness for commissions.

"The students' corps is one of the devices by which the government will select officers for the enormous additional army which it is now proposing to raise. Persons desiring to enter this corps at the University of Illinois must register on Sept. 30 or Oct. 1, as instruction will begin on Oct. 2."

Want Specially Trained Men.

To obtain men who have demonstrated their ability in commercial life for work in the army the war department has appealed to manufacturers and business men to submit names of their employés with such qualifications who come in the early draft classification. The general staff plans to place the men in positions similar to those which they hold in civil life, thereby increasing the efficiency of the various branches of the war department.

Wheaton college at Wheaton, Ill., was added to the list of schools yesterday where students' army training corps will be established.

ASSISTS MURDER OF 40 BABIES.

Montreal, Sept. 19.—The disastrous Grey nunnery fire of Feb. 14 last, in which sixty-five babies were burned to death, was purposely caused by a female orderly of the institution, Martha Cournoyeaka, she confessed when accused by detectives, who today arrested her at the nunnery, where she was still employed.

"WORK OR FIGHT" SENDS 100,000 INTO RIGHT JOBS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—An official estimate that 100,000 registrants had been forced into productive employment through operation of the draft "work or fight" rule was made today by Provost Marshal General Crowder. It is expected that a number equally as large will be turned over from nonproductive to essential employment when the rule is applied to the 13,000,000 registrants enrolled in the 18 to 45 draft classes.

Press Services Are Listed as "Essential" in Draft

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—Employés of press associations actually engaged in the collection and transmission of news by wire to daily newspapers, under a ruling tonight by the provost marshal general's office, are included among persons engaged in necessary occupations and therefore entitled to file claims for deferred draft classifications.

Illinois 13,000 Below U. S. Registration Estimate

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—Complete returns on the recent draft registration from Illinois and Missouri were received today by Provost Marshal General Crowder. Illinois showed an actual registration of 846,875, compared with an estimate of 859,834. Missouri registered 421,056, against an estimate of 396,809.

18 MONTHS, FINE, EX-LAWMAKER'S SPY ACT PENALTY

Eau Claire, Wis., Sept. 19.—Eighteen months at Leavenworth and a fine of $2,500 was imposed today by Judge A. L. Sanborn in the United States court here on Francis Xavier Schilling of Cassel, county board chairman of Marathon county, and former state assemblyman, who was found guilty by a jury here on six counts of violating the espionage act by counseling and advising draft registrants to make false claims of exemption, and him by disloyal utterances. The defendant furnished a bond of $10,000, pending appeal of the case.

$50,000,000 Airplane Plant Is Being Organized Here

A $50,000,000 airplane corporation, to make Chicago the greatest permanent center of airplane production in the world, is under process of formation, it was learned last night from Samuel M. Hastings, president of the Computing Scale Company of America.

Mr. Hastings, who has just returned from Washington, where he has been discussing the project with officials, is chairman of a committee recently appointed by the Illinois Manufacturers' association to take the preliminary steps toward the formation of the corporation.

The corporation is backed by several large wood and metal construction companies, as well as by banks and large financial interests, according to Mr. Hastings.

'RED' ROSS, WITH 14 HOLES IN HIM, GOES BACK AT 'EM

BY CHARLES N. WHEELER.
[Special Correspondent of The Tribune.]

IN THE S. O. S. SECTOR, France, Aug. 16.—Bad Axe is not a very handsome name for a hamlet, even though it be in the state of Michigan, and Bad Axe might as well get ready now to change its name to Rossville in honor of Private Daniel M. Ross, one of the heroes of the second battle of the Marne.

The fourteen holes the Huns shot in him are healing rapidly and what scars he experienced when they put a pistol to his head and threatened to blow out his brains regardless of his terrible wounds has entirely vanished. "Red," as he is known to the Marne heroes, is determined to get back into it and even up scores with the enemy, although he probably now is entitled to cut several notches on the butt of his rifle.

When the Germans, in their last abortive attempt to push on to Paris, crossed the Marne in the vicinity of Fossoy on the morning of July 15 there was some hot fighting at this point.

Ross' Story.

Ross' story, told to me as the surgeon was picking shrapnel out of him in a dozen places and getting ready to operate on both legs, is as follows:

"Hell broke loose when that German barrage was laid down and their preparatory bombardment shook the earth. When they came on some French troops near us wanted to fall back to a prepared position, but we said nothing doing and decided to fight into 'em. In one little village near where we started the fighting was hot.

"We went into 'em on the 15th with our coats off and sleeves rolled up.

"Frits had his airplanes working as well as the 'coal boxes' and 'rolling kitchens' and 'Big Berthas' (heavy guns), and it sure was hell when you stop to think of it now. Our boys didn't mind it much at the time. We went ahead.

"A few minutes later a boy fighting with me had his head smashed with a shell. Then I got a machine gun bullet in this right leg, and I could feel something stinging in the other leg. It was the shrapnel.

"We went on a little farther, doing our best to account for as many Huns as possible before they got us, when I got it in the other leg with shrapnel, and this time I went down. Both legs were useless and I decided to crawl into a shell hole, for the machine gun bullets sure were a-whistling through that place.

Crawls to Safety.

"After I had been in this shell hole about two hours two of our men came along and started to carry me back. They were captured and they had to leave me there. I was near a small ravine. I couldn't use my legs, but I was good at crawling when it looked as if life was worth fighting for.

"I crawled for about two hours when I heard voices. I took a chance and called to them. They were Americans, a couple of stragglers coming in from the handful of men left out of their company. They gave me a lift and carried me back to a cellar in a little village. This was about 10 o'clock that night. The boys said they were using four cellars in this village for the wounded. The fight was still on here and went on the next day around this place and it was some fighting, believe me.

Again Captured.

"There were eleven wounded in the cellar I was placed in, including myself. Two were Germans and one was an Austrian our boys had picked up and carried back for the first aid. There was a ball player by the name of Red O'Toole with us.

"We got through the night all right, but about 9 o'clock the next morning there was a lot of firing outside and then the first thing we knew a Hun called down in the cellar for us to get ready to die as he was going to unload a few grenades. The German wounded with us said that was what they said. We thought it was all up. I did, but I thought I would stick it out until they got us. So I prayed a little. Did I pray? Man, O man; did I pray?

"Well, they didn't send down the grenades, but three of the raiding party—there were about 100 Germans in this party we learned afterwards—came down into the cellar. The leader was the toughest looking human being I ever saw.

Finds Decent Foe.

"The two raiders who came down with him were half way civilized. Both could talk English. One German said he had worked two years in Birmingham, England. He seemed to take pity on me and came over and got a rag and wet it and washed off my face.

"We managed to get through the day and believe me it was some long day. Between 5 and 6 o'clock that night we heard a motor and American voices outside. It was the ambulance boys who had come to pick us up. The Germans captured them, six Red Cross men and two ambulance drivers, besides a company cook named Jones who had gone back the night before for an ambulance. They killed some of the rescuing party, too. But Jones was too foxy for them. He rolled into a dugout as if shot and later played off sick. He got an old pail and a stick and pretended he was going for some water. He limped around the corner of the building and then he picked his way somehow and got away.

"It was not very long after that that we heard firing again outside. This time we were in luck for it was Jones and his rescue bunch back again. They had German rifles, American rifles and anything they could use for a weapon and when they got through the German guard left with the machine gun lay dead just outside our door.

"There wasn't any time to lose, as the Germans were all around there and straggling bands were fighting at close quarters on all sides. Jones and the Y. M. C. A. man—some one said his name was Shreeve or something like that—commanded the rescuing party and they loaded up about forty men all together out of four cellars. You wouldn't think badly wounded men could get around as lively as this bunch did.

Engine an Flivver Balks.

"They picked me up and tossed me into a flivver and about sixteen others tried to get into this one machine, which was built to carry three. Our driver never drove a car before and we had gone but a short distance when we hit a little hill. I guess he didn't know how to manipulate the gears for the grade, for the engine stopped dead. We couldn't tell just who was doing all the shooting around there, whether they were Americans or Huns. But as soon as the flivver went dead we all threw ourselves out.

"I crawled across the road and into a field. There was a lot of heavy shelling around us and the German bombing planes were letting down a lot of bad stuff. We could hear the put-put-put-put of the machine guns and the whistle of bullets on all sides. But I crawled on. As long as I wasn't dead I thought I'd keep trying.

"In a little while Jones came back down the road with another ambulance. He had got away with his load and got back to the American line. He saw me over in the field elbowing along and ran over and picked me up and carried me to his ambulance. The other wounded were picked up, and this time we got back to brigade headquarters and then to the first aid dressing station. Then I went to sleep."

COTTON CAUSES MOORE-RAINEY BOUT IN HOUSE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—A red hot tilt between Representative Henry T. Rainey, Democrat of Illinois, and Representative J. Hampton Moore, Republican of Pennsylvania, over the taxation of cotton and mixed flour threw the house into an uproar during the revenue debate today.

Representative Rainey charged Mr. Moore with representing Pennsylvania "profiteers." Mr. Moore countered by charging Mr. Rainey with championing the Standard Oil company. Mr. Rainey denounced this as "absolutely false."

The clash began when Mr. Rainey, with the endorsement of Food Administrator Hoover, offered an amendment to lift the tax upon mixed flour. Representative Moore promptly made a point of order against it. The point of order was sustained, and Mr. Rainey's amendment was tossed into the legislative wastebasket. The Illinois congressman was indignant.

A few minutes later Mr. Moore presenate his amendments to levy a tax upon cotton. Mr. Rainey leaped to his feet, and the duel of charges and counter charges began.

The first of Mr. Moore's amendments to tax cotton used in the manufacture of certain fabrics was voted down, 106 to 23. The other was knocked out on a point of order.

Army Deaths a Third Those of Civilian Life

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—Health of American troops at home and overseas continues remarkably good. Surgeon General Gorgas announced today that for the two months' period ending Aug. 31 the death rate of the entire army was 2.18, compared with the death rate of men in civilian life of military age of 6.7.

SHRAPNEL

A benefit performance by the Wrightwood branch of the American Fund for French Wounded will be given at the Shore Crest hotel under the direction of Bonsena Gueldner next Wednesday at 2:15 p. m.

Capt. Phillip M. Brown, for several months in charge of military training at Northwestern university, has been ordered to Galesburg, where he will act in a similar capacity at Knox and Lombard colleges. Lieut. L. J. Williams is to supervise the work at Northwestern.

Capt. C. L. Southwick of 622 East Sixty-second street was given a farewell reception at his home last night by more than 600 members of the noncommissioned officers' training corps at the University of Chicago who have studied under him. He is leaving soon for active service.

Call Out for 300 Women to Serve Red Cross Abroad

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—Request for 300 women to serve in Red Cross hospital huts and as communication and canteen workers in American military hospitals in France was received today at headquarters here. It is imperative, the message said, that they be on duty Nov. 1, as on that date, under the agreement with the Y. M. C. A., the Red Cross is obligated to take over that organization's huts at hospitals and to continue their recreational and canteen features. Telegrams were sent to all divisions to speed up recruiting for this special service overseas.

CHICAGO SCION OF HUNS FACES COURT MARTIAL

Camp Grant, Ill., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—Attempts to incite mutiny among men confined in the Camp Grant military prison brought Fred J. Muhlke, 4137 North Lawndale avenue, Chicago, to the direct attention of camp authorities today and will result in his trial by general court martial on a serious charge.

Potential danger in the prisoner as a free agent was impressed upon army officers when it was discovered that the troublesome selective, already confined for one offense is an American born member of a Prussian family. He told officers his mother was born in Berlin and his father is a native of Potsdam.

The family left Germany for Chicago, where Fred was born, and he came to camp among the first Chicago contingents last October. He was assigned first to the medical corps and went to the base hospital, where persistent breaking of the regulations brought him to trial before a special court last July on the charge of disobedience to orders.

He was given the maximum special court sentence of six months in the guardhouse and later sent to the military prison, where his trouble making proclivities came into full play.

Insubordination and threatened violence against soldier guards over him, and systematic spreading of discontent in the prison itself, together with numerous attempts to communicate with unknown agents outside the prison, are included in the charges against him.

Capt. N. L. Trabua, psychological expert who has developed the valuable department here, has been transferred to Fort Sheridan and will leave soon to take up the same type of duty there.

Maj. E. G. Pratt, 1013 Peoples Gas building, Chicago, reported today to take charge of the utilities department of the quartermaster corps.

"—the two million fathers of our soldiers and sailors—I know them. I have seen the gray creep into their hair these last months. If one wish were granted to them they would say 'Let us be with our boys for just a little while!'"

That wish was granted to John R. Mott, the big "Y" man. He saw his boy in France. He's back here now with a message to every father and mother whose boy is "over there". He talks to you in the October number of The American Magazine.[1]

Men like Mott talk to you in The American Magazine every month.

Each has a story, something worth telling, entertaining, helpful. There is something in each number for you, something about your health, your family, your job, your ambition, your happiness. The October American Magazine is a visit from a lot of entertaining and helpful people.

FRANK L. SMITH PICKED TO RUN G. O. P. CAMPAIGN

Republican Chiefs Agree on Dwight Man for State Chairman.

BY E. O. PHILLIPS.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—Frank L. Smith of Dwight quite probably will be elected chairman of the new Republican state committee tomorrow morning. Early tonight it appeared that amicable arrangements had been made all around, whereby there will be no roll call, no test vote, no anything, except the election of Col. Smith.

This decision was agreed to by the responsible party leaders representing all potential and real candidates for president, United States senator, governor, and state treasurer, at a conference held tonight that adjourned shortly before the retiring state committee held its final session at the Leland hotel.

Selected After Full Discussion.

The decision favorable to Col. Smith came after a free for all discussion of all of the factors involved in the pending Republican situation. While his election is not a determined proposition, the indications at this hour are that probably fifteen of the twenty-five members of the new state committee would be for him should there have to be a showdown roll call.

Gov. Lowden, Secretary of State Rasmussen, State Treasurer Len Small, State Auditor Andrew Russel, and Attorney General Brundage went into a conference at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Medill McCormick and his campaign manager, Senator Clarence F. Buck, participated. The views of Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman, whose term expires two years hence, had been directly and forcibly explained, following his arrival in Springfield at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

A. S. Harrison to Run Convention.

Following upon this conference which adjourned long after the dinner hour it seems probable that the declaration among the members of the state committee to elect Col. Smith was reached with considerable degree of definiteness.

The state convention tomorrow will have Gov. Lowden as its temporary chairman. John H. Harrison of Danville will be the permanent chairman, Hiram L. Johnson of Aurora was selected as secretary and five women were named for assistant secretaries. The platform has been agreed upon in all its essentials and will be adopted without dissent.

Bankers Open Institute to Women as Members

Denver, Colo., Sept. 19.—Formal recognition of banking as a field of business activity wherein women are to be given equal opportunities with men, was given at the closing session of the annual convention of the American Institute of Banking here today, when a resolution opening membership in the institute to women was adopted unanimously.

SEN. LEWIS IN U. S., BUT LOOKS LATE FOR SPRINGFIELD

BY ARTHUR M. EVANS.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—Unless Senator James Hamilton Lewis flies here in an aeroplane, the leaders of the Illinois Democracy fear that tomorrow's convention will lack a virtuoso keynoter.

William L. O'Connell got word early this afternoon that the senator had made port back from France earlier in the day and had left for Washington. He was flashed a distress signal to hurry on to Springfield, where all is set for the clans to gather in a harmony seldom seen in state politics.

When the leaders got out the railroad time table they saw little chance for the senator to get here in time. His managers have wired him to send a message to the delegates outlining the issues of the campaign, and it appears that the real keynoting will be done by long distance.

All the details of the meet seem to have been attended to in advance. Leaders of all groups sat in on the rough draft of the resolution tonight.

Planks of Platform.

The resolutions dwell upon the great part America is playing in the war and the world leadership that has been achieved by President Wilson. They say in substance that the platform of the Democratic party is being written on the battlefields of France. The appeal is that a defeat of the Democratic ticket might be construed abroad as a repudiation of President Wilson and the war administration. One plank praises the record of Senator Lewis in the war congress. Other planks are:

Indorsement of a constitutional convention.

Indorsement of the good roads campaign for the $60,000,000 bond proposal that will be submitted to the voters in November.

A call for court reforms.

Donovan for Chairman.

As plans stand Thomas F. Donovan of Joliet is to be chairman of the state convention.

For trustees of the University of Illinois it is planned to nominate John M. Crebs of Carmi and S. B. Montgomery of Quincy. The third place, which is unsettled, may go to Mrs. Mary Gallery of Chicago.

Drops Fight for Release of I. W. W. in Bomb Case

Attorney George F. Vandeveer, chief counsel for the I. W. W. leaders recently sent to the federal prison, yesterday said he would dismiss his petition for a writ of habeas corpus for the release of eleven "Wobblies" held in connection with the federal building bomb outrage. The hearing on the petition had been set by Judge Marcus Kavanagh for next Monday. Those being held are J. W. ("Shorty") Wilson, Matt Fox, Peter Dailey, Fred Hardy, William Chance, Peter Stone, Steve Csulai, Otto Justh, John Delaney, Centare Yoshihari, and Theodore Metroff.

HARRISON MIGHT RUN FOR MAYOR IN BERLIN, NOT HERE

Takes Himself Out of the Race as He Starts for France.

If Carter H. Harrison runs for mayor next spring it will be on the Democratic ticket in captured Berlin. Chicago's five time mayor expressed this sentiment yesterday as he was departing for Washington, where he will report to the war risk insurance bureau and then start for France on government work.

"I don't know what work they are going to put me at," Mr. Harrison said. "I am going over as a private, subject to orders. I volunteered my services and the government has accepted them."

Hopes to Be in Berlin.

Mr. Harrison expressed the hope that he would be in Berlin at the time of the mayoralty election when asked if it was his intention to get back to Chicago to take part in the municipal election campaign.

Mr. Harrison's only expressed election hope was that the citizens would vote down the traction ordinance in November.

Democrats Pick Headquarters.

The national committee of the Democratic party has announced the selection of the Iroquois club as its western headquarters. H. B. Parks is to be in charge as special representative.

CLEAR COP WHO KILLED BANDIT.

ASK FORFEIT OF $125,000 BOND

Suit will be started as soon as the time allowed by law elapses against Richard Curran, real estate dealer, who signed the bond of $125,000 for James Driscoll, indicted member of the gang that committed the $300,000 jewel robbery in the office of Heller Ross company in the Marshall Field Annex building. Driscoll fled several weeks ago. This became known when he failed to appear in the South Clark street police court to answer to the robbery charge.

Curran charged shortly after the bond forfeiture that Attorney W. W. O'Brien, who represented Driscoll, had made misrepresentations to him when he signed the bond. Attorney O'Brien denies this.

One Pound Limit on Candy Doesn't Hit War Workers

Soldiers, sailors, and Red Cross nurses are to be exempt from the one pound limit on candy sales. Civilians, who are buying candy for soldiers overseas can also buy more than the pound at a time. This has been agreed upon by the retail confectioners of Chicago, and thus they hope to work off their investment in boxes and packages holding more than a pound. One man complained yesterday that he has eight children and doesn't dare go home with a single pound box, as the government edict limits the sales.

Finds Children in Home Here After 4 Year Search

After a search of nearly four years, Mrs. Lillian Gleason of Detroit found her two children in the Chicago Industrial Home for Children a few days ago. The search was carried on in Detroit, Minneapolis, and Chicago. Mrs. Gleason alleges they were kidnaped from her by her former husband, Frank Parkhurst, after she had obtained a divorce in Detroit and was awarded custody of the children. Yesterday she applied for a writ of habeas corpus in the Circuit court for the release of the children—Charles, 5 years old, and Frank, 7 years old.

GRAND JURY PUTS OFF JAIL INQUIRY

Grand jury investigation into the recent jail delivery, in which Earl Dear and Lloyd Bopp, condemned murderers, et al., figured, has been postponed until some time next week. Assistant State's Attorney Michael F. Sullivan, who has charge of the state's attorney's investigation of the escape, said:

"New developments, which we hope will clear up the conspiracy through which the men escaped and also lead to the arrest of the escaped men themselves, have appeared in the case. For this reason grand jury action must be withheld for the present."

Changes and Appointments in Y. M. C. A. Management

Several changes and appointments are announced affecting the personnel of the management of the Chicago Y. M. C. A., among them the following: W. N. Northcott, named secretary to General Secretary L. Wilbur Messer; A. S. Bart, high school secretary; L. C. Hollister, metropolitan student secretary; E. H. Knapp, business secretary central department; Lowell Hoxsey and C. E. Cooley, assistant physical directors; T. P. Pearman, railroad secretary; T. P. Turner, work secretary.

There are also some changes in outlying districts. Ernest Wen succeeds K. K. Chang as assistant secretary of the Chinese Young Men's Christian institute. A strong program of training for army work is planned by the Y. M. C. A. this winter.

Red Cross Has Letters for Soldiers' Relatives

Chicago chapter, American Red Cross, has two letters addressed to relatives bringing them news from boys at the front. They are at room 511, 38 East Washington street. Owing to change or errors in address, the letters have not been delivered. They are to Mrs. Jennie Miner, 3353 Main street, telling her that her son, reported missing, is in a prison camp, and to Alexander Kubacky, 1309 South Peoria street, containing news of a relative reported missing in action.

FASHION'S BLUE BOOK

BY CORINNE LOWE.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—If every nut brown maydo should get a ballad addressed to her nowadays it would keep all the verse smiths busy. Brown is one of the most fashionable shades of the year and we find it called caramel, Havana, and henna. The last named is particularly prominent. This reddish mahogany brown is particularly stunning in suits and some of the smartest Parisiennes, so it is reported, are seen wearing wool jersey suits of henna accompanied by velvet hats of the same rich tone.

Speaking of three piece costumes, they are one of the strong fashion notes of the fall. Georgette is much used in this connection, and it is accompanied frequently by velvet coats of harmonizing or darker color.

Tribune Cook Book

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Whale Meat Is Popular.

A salesman in a big fish store tells me that a chef of his acquaintance parboils whale meat as a preparation for cooking it, using not only some soda in the water—one teaspoon to a quart—but also some vinegar. This modifies the gamey flavor of the meat.

The recipes of the United States food administration which were recently reprinted in this column with some comment were pasted on the window of a fish market the week whale meat came to town, and people stopped and read them, then went in to buy whale. They not only bought then, but returned, so that nearly 200 pounds a day of the meat is now being sold. The manager of the store said that the little clipping was responsible for the sale of at least 500 pounds. I am quite proud to have helped to introduce to this extent this new meat that the government is promoting at the moment it was being introduced hereabouts.

A bit of information from the manager of this store seemed particularly interesting. He thinks calf whale excellent eating, and is not so sure that he likes the old fellows. An old whale, according to an article printed some months ago, weighs 40,000 pounds, or is equal in weight to some eighty or more of the light weight beef creatures we are now patriotically using.

It is nearly a year now since a famous whale luncheon was served to a group of scientific men in New York at the American Museum of Natural History. The journal of that institution has given whale meat some attention. A picture was taken of the banquet table and published, the center ornament of which was a baby whale.

Admiral Peary was a guest at this luncheon, and is quoted as saying: "There will be an intense practical advantage to this movement if we can ever get the American people to substitute whale meat for beef, mutton, and pork."

Prof. Roy Chapman Andrews, whose life, it is said, has been devoted to the study of the whale, got up the luncheon and also brought the subject of the whale's edibility to the attention of the gentlemen present. In writing of the subject briefly—but I believe he has also done a compendious book—he says:

"Whale meat has a gamey, wild taste, and is extremely palatable. I have eaten it extensively, living on it for some weeks while on a whaling trip. It is most appetizing in appearance, deep red in color, thick and juicy."

Chicagoans Present When Mrs. Coolidge Opens Music Temple

Chicago, in its social and musical aspects, was well represented at the dedication of the music temple which Mrs. Frederick S. Coolidge, now of New York City, has built in the Berkshires, on South Mountain, near Pittsfield, Mass., her summer home. The temple is another manifestation of Mrs. Coolidge's interest in the form of composition colloquially called "chamber music," and is the artistic "home" of the Berkshire quartet, which she organized last year, with Hugo Kortschak, formerly of Chicago, as conductor.

The dedicaton of the temple was in the form of a three days' festival on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of the present week. The Berkshire quartet gave all of Monday's program and shared Wednesday's with the Letz quartet, under Hans Letz, also well known in Chicago. Tuesday's was divided between the new Elschuco trio, under Samuel Gardner, once a member of the Chicago Symphony, and the Longy club, made up for the performance of chamber music not involving stringed instruments.

A feature of Wednesday's bill was the first performance of the quartet whose author, Tadeusz Iarecki, took the $1,000 prize offered for 1918 by Mrs. Coolidge for the best composition in kind submitted in contest.

Among the Chicagoans who attended the festival were Mrs. John A. Spoor, with Mrs. Frederick Eames and Mrs. E. S. Worthington as her guests; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sprague Coolidge, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. West, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Glessner, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Stock.

Musicians well known in Chicago who were present were Louise Homer, Rosalie Miller (a singing protegée of Mrs. Coolidge), Mr. and Mrs. Franz Kneisel, Willem Willeke (for years cellist of the Kneisel quartet and founder of the Elschuco trio), Efrem Zimbalist, Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Kreisler, Ossip Gabrilowitsch, Kurt Schindler, Mrs. Pablo Casals, Walter Rothwell, Daniel Gregory Mason, and Rubin Goldmark, whose symphonic poem of "Samson," won for him a place last season in the American repertoire which Mr. Stock is building up for the Chicago Symphony.

Save Your Clothes for Ragged Belgium

Five thousand tons of castoff but durable clothing is being collected for suffering Belgium by the Red Cross. With winter almost here, it is estimated that there are in Belgium 10,000,000 persons reduced almost to pauperism by the Germans. Long ago their clothes became rags, and now the rags are nearly gone. These people have no shoes and no place to get them. The movement to send clothing to Belgium is indorsed by Herbert Hoover and the food administration is coöperating in the work.

By Mae Tinée.

If you like to spend the moments you feel inclined to dedicate to relaxation on pictures such as "The White Lie," which is, as per advertisement, "a murder mystery story," why then, no doubt Bessie Barriscale's latest will meet with your approval.

It is one of those films in which the woman lies to hold her husband. Of course, the husband has suspicions aroused, and in the wake of the lie follows a train of events, one of which is a brutal murder.

If I were to tell you what the lie is it would spoil the picture for you, so I'm not going to do anything of the kind. What I shall tell you is that I care for Bessie Barriscale less in this production than I have for a long time.

The best work by far is done by Charles Gunn, a clever pantomimist. Edward Coxen, a little older and seemingly nervous for some reason or other, plays up exceedingly well, and no doubt his admirers of other days will be delighted to see him again.

The picture was directed by Howard Hickman, the husband of Miss Barriscale. It is reasonably well done. On the whole, however, I found it not at all convincing and would have been perfectly willing to have had it end some time before it did.

New Miniatures by Martha S. Baker at Art Institute

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

There has been hung in corridor 33 of the Art institute a charming group of miniatures by the late Martha S. Baker. One in particular should be mentioned. It is of a red cheeked, red haired child in a white fluffy dress lying against a pile of soft, lavender tinted cushions on a broad, dull purple lounge.

The combination of colors is unique, and the veiled delicacy of the contrasted shades gives an effect of an April rainbow through a mist of rain that is more than difficult to describe.

Many people have been looking with eager interest at the glass topped cases which line two of the winding upstairs galleries in the institute. The cases, which are in corridors 29 and 33, contain collections of medals and plaquettes. There are about 450 examples of this art. Almost 300 of them were presented by Blewett Lee. Of the other medals the greater part was the gift of Charles L. Hutchinson, Martin A. Ryerson, and Edward E. Ayer. The medallists of France, Holland, Belgium, Austro-Hungary, Germany, and the United States are well represented.

There are important groups of works by Roty, Chaplain, Dubois, Charpentier, Daniel Depuis, Vernon, Kautsch, Breaner, and Edward Sawyer. This art is one that is not as highly appreciated now as it was some time since. But in these medals and plaquettes the beauty of such work as this in miniature is unquestionable. It lends itself readily to the portraits of various people, to the stamping of various races—as in the group of Indian types—and to the depiction of historical scenes.

The Nickerson collection of water colors is installed for the present in gallery 44. These water colors are in some instances of marked excellence. Among the painters represented are Tyron, Artz, Neuhys, Fles, W. C. Rip, and Simone.

A meeting of the Illinois chapter of the Art Alliance of America will be held Wednesday afternoon in Fullerton hall. It is hoped this will be a large meeting. Among those who are interested in the movement are Eames MacVeagh, Alexander Revell, George W. Eggers, Lionel Robertson, and Lorado Taft.

Bright Sayings of the Children

"The Tribune" will pay $1 in thrift stamps for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Please write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, "Tribune," Chicago.

Lester, who was present while his older sister was reciting her lessons and happened to mention "the bed of a river," broke in with the question: "Mother, is that where the fishes sleep?" M. R. W.

One night mother put the children to bed. The boys played and tumbled their covers. Mother came upstairs and straightened them out and then told them to get back into bed, saying, "Now you lie still and go to sleep or I will spank you and put the light out into the bargain." Kenneth asked: "Where's the bargain?" R. D. H.

Our small son's aunt was being entertained at friends' homes just before being married. As I went to parties he would ask where I was going. I always told him to a shower for aunty, but never thought to explain matters. Shortly after we installed a shower bath in our bathroom. He exclaimed: "O, I know now, what you did to aunty" G. A. S.

THE SUCCESSFUL HOME GARDEN

BY J. F. H. HEIDE.
No. 198.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Q.—Our soil seems to lack the element which produces fruitage. Tomatoes, squashes, cucumbers, and root crops went mostly to vines and luxuriant foliage, but little or no fruit. The soil is very sandy, high, and dry. We had very little manure and used some commercial fertilizer, watering copiously. What is needed—something that will act quickly late in the season? —C. L. L.

A.—Luxuriant foliage and lack of fruit indicates an excess of nitrogen in the fertilizer used. What is needed is more manure and less artificial fertilizer. In fact, in mixed home gardening it is better to restrict yourself to manure entirely. The more quick acting stimulants you apply the more will maturing and fruitage be retarded, especially late in the season. Let them alone and the vegetables may yet make up, if the weather is favorable.

Q.—Is cabbage sprayed with Paris green at the rate of a small dessert spoonful in two gallons of water fit to use three weeks after the application, if there were several rains and the heads became solid in the meantime?—Mrs. E. S.

A.—The standard Paris green spray is in the proportion of a level teaspoonful to two-thirds gallon of water. It is customary to spray with arsenical poisons (Paris green or arsenate of lead) until cabbage is two-thirds headed, and with hellebore after that when necessary. However, cabbage heads out from within and does not close in from without. Besides, all loose leaves are removed and the head is probably rinsed before using. Under the circumstances cited there is no possibility of danger.

Q.—I planted pole Lima beans May 17, using exactly the cultural methods you advise in article No. 72, May 15, but using only street leaves as fertiliser, with newly turned sod. I pinched off the tops when six feet high, and am going to have a generous supply of dried Limas for winter use. Would you class the inclosed specimen as good, bad, or indifferent? I would deeply appreciate any further suggestions.—H. C. H.

A.—It is "good," but owing to lack of fertility and to the summer drought the pods (3¼ inches long, with two beans) are smaller and contain fewer beans than they would under more favorable conditions. Gather the crop before the first frost after first marking the healthy vines which produced the heaviest yield of clean beans. These latter should be separately dried and stored for next year's seed purposes.

Getting the Earrings Right for the Face

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

WAS IT YOU?

There is at least one period in a man's life when he succumbs to the temptation of a mustache. In every woman's life also there comes a time when she must try earrings. The result of both experiments is somewhat similar in that frequently the one who was most fearful his or her ambition would prove fatal to beauty has found it quite the opposite.

In neither case can you tell, however, by the look of the face whether the experiment will remain such or become a success. The face must be tried out with the decoration before a decision may be fairly reached.

Getting the right earrings with the right face is the trick that every woman ought to learn. An example of this I have just seen. A girl was wearing a pair of coral earrings which fitted close to her ears and were of a fairly good size. In spite of her gentle manner and her unworldly ways they hardened her as nothing else but hennaed hair will harden a good face. Her eyes were a hazel green and her hair of a black brown tone.

By a happy chance one day she was lured into the purchase of a pair of jade rings of slender pendent shape. The green was exactly the right color for her eyes and the change was quite lovely.

The Enemy in the House

Never let up in your warfare on the invisible menace that threatens your home—the disease germ. Never forget that constant disinfection of the danger spots—the germ-breeding places—is vitally necessary to protect your family from disease.

Lysol Disinfectant

It kills all germs—no matter what their nature—at the instant of application. It is relied upon universally by all big hospitals. Physicians and boards of health everywhere urgently recommend its use.

Get a bottle today. Lysol is economical; a 50c bottle added to water makes 5 gallons of powerful disinfectant, a 25c bottle makes 2 gallons.

Use this solution regularly in garbage cans, sinks, drains, dark, sunless corners and wherever flies gather or breed. When sickness is around be especially vigilant in its use.

Pin your faith only to the one true Lysol—the product made, bottled, signed and sealed by Lehn & Fink. Lysol is also invaluable for Personal Hygiene.

Lysol Toilet Soap
Contains Lysol, and therefore prevents the skin from germ infection. It is refreshingly soothing and healing and helpful for improving the skin. Ask your dealer. If he hasn't got it, ask him to order it for you.

Lysol Shaving Cream
Contains Lysol, and kills germs on razor and shaving-brush (where germs abound), guards the tiny cuts from infection, and gives the antiseptic shave. If your dealer hasn't got it, ask him to order a supply for you.

You Can't Eat Meat 100 Miles Away

Swift & Company efficiency has made it possible to place complete lines of products in the smallest and most remote communities.

To be sure the work is done well Swift & Company, through its branch houses and car routes, brings the meat to the retail dealer for you.

Swift & Company lays out car routes covering towns—big, little, medium size—which are not served by a Swift branch house.

They are followed by refrigerator cars loaded with retailers' orders, which are delivered at each town—fresh, clean, and sweet—once or twice each week.

This is a necessary and natural part of the packer's usefulness. It fits into the industry in an orderly, effective way. It makes better meat cheaper from one end of the land to the other.

SOCIETY and Entertainments

Canteen Workers Busy Preparing for Autumn Labor

Preparations for canteen service for the coming months are under way at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. There are hundreds of workers enlisted to serve troops as they pass through, including many Chicago women. Mrs. Winston Lewis of "The Meadows" is chairman of the committee and commandant of the service. Mrs. Lewis has as her guest for a few days Mrs. Harry Hathaway of Chicago, who arrived on Tuesday.

Mrs. William Prescott Hunt, with her niece, Miss Rossi, motored to White Sulphur Springs from Virginia with George A. MacKinlock and Dr. John McKinlock of Lake Forest. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Moran of Chicago are at White Sulphur Springs, as are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas N. Mordoe of Chicago.

Mrs. Lawrence H. Armour, who is here with her mother and her sister, Mrs. Mary Withers, gave a luncheon on last week for several friends.

Mrs. Ransom M. Barnhart of Evanston has arrived from Washington to be with Mrs. Barnhart, who is at White Sulphur Springs.

Mrs. Donald Boynton of Highland Park is closing her house and will spend the winter in Washington with her husband, who is in the service of the government.

Mr. and Mrs. David Ullmanns, who have been in Highland Park for the summer, are going back to the city the last of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard Carpenter have closed their Lake Geneva residence temporarily and are in town, going out for week ends only. Miss Ruth Carpenter is at present engaged as instructor at the Presbyterian hospital, doing work connected with the war. Their son, George, has left for training in the east.

Lieut. Perry Dunlap Smith has recently been made a major and is stationed at Camp Lee, Va., as senior instructor at the officers' training school. Mrs. Smith, who was formerly Miss Helen Baldwin, is visiting her mother in New York.

Mrs. James W. Morrisson of 719 Rush street returned with her family on Tuesday from Ephraim, Wis., where they have been spending the summer. Mr. Morrisson has been putting her vacation to profit by doing real farm work. She and her family tilled two and one-half acres of ground during the summer, and besides that she has brought home all sorts of cans of fruit and preserves.

Mrs. David Forgan of Evanston and her daughter, Mrs. W. Vernon Booth, are expected home from New York the first of next week. Mrs. Booth was formerly Miss Ethel Forgan, who went to France early this year. Her husband was killed in an airplane accident.

Mrs. Charles MacCauley and Miss Katharine MacCauley have returned from the White Mountains. After spending a short time in Highland Park they will go to California for the winter.

Mrs. Norman W. Harris has as her guests over Sunday at Wadsworth hall, Miss Gass, Prof. and Mrs. Dwight Harris of Northwestern university and Mr. and Mrs. H. M. McLean and their son Haddon.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Parkin and family of Highland Park have returned from a three months' stay in Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Wheeler of Evanston will leave today for Autrain, Mich., where they will spend a week or so hunting and camping.

Miss Mary Adelaide Pitkin of 4549 Lake Park avenue will give the third of a series of bridge parties for the Salvation Army doughnut and coffee fund this afternoon.

Miss Margaret Ehman.

The engagement was recently announced of Miss Margaret Ehman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Ehman of Chicago, to Chester S. Williams of Highland Park.

WEDDINGS

The wedding of Miss Dorothy Humphrey Vanderpoel, daughter of Mrs. John H. Vanderpoel of 5616 Kimbark avenue, and Nelson Murray Mathews took place last evening at 8 o'clock at the Church of the Redeemer.

Mrs. Rose De Beck of 4936 Kimbark avenue announces the marriage of her daughter, Rosalia, to Lieut. Commander Gregory Victor Piotrowsky, assistant naval attaché to the imperial Russian embassy, which took place in New York on Sept. 12.

The marriage is announced of Miss Grace Estelle Goodman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Goodman of South Bend, Ind., to Lieut. Herbert W. Bartling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Bartling of 6145 Winthrop avenue.

The wedding of Miss Florence Adelaide Bryan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Bryan, to Goodwin Scoville Wakelee, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Wakelee, formerly of Wheaton, now of Chicago, took place on Wednesday evening at the Ravenswood Congregational church. Mr. Wakelee is at Great Lakes Naval Training station.

Women in Wartime

BY LUCY CALHOUN.

All the dwellers in the Third ward and a number of visitors from other wards are expected to turn out Saturday for the opening of the ward headquarters of the woman's committee, Council of National Defense, at 4254 Drexel boulevard. An elaborate program has been prepared which will include a chorus of children's voices, a Goddess of Liberty in the person of a Third ward beauty, and addresses by Mrs. Frederick A. Dow, Mrs. Roy Dickey, Mrs. Melva Garton Funk, Mrs. Joseph S. Meyer, and others of the woman's committee.

The street will be roped off and there will be dancing out of doors.

A street dance is to be held in Evanston on Saturday evening for the benefit of a fund which provides comfort kits for boys in service.

Members of the child placing department of the Juvenile court and members of the Chicago Woman's club were guests at a luncheon given yesterday at the clubrooms by Miss Mary Bartelme, assistant judge of the Juvenile court. The need for homes for young people and the increase of juvenile delinquency since the war were some of the matters discussed.

Miss Harriet Vittum was the principal speaker at the opening of the Chicago Kindergarten institute yesterday.

Mrs. James Keeley, in a communication, asked the drainage board yesterday to furnish free electric service in the Khaki and Blue club. The legal right of the committee to grant the request being questioned, the matter was referred to the electrical committee, and the result was that while the service will not be free the club will receive it at the municipal rate.

The Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, which has just concluded a session at the Del Prado hotel, decided that a clubroom be furnished at Rantoul for men in the service.

WHOLESALE CAR THIEF GANG IS TAKEN BY POLICE

Members Confess They Stole and Sold Hundred Autos in 3 Months.

Five automobile thieves confessed yesterday to acting State's Attorney Michael F. Sullivan that in a period of three months they stole and disposed of more than 100 automobiles in and about Chicago. Those under arrest include a garage owner and the owner of an "auto hospital." Detective Sergeants Carten and Sullivan of the vehicle squad, who made the arrests, are seeking a sixth member of the gang.

The men under arrest are:

FRED KRUSE, alias Charley Benson, an ex-convict, who admitted selling more than twenty of the stolen cars, but said he does not know how to drive an automobile.

SALVATORE MARIBELLA, owner of the Ashland Wagon works and the "auto hospital" at 845 Blue Island avenue; and Maribella's brother, John, who demonstrated the cars that Kruse sold.

JOHN BUREK, owner of the Park garage at 1614 South Kedzie avenue.

PETER MONDANE, 764 Bunker street.

Seek Another Culprit.

The man the detectives still seek is known as Gust Crowley and supposedly is the leader of the gang.

According to the statements of the men, they "dealt" exclusively in Ford cars. They declared they sold them in the city and in small towns within a radius of fifty or sixty miles, and that they received from $575 to $325 for each machine.

Eleven of the stolen cars were either recovered at or traced from the garage of Burek in Kedzie avenue, to the persons who had purchased them. Detectives Carten and Sullivan have recovered twenty of the stolen machines. To locate the owners of the stolen machines will be difficult, Prosecutor Sullivan declared, because all of the numbers of the cars have been mutilated or filed off and changed.

Alter Appearance of Cars.

The cars were first taken to the "auto hospital" of Maribella and there their appearance was changed as much as possible and numbers altered.

Prosecutor Sullivan received the information that led to the arrest of the gang from a thief in the county jail a few days ago. The police told the prosecutor yesterday that the arrest of the men rounds up a gang for whom they have been looking several months.

THOUSANDS SEE FARLEY FUNERAL

New York, Sept. 19.—The body of Cardinal John M. Farley was borne today with solemn ceremonial from his modest summer home at Mamaroneck to St. Patrick's cathedral, where it will find its last resting place next Tuesday in a crypt beneath the altar.

Starting at 1:30 p. m., the cortège proceeded slowly for nearly three hours through reverent, bareheaded throngs until it reached the towering cathedral. Thousands of flags along the course, some draped in mourning, floated at half mast, and church bells tolled.

Children from the parochial schools at Mamaroneck, Rye, Harrison, and Portchester formed a guard of honor through which the cortège passed as it started on the twenty-five mile journey to the cathedral.

Reaching the city, the cortege was joined by the Sixty-ninth regiment, New York state guard, and a platoon of mounted police, which escorted the procession to the cathedral.

The Autumn Exposition
Now in progress

THAT a Store may recognize the change in times, may sense the spirit of the day, and interpret it to the convenience of its patrons, seems to have been emphatically demonstrated in this Autumn Exposition, which continues today and Saturday. One notes the changes war has wrought in fashions—the predominance of "all-the-day-through" gowns, wraps, suits and hats, the evident recognition that time is valuable and its waste to be discouraged, in the creation of clothes which can be donned in the morning and worn with assurance and appropriateness all day. Fabrics are handsome; lines are simple; and styles such that one realizes each is created to serve many times and thus meet whatever restrictions may be put upon the wartime purse. Many patrons are finding it a great satisfaction to make their selections while the assortments are complete.

Chapeaux from the Salon des Debutantes

HERE in this Section are displayed the newest ideas of the Autumn season, designed to meet the tastes and smartness of youth. Hats are more daring of silhouette, more vivid in colorings and more striking in ornamentation here. But each is marked by that simplicity which should be the keynote of the clothes for those in their late 'teens and twenties.

The Display Cases Are Especially Delightful

Fifth Floor, North Room

Crepe Georgette Blouses of Distinction

SUCH Blouses as these link the suit or the separate skirt into a smart costume effect. They are among the newer arrivals in the Women's Blouse Section, and may be chosen in just the colorings of the Autumn suits and skirts.

Two Different Types Are Sketched

One achieves a decidedly tailored air by its turnover collar and cuffs, with overfacings of white satin. The white satin makes the trim vestee over which silver cords depend. $35.

A softened, costume air is conjured by the round-necked, collarless Blouse third from the left, embroidered with gold and colored threads all over the tops of its sleeves, and on the front and back of the bodice. $22.50.

Many other crepe Georgette Blouses, $6.75 and up.

Sixth Floor, Middle Room

Original Paris Coats
Now On Display

IF a woman is to wear her frocks at wartime activities mornings, and attend operas and musicales in the afternoons, Paris reasons that Wraps must be of a quiet sumptuousness. And to prove the charm of her reasonings, here are many distinctive models:

Jenny sends two black satin Coats, one trimmed with bands of rich black caracul fur and youthful, ball-weighted ties of the same.

Premet—noted for dignity—sends a very practical Wrap of brown woolen which blends beautifully with nutria collar and cuffs.

Women's Coats, Sixth Floor, North Room, State

Of a Scottish Inclination— The Newest Skirts

TARTANS one sees in wool and silk weaves, warm-hued, large-blocked tartans which look so very smart with velveteen jackets or fur coatees.

Wool Serge Tartans take navy, green and black or navy, black and lavender for their generous blocks. They are trimmed with six colored bone buttons on each pocket and the wide belts. $18.75. Sixth Floor, South Room

Women's Smart Suits, $50 and $60

DURING this week of the Autumn Exposition, with the exquisite and exclusive styles for afternoon and dress wear, one finds many practical Suits for street and general wear. The two illustrated are examples of many others, priced moderately when quality of fabric and workmanship is considered.

At $50—Suit of velours, sketched at the fourth from the left above, an ideal style for the woman who has her own furs. This has a row of close-set buttons at the front and down the center of the tunic at the back, and rows of silk stitching for trimming.

Sixth Floor, South Room

A Rich Demi-dress Frock
of Soft Velvet and Crepe Georgette

The Women's Costume Section is showing many others of this type, as well as some exceptionally smart serge tailleurs, embroidered with silk braids or tinsel threads.

Sixth Floor, South Room

Marked Modishness Characterizes Misses' Autumn Clothes

THE Sections devoted to Misses' Apparel have been very busy, this Exposition Week, showing the lovely new modes in Frocks and Suits, Coats, Skirts and Blouses which delineate the lines and colors Fashion has decreed as smartest for Autumn and Winter wear. Those selected for illustration give but an idea of the extent and variety of the present showings—for practically any taste and any preferred expenditure can be readily met.

Two Handsome Autumn Suits

One, with opossum bandings on pockets and straight collar, is made of wool velour, with slender belt and novelty silk lining. Youthful and jaunty in line, this Suit comes in various smart colorings, $75.

The Suit sketched at the center with wrap-around belts, fringe-edged, lacing through at the front, has novel oval buttons. A good Suit to wear with one's furs, $75.

Serge and Silk Frocks

Frocks are so smart this season that it is only a matter of choosing the style individually most becoming, for each has marked charm of line and beauty of fabric. Fine serge makes a straight, cord-girdled style trimmed with silk braid, on the seated figure at the center. $50.

Sixth Floor, North Room

Misses' Coats of Good Woolens
Smartly Developed with Fur Collars or without Fur

ONE of the newest Coats is of a handsome Suede-de-Shot, excellently lined with silk and providing just the comfortable warmth one needs on wintry days. Its great collar of Patagonia Fox fur reaches to the waistline in its generous size. Sketched in the large group. $110.

Cut Crystal cloth of beautiful quality, with large collar and wrap-around cuffs of the same fabric, makes a charming Coat with full swinging back, while the tailored belt laces through and appears across the fronts only. (Not illustrated.) $75.

Sixth Floor, North Room, Wabash

Shoes for Growing Feet

HERE are three styles of Shoes that every parent should know—the kind that will make youngsters' feet happy. They are scientifically constructed to allow perfect foot development; strongly made to insure superior wear.

"College Girl" Shoes
"Field Tramper" Shoes for Boys
"Field Special" Shoes for Boys and Girls

Girls' Styles may be had in brown and black kid and tan Russia calf; with or without buck tops.

Children's Shoe Section, Fourth Floor

New Separate Skirts for Misses

COMPREHENSIVE assortments of smart tartan plaids and plain colored serges, developed into styles for office, street and afternoon wear. Their popularity is the more pronounced with the favor for short fur coats and capes. $8.75 to $22.50.

Sixth Floor, North Room

Individual Juvenile Apparel

THE pleasure of the Juvenile Floor is to be in itself a complete store for youngsters, to carry artistic, individual clothing suited to each personality, and to have every nice convenience for their fitting. Children have a special invitation to visit these sections with their mothers.

Wee Girls' Coats and Hats

FOR the autocratic little ladies of about four years the Children's Section has chosen the most adorable little Coats and Hats. One especially pretty one is sketched, made of soft Bolivia cloth in fawn color, with a deep collar of natural marten and bands of marten appearing on the cuffs, $55.

The other little Coat, sketched, of corduroy, excellently tailored, has a nutria collar and is lined throughout with silk serge, $21.50.

Jackie Coats for Little Boys

IF the young man of three or four, buying his top coat, desires to be a Jackie like the little boy in the picture, he may have this very smart naval Coat of dark blue worsted cheviot with brass buttons, an embroidered chevron on each sleeve, and two vertical pockets for hand warmers. Lining of scarlet flannel. $35.

The Hats to wear with the jackie Coats are made of navy blue broadcloth, with U. S. Navy bands, at $3.25.

Another little Coat very similar to the one described above is of heavy worsted at $25. A somewhat simpler but very good coat of rough finished blue serge is priced at $10.50.

Smart Serge Frocks and Coats for School

FOR the girls of six to fourteen, a famous maker of children's Frocks sends us original designs, of fine wool serges, some hand embroidered in colors, and having colored linen collars and broad colored suede belts to match. One is illustrated, price $25.

Dependable Clothes for School Boys

BOYS of discriminating tastes will find here just the kind of Suits and Overcoats to meet their requirements. Parents, too, will express their satisfaction when they see these perfectly tailored clothes; made of fine woolens and built to give the utmost in service and style.

Boys' Norfolk Suits—In a wide variety of Autumn fabrics and shades. Each Suit has two pair of trousers. 7 to 18 years. $20 and $30.

Junior Norfolk Coats, for boys from 3 to 10 years, are made military style; double-breasted with belted back. $8.75 and $10.

Boys' School Overcoats—Of heavy materials to give the maximum of comfort. Satin lined yoke and sleeves and convertible collar. Sizes 6 to 14 years. $28.

Boys Khaki Soldier Suits, $5.50, $8.75, $10.50.

Boys' Indian, Cowboy or Policeman Suits, $2.25 and up.

Juvenile Floor—The Fourth

A New Motion Picture Camera

A MOTION PICTURE CAMERA and projector for home or out-door use that interests the grown-ups as well as the children will be shown in our Photographic Section Saturday, September 21. Its particular features and method of operation will be fully explained to anyone interested. Price of Camera and Projector complete, $65.

First Floor, Wabash Avenue

Autumn Hats for Girls

FOR the most particular little maidens the Children's Hat Section has chosen dress Hats of soft velvets, some fur trimmed, others adorned with made flowers, or bits of yarn or floss embroidery. Practically all of them have a soft silk shirring or facing which comes around the face, and many are graced with streamers.

The Tam o' Shanter, a clever asset to the red lined military coat for school wear, comes in red French flannel at $2.95.

The Glengary in army serge, navy serge, or black velvet at $2.75 to $3.50.

TREASON TO GOD TO LOVE GERMAN, QUAYLE AVOWS

Bishop Delivers Terrible Indictment of the Enemy.

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

The church press and ministers are told by Bishop William A. Quayle of the St. Louis area of the Methodist Episcopal church that to talk of loving Germans is impiety. It is "treason to America and God and is moral flabbiness," he says. He denounced the "sentimentality" of Henry Ford and called "peace without victory" morally and politically blind.

Bishop Quayle will be in Chicago Oct. 3 to preside at the Rock River conference. He was formerly pastor here in charge of the St. James Methodist Episcopal church, and is probably the most widely known bishop in his denomination. His rebuke was printed in this week's issue of the Northwestern Christian Advocate.

"There is a moral flabbiness in discussing the German which has a sinister aspect," he said. "We are told glibly, often by the church press, that we must love the Germans. They are our enemies but 'we must return good for evil.' That sounds pious but it is really impious. All such talk is pro-German talk.

No Peace Without Victory.

"We dare not forget that not long ago a high official in America spoke of 'peace without victory.' If a morally and politically blind word ever was spoken, that was the word. Suppose the same official returned to that word when peace was being framed? What disaster would we be in!

"Let us further recall that the talk now made in the United States will inevitably shape the coming peace. Sentimentality of the Henry Ford type will leave America not only the laughing stock of Germany but the imbecile in the German ruthless hands.

"Let us set down sternly we are at war with the Germans, not the junkers, not autocracy, not Prussianism, not the kaiser (spelled with a small 'k'). All that is camouflage and dangerous because it obscures the truth. The German people is what we are at war with. The German people is committing the unspeakable horrors which set the whole world aghast. The German people has not been conducting war but murder.

Piracy Not War.

"The Supreme court of New York declared the sinking of the Lusitania an act of piracy. Piracy is not war. All decencies, honors, humanities, international agreements, and laws have been mashed by them day and night from the first rape of Belgium to now. The new atrocity which recently appeared was spraying prisoners with burning oil. This is Germany's most recent jest. It makes them laugh so!

"Germany has ravished the women of Belgium, Serbia, Roumania, Poland, Armenia; Germany murdered the passengers of the Lusitania and struck a medal to celebrate that German triumph dating it two days before the horrible occurrence; Germany has ruined cathedrals and cities in sheer wanton fury in such fashion as has not been done in all the wars waged in Europe since the days of the building of cathedrals; Germany has poisoned wells, crucified inhabitants and soldiers, burned people in their houses, all this by system; Germany has wantonly defaced the living, the dying, and the dead. An eye witness tells of seeing women dead at a table with tongues nailed to the table and left to die.

Stolen Little and Big.

"Germany has stolen things little and big: playthings from children, diary from women, pictures of incalculable worth, bank deposits, railroads, factories; Germany has sunk hospital ships, has bombed hospitals and Red Cross camps; Germany has disclosed neither decency nor honor from the day they started war, nor has a single voice in Germany to date been lifted up against the orgies of ruthlessness which turn the soul sick and which constitute the chiefest barbarity of history; Germany remains unblushing and unconscious of its indecency; Germany's egotism struts like a kaiser, and to climax its horrid crimes Germany has inflicted compulsory polygamy on the virgins of its own land.

What Must Decency Say?

"What must decency say to this? That is not war; that is murder. Germany has slain and debauched more people in this war than all the heathen hordes have since Nero. No, to maunder about loving these people is brainless, because it shows no moral antipathy to those chief evils history has ever looked upon. We love the Germans as souls and as souls we pray for them, but for their deeds we have but detestation. Our prayer for every German should be that he repent and bring forth fruits meet for repentance. Divine justice is what should be meted out, and unless there is there will be shameful injustice meted out to a world of ruined nations and ruined human and hateful souls and bodies.

Punishment and Vengeance.

"Can any one discriminate between punishment and vengeance? That is the only talk we hear. Men who demand that justice be done are said to be vindictive, un-Christian, and revengeful. I affirm that such as do not clearly demand justice be done to the last farthing are not seeking a right-eous peace. They are seeking a German peace which means war in a day or two, as history counts.

"The church press, pew, and pulpit are in itself and America an invalu-able service by displaying moral dis-crimination and calling murder murder and polygamy and steadily declaring that justice be meted out. Any other attitude will be treason to [illegible] God."

WIFE NO. 6

Miss Hilma Swanberg

SPOUSE OF SIX, IN CELL, IS HAZY AS TO DIVORCES

Jesse O. Gibbs in 'Champ' Class; Wed So Often Memory Fails.

The way of a maid with a man is one of the earliest mysteries touched upon by Solomon the wise. The way of a man with a maid is a subject upon which Jesse Otley Gibbs of 1940 Orchard street has a right to be regarded as something of an authority.

Gibbs has had six wives, all of them picked up through street flirtations. He regards it as a mere incident in his career that he was arrested yesterday on a bigamy charge brought by his sixth wife. He is only 34 years old and hopes some day to find an ideal wife.

Secret of His Success.

Gibbs gives as his secret the heed of a little boldness at first, a sympathetic nature, and the supposed possession of wealth. That the women did not live with him long is not regarded by him as any reflection upon his charms or character but only a part of the uncertain nature of wives.

Gibbs' recollection of his various wives is hazy, but he thinks they all got divorces from him except No. 5.

Who's Who Among Wives.

"No. 1—Amelia Bartelheim, daughter of a brewer at Beardstown, Ill. Married her when she was 20, in October, 1905. She was shy and I flirted with her on a bet. It took me four months to land her. She got a divorce after a year and is married again and living in Centralia.

"No. 2—Josephine Paden, Downers Grove. Married her in 1910 when she was 20. Her mother butted in and broke things up. She was a telephone operator. She got a divorce after a year and is married again.

"No. 3—May Earley. Married her when she was 22 years old. She lived somewhere on Chicago avenue or Pearson street. She got sore because I went out one night with her music teacher. She went up in the air and left me. I met her a year later and she said she had a divorce.

Figured On a Divorce.

"No. 4—Matilda Schluetter. Married her in April, 1915. She was 22 and lived at 2906 Richmond street. She was a nurse. She stuck around for two months and then didn't come home one night. I met her at Hillman's a year later and she said she was going to get a divorce.

"No. 5—Rose A. Lynn. Married her Oct. 5, 1916. She was 29 and lived at 1457 Rascher avenue. She was a milliner. One morning when she went to work she told me she didn't want to see me when she came home at night, so I just packed up and left. I think she is willing to get a divorce tomorrow.

"No. 6—Hilma Swanberg, a trained nurse, 1723 Summerdale avenue; married her May 28 last at Crown Point. She is 28 years old, but doesn't look it. I had a little flirtation with her one rainy day on North Clark street and asked her to get under my umbrella. She went out on a job last July and didn't leave any address. And I don't want to meet her again. She proved she was some fighter."

Hilma Swanberg proved the undoing of Gibbs' merry career as a manifold husband. She met Gibbs when he was employed in a grocery store. He told her he owned it. She loaned him money and says she financed the trip to Crown Point. Gibbs still owes Justice Kemp the price of a ceremony, she added.

It was in letters from the mother of Gibbs, which she found, that Hilma got an idea her husband might have another wife. She went out and did a little scouting and unearthed Rose Lynn. From that point the path to other wives was more clearly marked. Detectives figure there are twelve. They waited at the postoffice for Gibbs to claim mail. He was arrested at the general delivery window. The only time Gibbs appeared to have used another name than his own was when he took the name Graham in making the acquaintance of Miss Swanberg. Before they were married he went back to Gibbs again.

The man is said to have picked out blue eyed brunettes exclusively, and developed his "leads" in the parks, depots, and waiting rooms. His latest conquest was that of Mrs. May Dunbar, 1940 Orchard street, who called to see him after he was locked up. Mrs. Rose Lynn-Gibbs said last night she would not appear against the man.

Fate Responsible for One.

"I don't think," reflected Gibbs at detective headquarters last night, "that I would have ever married after the fifth venture had it not been for the working of what they call fate. I played a hero part one day and wife No. 6 proposed and was accepted by me. I want to admit if I was going to try once more I would have tried to marry Miss Florian Fuesele, a stenographer, 3507 Bosworth avenue. She is a wonderful girl, and I hope she doesn't find out about all this."

SUCH PRIDE HAS EVANSTON WITH 132 'WHO'S WHOS'

Poets and Artists, They Are, and One Plain Business Man.

Up there in Evanston everybody has got a pride like a peacock today, only some are prouder than the others, these being 132 in number. The reason is that the new edition of Who's Who in America has been checked over and there are more Whos in Evanston than anywhere else.

You can't shake a stick in Evanston without shaking it at a Who. Comparisons are odious, of course, but Evanston just can't help it. They've been thumbing over the pages and they find that Oak Park, for instance, has only thirty-one Who's Whoers, and that Winnetka, Wilmette, Wheaton, Glencoe, Highland Park, Hinsdale, Waukegan, Lake Forest, and Kenilworth all bunched together can only show eighty-nine.

Point with Pride.

And Evanston points with pride to the fact that out of its 132 only forty are clergymen and college professors. Great stuff, says Evanston, which is strong on high brow language and all that. And out of its 132 Whos it finds:

Lawyers, 9; judges, 2; capitalists, 2; physicians and surgeons, 4; bankers, 4; lecturers, 3; engineers, 9; manufacturers, 3; editors, 2; authors, 12; chemists, 3; agronomist, 1; pediatrist, 1; composer, 1.

Rufus C. Dawes is the only Evanstonian Who in the lot who puts himself down democratically as a plain business man. John E. Wilder, however, does himself almost as well recording his calling as tanner. Edward Hines admits he is a lumber merchant.

Lots of Women, Too.

Poetry is represented in the person of Wilbur D. Nesbit and Ring Lardner is recorded on the strength of his line of funny stuff. Quite a number of the Evanston Whos are women, among them Catharine Waugh McCulloch, lawyer; Mrs. Jerome Hall Raymond, lecturer; Mrs. Walter Dill Scott, writer of fairy stories; Lucy F. Perkins, author and illustrator; Annie M. MacLean, sociologist, and Mrs. Josephine Turck Baker, famed for her continuous warfare on bad English.

Lina Abarbanell, world famed light opera singer, is also listed as of Evanston. And all this is why Evanston is chuckling any time such a thing as prominent citizens are mentioned in connection with barbarian villages hard by.

WIFE'S LOVE FOR ANOTHER WINS HIM A DIVORCE

Edward M. Holton of 4101 West Adams street was granted a divorce from Mrs. Gertrude L. Holton yesterday when he testified before Judge Cooper that upon upbraiding his wife because of her friendship for another she said, "I love him and I can't get along without him."

Dr. Robert K. Bosworth, dentist at 25 East Washington street, was ordered to pay $12,000 in alimony to Mrs. Kathryn Bosworth, 3849 West End avenue, by Judge Charles M. Foell in the superior court. Mrs. Bosworth's plea for divorce was granted. She testified he admitted being in love with another woman.

Miller, 'Queerest Burglar,' Helps Police Recover Loot

"He's the queerest burglar I've ever run into," Capt. James Gleason of the East Chicago avenue station said yesterday of "Max" Miller, burglar, who Wednesday at the Alexander apartments held fifty policemen armed with rifles and revolvers at bay for two hours with a handful of cartridges and a cheap, shiny .22 caliber revolver. Then Capt. Gleason told of some of Miller's unconventional methods, such as "shaving" over cheap clothing and lighting all the lights in apartments before he robbed them.

He told the police his name is Charles Joseph Molinari Miller, that he has been using the name of "Max," and that he is 29 years old.

Shoop Memorial Closes Schools This Afternoon

The public schools will be closed this afternoon to enable teachers and principals to attend memorial meetings for the late superintendent of schools, John D. Shoop. There will be a meeting in each district. Another Shoop memorial meeting will be held at Fullerton hall tomorrow afternoon.

AIN'T IT A GRAND AND GLORIOUS FEELIN'?

DOC REEDER'S SEX LESSONS GET HIM IN QUACKS' REVUE

"Ole Doc" (David H.) Reeder joined the cast of the "Quackeries of 1918" yesterday. The acquisition of "ole doc" was made through the urgent invitation of the management, represented by John J. Conroy, inspector for the state department of registration and education. As "doc's" place of business is located at 5039 Cottage Grove avenue, the "booking" was done at the Hyde Park police station.

"Doc," be it known, is the dispenser of "Bonnie Brew," "a wee nippy that has all the tang and punch of the social glass, with none of the evil after effects of even the social tea." He is also the author of "Sex Lessons of a Physician" and advertises "private sex lessons." He is the head of the Home Remedies company, manufacturers of "Grandmother's old fashioned home remedies," and—but a list of "doc's" interests and activities must needs end somewhere.

The Drinker's Friend.

Following is an extract from his "literature":

"The nation-wide agitation in relation to the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors has become of such vast importance that the present dealers in these commodities are wondering where they are at." (The "doctor's" classic English will be noted.)

"The natural desire for stimulation and excitement exists more or less in every individual, and folks will get same, if not in one way then in another. The United Produce company (evidently another of "doc's" concerns) has worked on this problem for a long time, spent lots of money for experimental work, and now have and hold the secret of a perfect substitute for the alcoholic beverages formerly so much used. Our product has all the good properties of the old style of drink with the important exception that it is not intoxicating."

Sex Works Cause Trouble.

It was, however, the "doctor's" works on "sex," which chiefly interested the state board men. His book, "Sex Lessons of a Physician," particularly the chapter on "Honey Moon Love," and a pamphlet on "What, When, and How to Tell Your Child," will be produced in court this morning as evidence against him. Inspector Conroy indicated yesterday that prosecution for distributing birth control literature would be added to the other charges, chief of which is using the title of "doctor" and practicing medicine without a license.

The raid on the "doctor's" offices was made late yesterday by Inspector Conroy, James W. Brown of the Springfield office of the state board, and Mounted Sergeant Patrick Ryan of the Hyde Park police station. Reeder will be arraigned in the Municipal court this morning.

Bomb at Dairy Company Laid to Labor Trouble

A bomb was exploded in the rear of the Younger Dairy company's offices, 441-43 North State street, at 10:30 o'clock last night, shattering a number of windows and damaging a rear stairway and elevator shaft. No one was injured and there was no fire. The damage is estimated at $1,000.

Firemen of Engine company No. 11, whose quarters adjoin the building, turned out on the double quick to investigate, but could find no one. It is believed to have been a time bomb.

Fred Avrill, superintendent of the dairy, ascribed the bomb to labor trouble. Some of the inside employes had refused to join the union, of which the drivers are members.

SHELLS, SEEDS, PITS, NUTS, WILL HELP WIN WAR

ONE effective drive launched against the kaiser is making good headway in Chicago. Its full success depends on the cooperation of men, women and children alike.

Those red, white, and blue barrels in State street and at groceries and markets of the outlying districts hold a share of the answer to Pershing's plea for more gas masks. Five hundred thousand tons of fruit stones, nut shells, and seeds are needed each month to make charcoal for soldiers' gas masks. Only about 50,000 tons are being obtained each month.

Ezra J. Warner Jr., member of the War Service council of the National Grocers' association, issued a new plea yesterday to Chicagoans to save these invaluable commodities. The complete list is as follows:

Peach stones.	Date seeds.
Plum pits.	Hickory nut shells.
Apricot pits.	Walnut shells.
Olive pits.	Butternut shells.
Cherry pits.

-Dry them well, in oven or sun, then drop them in a barrel and let the U. S. government have them.

"2-BIT" GROWLER PUTS ALLEY CAN IN LUXURY LIST

After voting to fix the price of beer over the bar at 10 cents a glass for a ten ounce glass, with no more 5 cent glasses, the West Side Liquor Dealers' association yesterday subscribed a fund for the retention of a special sleuth, whose duty it shall be to see if any saloon man sells more than ten ounces for ten cents.

Can beer hereafter will be 25 cents a quart, instead of 15, and bottled beer will be 20 cents a bottle.

Resolutions presented by John W. Maskell denouncing the brewers for advancing the price of keg beer and asking the government to assume control of the Chicago breweries in order "that a criminal conspiracy may be destroyed" were adopted and forwarded to the attorney general.

Widow of Lucius Berdan Gets Estate by Settlement

Toledo, O., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—The litigation over the will of Lucius B. Berdan, late Toledo millionaire, who died in Chicago last December, was settled today. The Berdan will was set aside and Evelyn Berdan, the pretty widow, awarded the entire estate. She, however, agreed to sell to the family her late husband's shares in the Berdan company.

While the attorneys refused to disclose the net amount of the Berdan estate, it can be reliably placed at $500,000, and may reach $2,000,000.

Under a separation contract signed last October, two months previous to Berdan's death, Mrs. Berdan was to have received $125,000.

Illinois Centennial Half Dollars Struck Off

Illinois Centennial half dollars have been struck off and will be placed on sale the week of Oct. 7-12, when the state's 100th birthday will be commemorated. On one side are the words "Centennial of the State of Illinois," forming a crescent over the head of Lincoln. Underneath are the year figures and the word, "Liberty." On the other side are the words, "State Sovereignty, National Union," and the Illinois state coat of arms, an eagle holding a shield.

WOMEN'S CLOTHES FAIL AS DISGUISE FOR ENEMY ALIEN

Henry Reiss Also Does "Human Fly" Act, but Lands in Jail.

Henry Reiss, enemy alien and late guest of the bridewell, tried to evade the police and A. P. L. agents last night by doing a Humpty-Dumpty on the wall in his wife's clothes. He failed.

Reiss, who had been under surveillance for some time as a dangerous alien, was questioned Wednesday night in his room at 1234 North Clark street as to his present occupation. He was living with his wife, Katherine, and her sister, Mabel Zota, 19 years old. Soon after the three disappeared, and it was learned yesterday they had moved to 2018 Sedgwick street, third floor.

Last night Lieut. James Doherty of th Sheffield avenue station and a squad of police and A. P. L. men visited the address, but received no response to their rappings on the door. They then surrounded the building.

Descends Between Buildings.

Doherty was standing near the front of the place when he saw a figure garbed in a woman's hat, veil, shirtwaist, and skirt emerge from the third floor window.

"She" gingerly placed one foot against the wall of an adjoining building, about two feet distant, and then, bracing herself with her elbows, began a careful human fly descent. Her hat and veil fell off and she spat on her hands.

"Hey!" cried Lieut. Doherty, "where do you get that stuff at, Reiss? Stop or we'll shoot."

Gives Up Without Fight.

Reiss couldn't stop, but he climbed in a second story window. He offered no resistance when Doherty and his men arrived. With his wife and Miss Zota he was taken to the federal building, questioned and then removed to the Sheffield avenue station. He will be taken back to the federal building for requestioning this morning.

Department of justice officials declined to state the nature of the specific information concerning Reiss or the two women, both of whom are enemy aliens, they say.

They were questioned separately and told conflicting stories, it was said.

The three were held incommunicado last night—Reiss at Sheffield avenue, Mrs. Reiss at the South Clark street annex, and Miss Zota at East Chicago avenue.

Three Boys Try to Pass Check; All Arrested

Three boys, about 16 years old, rode up to the Crawford State Savings bank, Crawford and Twelfth streets, in an automobile yesterday. One went inside and offered the cashier a check drawn in the name of the Omaha Packing company on the Oak Park Trust and Savings bank.

The cashier didn't think a packing house would bank at a suburban bank and called up the Oak Park institution and found his theory correct. All three boys were arrested.

Honduras Envoy Here Made Consul General

Announcement was made yesterday by the consulate of Honduras, 33 South Dearborn street, that because of the large increase of business and the importance of Chicago, Jule F. Brower, consul here, had been promoted to consul general.

TRAFFIC RULES

From Midnight to Noon on Michigan Boulevard, Then Reverse, Under the New Regulations.

In line with a suggestion made editorially yesterday in THE TRIBUNE, new rules regarding the traffic from the north to the south side were issued yesterday by William Burkhardt, deputy commissioner of public works, following a conference with acting First Deputy Morgan Collins. The new rules went into effect at midnight last night and will stay in force until the Michigan avenue widening project is finished.

Between midnight and noon only south bound traffic will be allowed on Michigan avenue. North bound traffic between these hours will leave Michigan avenue at Randolph street, go west to North Wabash avenue, north to River street, and then east to the Rush street bridge.

From noon until midnight only north bound traffic will be allowed on Michigan avenue and south bound vehicles will take the same route as north bound traffic during the previous twelve hours.

Mr. Burkhardt said a check made on traffic showed 90 per cent of the vehicles were south bound from midnight until noon and that from noon until midnight the same percentage was north bound.

BUILDING WORK NOW UNDER WAY CAN BE FINISHED

Building construction under way may be completed if materials are on hand, but if further materials are needed a permit must be obtained from the Nonwar Construction bureau, according to an announcement made yesterday in connection with the opening of headquarters of the bureau in the State Council of Defense building, 120 West Adams street.

Unless permits are obtained by projectors of construction work, no materials can be obtained, it was said.

Manufacturers of practically all kinds of building materials have pledged themselves to coöperate with the War Industries board, under whose direction the construction bureaus are being established, with a view of preventing materials from reaching any persons, corporations, or municipalities where the proposed construction is not essential to the prosecution of the war.

Mrs. Ingram No. 1 Gets $23,084 Back Alimony

Joseph E. Ingram, former attorney for the Chicago Title and Trust company, will have to pay his divorced wife, Mrs. Carrie E. Ingram, $23,084.90 in back alimony as the result of an order issued yesterday by Judge Smith in Superior court. Since his divorce from her in October, 1908, Ingram was married and divorced from Mrs. Beatrice Schmeble Ingram.

Although the records of the Circuit court are marked "Gone to war," H. E. Murphy, Mrs. Ingram's attorney, last night said he understood the defendant was in Oklahoma.

Two Women Killed in Falls from Porches

Mrs. Amelia Larson of 4945 Fulton street was killed yesterday when a second story rear porch upon which she was standing collapsed. Her daughter, Mrs. Mabel Breats, 3358 Beach avenue, at whose home the accident occurred, was injured.

Mrs. Nellie Ruddy of 455 East Fortieth street was killed when a railing broke and she fell from her porch, about six feet, to the ground. Her skull was fractured.

NAVY'S NEMESIS OF VICE COMING TO AID CLEANUP

Lieut. Col. Charles B. Hatch, U. S. M. C., the navy department's liquor and vice "clean up" expert, is on the way to Chicago to aid Capt. William A. Moffett of Great Lakes Naval station in obtaining a stricter enforcement of local laws to safeguard the welfare of enlisted men of the navy and marine corps.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels in Washington yesterday announced he had assigned Col. Hatch to the Chicago job and that the marine corps officer was on the way.

"Col. Hatch has been successful wherever he has gone," the secretary said in announcing the assignment. "He will consult with Capt. Moffett and they will take whatever action they deem necessary to correct conditions there."

Daniels Silent on Plans.

Secretary Daniels refused to discuss the navy department's plans in Chicago. He declined to say whether or not he had received a report from Capt. Moffett on conditions or on preliminary steps taken by the Chicago authorities to meet the navy's demands for better law enforcement in districts frequented by the sailor boys. He also would not indicate whether the Chicago plans called for the contemplated creation of a "dry" zone.

Col. Hatch has been one of the busiest officers of the country since the war started. He was assigned to the cleaning up of Philadelphia while at the League island navy yard. One of the immediate results of his work there was a shakeup of the police force and the ouster of the chief of the department.

The colonel recently returned to Philadelphia from New Orleans, where at his suggestion, two "dry" zones were established, closing the saloons and resorts in a large section of the city. Prior to that he had "cleaned up" Pensacola, where the navy has a training station and navy yard.

Police Warned by Thrasher.

Chicago's police department was warned weeks ago that unless vice conditions showed improvement complaint would be made to Washington.

This fact was disclosed yesterday in a letter written by Samuel P. Thrasher, superintendent of the Committee of Fifteen, to Ald. Matt Frans, chairman of the council crime committee. Mr. Thrasher states in his letter that he complained of vice conditions to Acting Morals Inspector Hugh McCarthy, and told him that if correctional measures were not instituted he should feel obliged to make a report to the Washington authorities.

Failure of the local authorities to improve conditions, Mr. Thrasher says, caused him to write complaints to the secretaries of war and the navy.

Naval Board Controls Records.

Mr. Thrasher wrote Ald. Frans to acknowledge the invitation of the crime committee to appear before the body with his records to testify concerning the Chicago vice situation. He told the aldermen it would be impossible at present to comply with their request because he is now under orders of the naval inquiry board, which is inquiring into vice conditions here.

Repeated published reports to the effect Mr. Thrasher or other members of the Committee of Fifteen have been in recent conferences with Hinton G. Clabaugh, division superintendent of the bureau of investigation, were denied by Mr. Thrasher.

Silence reigned in all official quarters during the day with reference to demanded revocation of saloon licenses by Mr. Clabaugh. The latter was absent from the city and none of his aids would talk for him. Mayor Thompson, who is said to have received the recommendations for revocation from Acting Chief of Police Alcock, also was out of town and attachés of his office professed ignorance of the situation.

Identified as a Robber, Says He Rode with Dear

John O'Connell, on entering the Desplaines street station last night posing as a government agent in search for slackers, was identified by Peter Pappas, 316 South Halsted street, as one of two robbers who held him up earlier in the evening and took $200 at Halsted and Van Buren streets.

O'Connell, placed in a cell, told the police he had been out automobile riding with Earl Dear and Lloyd Bopp.

Girl Hit by Car; Name of Motorman Not Learned

Miss Julie Johnson, 20, was hit by a State street car at State and Madison last night. After assisting the girl into a citizen's auto, in which she was taken to the Iroquois hospital, the motorman went on. There were no police about and the mosorman's name was not learned. The girl before becoming unconscious gave her address as 3500 North Clark street.

Arrest Man for Abduction of Daughter in Florida

Telegraphic information from the chief of police of Tampa, Fla., that William J. Herbert had abducted his 6 year old daughter, Rosalie, led to his arrest here yesterday by Detective Sergeants William H. Newman and James McMullon of the Warren avenue station. The child has been taken to the Juvenile Detention home.

ATHLETIC STARS OF NATION CLASH IN JUNIOR MEET TODAY

SERVICE MEN IN GREATEST FIELD EVER GATHERED

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Three hundred and twenty-five athletes, the cream of the athletic world representing service camps and cantonments, universities, colleges, and athletic organizations in all parts of the country, will strive for honor and glory today in the National A. A. U. junior outdoor track and field championships, to be conducted by the Chicago Athletic association on the modern athletic field at Great Lakes Naval Training station.

Never before in America's athletic classic has such a well known field of performers competed in the nineteen junior events. The athletes will come from points as far distant as Pelham Bay, L. I., and Boston, in the east, and Camp Fremont, Cal., in the west. A squad from the Royal Air force, Toronto, Ont., in the north, and U. S. military flying fields in the south will send men.

Supreme Effort for Service Athletes.

Two-thirds of the number who will take part in today's events are in the service. They have trained hard and faithfully to crown their careers with success, and with this aim foremost in their minds interesting competition is assured. Most of the stars arrived in Chicago yesterday and are quartered at the station. The athletes in the khaki of the army and the blue of the navy appeared as fit as any star who ever pulled on a spiked shoe.

Final arrangements for the impeding three days' meet were completed yesterday when Fred W. Rubien, secretary of the National A. A. U., looked over the field in company with Physical Instructor Martin Delaney of the C. A. A. Mr. Rubien lauded the athletic field and the hearty coöperation of Capt. Moffett and the thousands of bluejackets who have worked so hard to put the track and field in shape, even giving their own liberty hours for this purpose.

Meet Depends On Individual Men.

With so many organizations competing and the known ability of the contestants, the result of the meet will depend upon the condition of the contestants. The weather of late has not been conducive to the proper sort of training, but the athletes have made the best of it and the coaches and trainers report their charges in good shape.

There are a number of performers who are counted upon to win their respective events, and also are expected to scorp in others. In this connection it must be understood that the moment an athlete wins one event he is ineligible for further competition as a junior, and is graduated to the senior ranks. This ruling may upset the best laid plans of the coaches and there is sure to be much switching of plans.

Any athlete is eligible to compete in the senior championships tomorrow.

Four Teams Junior Contenders.

Considering the ability of the performers and their strength to their teams, the struggle for honors will rest between Pelham Bay, C. A. A., Meadowbrook, Great Lakes, and the Illinois A. C. These organizations have nominated large teams and each is sure to score heavily in a number of contests. Illinois A. C. was the 1917 junior champion.

The sprints have attracted a classy field of fliers, any one of whom is capable of stepping the distance in even time. Mahl of the Columbian A. C. of St. Louis, Gildner, Meadowbrook club; Carroll of the University of Illinois, and T. T. Hoskins of the C. A. A. form the quartet expected to fight for the gold medal. The same sprinters and Murchinson of the Great Lakes will clash in the furlong.

Even Field for 440.

The quarter mile should bring Trout and Smith of the Meadowbrook club, Tennant of the Great Lakes, and Tomkinson of the C. A. A. together in the final. Each of these runners has negotiated the distance under :50. McCabe of Pelham Bay, Lewis of the University of Chicago, and Lieut. Balestier of the Royal Air force, Toronto, have made the fastest time in the half mile.

Schwartz of the Meadowbrook club should win the mile if he is in condition, although McCabe of Pelham Bay will be a worthy opponent. Martens of the Hillside A. C. of Toronto, Ont., should win the three mile walk, with Zeller of the C. A. A. second choice. Schwartz of the Meadowbrook club, Hankel of the Logan Square A. C., and Willie Tewes of the C. A. A. are likely place winners for the five mile run.

Many Good Leapers.

Smith of the C. A. A., Norton of Camp Taylor, Hause and Lesller of the Great Lakes are favorites in the 120 yard high hurdles, and 220 yard low barriers. Dusch of Pelham Bay also may be a strong contender in the latter. Schuman of Meadowbrook club, Norton, Camp Taylor, and Sergt. Mantti of Camp Mantook appear best in the 440 yard hurdles.

Caldwell of Pelham Bay and Cook of the Great Lakes look best in the pole vault, while Eddie Bonsen of Camp Fremont, Cal., holder of the world's record in the running high jump at 6 feet 9 5-16 inches, and Treeweeke of the C. A. A. are the class in the high jump. Peltier of the Mohawk A. C., N. Y.; Treeweeke, Overbee, and Hoskins, C. A. A., should put up an interesting struggle in the broad jump. Overbee, Hoskins, and also La Seet, Salem Crescent A. C., seem favorites in the running hop, step, and jump.

Star Weight Throwers.

Affleck and Whitrod of the Great Lakes and McIntyre of the I. A. C. have made the best marks with the 56 pound weight, while Berlein of Stagg Field, University of Pennsylvania's all round champion, and Gilfillan and Allman of the Great Lakes are the best discus throwers. Berlein and Hemrock of the C. A. A. are the best in the javelin, while Gilfillan and Allman hold the best marks in the shot put.

Capt. W. A. Moffett, commandant at Great Lakes, who has been keenly interested in the success of the meet, had the following to say:

"It will be a credit to the station to have such athletes compete on our new athletic field. The sailors have worked hard to put the track and field in condition, and I am sure their great efforts will be rewarded by new records. I am pleased with the way the athletes have trained for the events, and I only hope the public will take advantage of the opportunity to see the boys in action, for it may be their last appearance."

"Best Meet Ever."

President Nelson N. Lampert of the Chicago A. A., who worked for weeks to assure the success of the games, said:

"The 225 men comprises the greatest aggregation of the greatest athletes ever gathered in history for a meeting here to exhibit before us for the last time their skill and prowess in those athletic competitions which have developed the American race to such a point that it now is the hope of civilization."

"Those men, who are about to go forth to save civilization and from among whose ranks heroes of history will be drawn, are saying farewell in this, our greatest athletic meet. We might well begin to date our time from these, the American games. For they are of more significance to us and to the rest of the world than ever were the Olympic contests of the past."

C. A. A. Members Give $1,000 Each.

J. Ogden Armour and Louis G. Swift, members of the Chicago Athletic association, yesterday contributed $1,000 each to defray expenses for staging the national championship games. Armour donated $1,000 to purchase prizes for the senior events and Swift a similar amount for the junior trophies.

NEGRO STAR OF ROCKIES IN MEET

Denver, Colo., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—Many sport enthusiasts in this section believe that Lee Umble, the young Negro runner, who will compete at the National A. A. U. championships at Great Lakes Naval Training station, will prove one of the sensations of the big event.

Umble will wear the colors of Colorado university of Boulder. His first came into notice as a long distance runner last June by running a close second in a ten mile marathon to Ted Johnson, the west's champion runner.

Flyers Come by Airplane to Compete at Great Lakes

Lieut. Dudley M. Steel and Cadet Claude E. Garrett, who will take part in the National A. A. U. junior meet at Great Lakes Naval station today, made a successful flight yesterday from Scott flying field, Belleville, Ill., to Grant park. The flyers were forced to turn back shortly after starting because of a rainstorm. They set out again and landed in Grant park at 7 o'clock last night. Lieut. Robert A. Harwood, former Harvard athlete, who started with Lieut. Steele, was compelled to land on the outskirts of Chicago because of engine trouble. He will be on hand, however, to compete in the pole vault.

KICK ON HEAD PUTS MOULTON OFF MAROON SQUAD FOR FEW DAYS

BY MAROON.

The first football accident of the season hit the Maroon squad yesterday afternoon, when Gale Moulton, one of Coach Stagg's few "C" men, received a hard kick on the head. Moulton was "out" for almost an hour, but according to others on the squad, was all right last night. He will not practice for a few days, however, losing valuable time from Coach Stagg's fleeting practice season, which stops Oct. 1, with the start of the military regime at the university S. A. T. C.

Two driving practice sessions was the lot of Stagg's candidates yesterday. They got an early start in the morning, with Assistant Coach Pat Page, just back from Fort Sheridan, directing them in a drill of military calisthenics. Coach Stagg then took charge and gave the men some plays, which they worked up.

The new formations were polished up further in the afternoon, when the practice developed into a real football clash. The "Yale" team beat "Harvard," 13 to 0, in a brisk scrimmage, the varsity hopefuls being divided about fifty-fifty between the squads, and every one getting a taste of action. The backfield work of Hutchinson, Crussler, and Elton was reassuring for the fans.

MINNESOTA.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—Minnesota football hopes received the severest setback of the season this afternoon when it was learned that Bernard Bierman, regular 1917 quarter back, together with three other promising men for this year's eleven, had been commissioned second lieutenants at Fort Sheridan and would not be available for football this fall. Bierman, Jack Phillips, half back; Charles Cullinan, end, and Ted Hall; and John Grave, a likely lineman, are also lost to the eleven.

Dr. Williams today started work grooming another star to fill the quarter back job. He used Ernest Lewis, half of the 1917 varsity, Don Decask from the freshman team is also a promising man for this job. Signal drill, charging, and passing the ball again made up most of the practice for the eighteen men who were in uniform.

MICHIGAN.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—With twenty-two men on the field, four of them first string men last fall, and with Cohn, last year's regular end, due to appear within a day or two, Michigan's prospects for the coming season are brighter than anticipated. Eight members of last year's all freshman team were among the candidates. The rest of the squad is composed of recruits of class teams and from the track and basketball squads. Coach Yost put the men through two practices, one in the morning and a longer one in the afternoon. He was heard to pass favorable comments over the work of several of the new men.

INDIANA.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—Capt. Ingles of the Indiana squad, who was expected back today, arrived tonight, but it is still in doubt if Sheridan ball will report within a day or so. Head Coach Stichm had his men lined up in battle formation again this evening rehearsing a series of signals to be used on Central College of Kentucky when that team comes two weeks from next Saturday to open the season.

The coach has already made a find in Cutler, Indiana's star track man and holder of the Indiana record in the 100 yard dash, who is being used as a half back. It is the first time he has ever reported for football. Rauschenbach, captain of the basketball team last season, is out for the other half back job and is showing up well. It now seems certain that Dean will land a berth as full back.

PURDUE.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—"Butch" Slaughter of Chicago, who succeeds Cleo O'Donnell as football mentor at Purdue university, arrived today and this evening was on Stuart field putting the huskies through signals and formations. There was a good turnout. Capt. Ruffner Bartlett, Markley, and McIntosh were the veterans out for drill. They had formation practice and signal drill. There were about twenty candidates on hand.

The Purdue coach will find it practically impossible to fill out of town engagements unless the war department makes a special exemption for football players, giving them the entire Saturday of during the grid season.

Kieckhefer in Great Comeback Leads Cue Challenger, 100-75

Quickly effacing a deficit of five points incurred in the first block, Champion Augie Kieckhefer romped away from Charles Otis of New York in the second block of their match for the world's three cushion title at Mussey's Monroe street room, and now is leading, 100 to 75.

The Chicago southpaw was in scoring mood, and counted 55 points in forty-four innings, getting two runs of 7. Otis made 25 in the same period, his top mark being a 4.

With this big lead Augie is expected to retain the Brunswick emblem and the title, although it must not be forgotten that Otis made a fine comeback in his final block against De Oro at Havana. He is hopeful of repeating tonight.

Augie Plays Brilliantly.

The champion was at his best, which is the equivalent of saying his play was brilliant. He made few poor hits and had only four kisses, one of these being of the horseshoe variety, as his ball went to the cushion and then to the second object ball. Otis was not at his best, making a number of poor hits. He ran into five kisses. Nearing the finish he played two safety shots.

Otis opened from his leave of the preceding night and ran two. At the end of the ninth inning he still had a lead of three points, but in his half of the inning Augie opened with a fine cut four cushion shot around the table and ran seven, nearly all of them being four or five cushion efforts. He followed with four and five, bringing his total for the night to twenty-two in twelve innings, as against seven by the challenger.

Steadily Runs Points.

When Otis went through a small hole in the corner in the fifteenth inning, Augie opened with a one cushion bank in the corner and followed with some fine long shots, adding another seven. He followed with two singles and had thirty-one points in seventeen innings. Otis at this stage had eleven.

Augie had a spell of idleness and Otis gained a trifle, but the champion soon got going again. He opened his thirty-first inning with a four cushion bank and then scratched a point and made two more. A three in his next inning brought his total to forty-three points, and he reached fifty in his forty-first inning.

Otis was unable to do much, as Augie frequently left him near the rail. His four in the forty-first inning was well made, the last two shots being two balls near the rail. While the balls broke well for Augie, he was able to take advantage of his opportunities. The game lasted 55 minutes.

DRAW PREP SCHEDULE TODAY.

Football managers and coaches of the Chicago High School league will meet this afternoon in the Tribune building to draw the schedule for this autumn. Despite enlistment of some athletes at nearly every school, heightened interest in outdoor sport has led the high school officials to expect a season of more teams, larger squads, and possibly more divisions than in 1917.

DOC ROLLER VS. DEMETRAL TONIGHT.

William Demetral, Greek heavyweight, and Dr. Roller will renew their wrestling rivalry at the Rainbo-rink tonight; this time to go to victory either by two falls or decision. Last week they went over an hour when the theater's lights had to be turned out.

MURPHY GIVES PURPLE SQUAD SIMPLE PLAYS

BY EVAN STONE.

Coach Murphy continued drilling the Northwestern squad of twenty-two men the rudiments of football yesterday. As yet the players have not gone through an actual scrimmage, but by the first of next week the men will be in excellent shape for more strenuous workouts. The remainder of this week will be given over to the usual preliminary routine, such as falling on the ball, pivot running, tackling, and blocking.

The only new addition to the squad was Alexander, a former Nicholas Senn man. He shows every promise of becoming a strong player. The work of Ligare and Omer is still gratifying to the coaches. Although it is the first year of varsity football for them, they are doing well. Ligare's experience at basketball seems to help him in picking up the game. Omer bids well to develop into a first class back, although fairly light in weight.

Murphy has been unable to locate Capt. McLaughlin, but hopes he will report shortly.

Woods and Waters

By LARRY ST. JOHN

QUESTIONS THEY ASK.

Chicago.—[To the Editor.]—I fish in a small lake in Wisconsin which a farmer claims he partly owns. He has forty acres on the shore and will not permit fishing in his half of the lake. Other farmers on the lake permit us to fish in their half. Has the first mentioned farmer a right to keep us off his part of the lake? H. F. M.

Answer—Better consult a lawyer. We do not know how Wisconsin stands on this question. In Illinois the law is all in favor of the land owner. According to a recent decision a land owner owns and controls all the land to the middle of any piece of water bordering it. He does not, however, pay any taxes on the underwater land.

Chicago.—[To the Editor.]—1. What kind of a fly rod would you recommend for fishing for black bass? 2. What size spinners are used with a fly for bass? 3. Will large mouthed black bass rise to a fly? W. W. T.

Answers—1. We would say one nine and one-half or ten feet long weighing from five and one-half to six ounces. Let it be rather a "stiffish" rod, since you will probably want to use spinners, wigglers, pork bodied "bugs," and other baits for desperate fly fishermen. For casting a single, plain fly an ordinary trout rod will do for most bass streams in the middle west. 2. A spinner larger than No. 1 (Hildebrandt scale) is hard to pick up with an ordinary fly rod and certainly will put your rod on the blink in time. A number nought spinner or the tiniest of Colorado spoons is plenty large enough. 3. Decidedly yes.

ABRUPT HALT TO WORK ON ILLINOIS ROADS BY U. S. H. COUNCIL

BY SHEPPARD BUTLER.

Road building in Illinois has been brought to an abrupt standstill by the order of the United States highways council requiring approval of that body for all projects undertaken.

Of thirty-five concrete "jobs" under way in various parts of the state ten days ago, when the ruling went into effect, all have been left unfinished except one short stretch on the Lincoln highway west of Chicago, the completion of which has been authorized, and such military road improvement as is being done directly by the federal government.

The construction work halted includes that on three sections of the Dixie highway—one south of Milford, one between Milford and Watseka, and one near Grant park—and on several points along the Lincoln highway.

Experiment in Cost.

These roads were being paved by the state highway department under what are known technically as "force accounts," by way of experimenting in the actual cost of wartime construction. Contractors' bids on the work had all been rejected as excessively high, and it was decided to see what the state could do on its own hook.

It is possible that belated permission may be granted to complete some of the pavements, but state highway officials are inclined to think this doubtful, in view of the fact that one stretch of the Lincoln highway was singled out for approval. Moreover, the lateness of the season makes it unlikely that much of the work could be started again.

Finish of Road Work During War.

It looks like the end of new roads until after the war. Then, if the $60,000,000 bond issue is passed, Illinois will have an era of road building such as few states have ever seen.

Ban and Commy Seek Solace of Badger Woods

President Johnson of the American league and President Comiskey of the White Sox left yesterday for a brief outing in Wisconsin in company with a small party of friends. Object: Bass and muskellunge. The annual trip of the Woodland Hards to the north country has been postponed until after the war, Comiskey started to make the trip to Mercer, Wis., by automobile, but Johnson preferred the railroad, to avoid tire trouble.

THREE EYES MEETING HERE.

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—A call was issued today for the deferred meeting of the Three Eyes league to be held at the Palmer house in Chicago Saturday, Sept. 28, for the purpose of receiving a report of the auditing committee appointed by President A. R. Yeamer and otherwise winding up affairs of the organization.

"L" BOWLERS OPEN SEASON.

Chicago Elevated Bowling league teams, eight strong, opened their pin season last night at Bensinger's. A number of the contestants of former years were missing. In their stead there were talk of their activities in France on the training camps. The officers of the "L" men's league are Frank N. Hoyt, president; Frank Kuzler, treasurer; A. J. Graham, secretary.

INDOOR LEAGUE WANTS TEAMS.

The Hebrew Institute Outdoor Indoor league, playing Sunday afternoons, needs four more teams. Any team may obtain information by calling Harrmarket 6400 after 1 o'clock in the afternoon or addressing the institute.

MOVE TO HALT RACES?

Report That Shipment of Horses Would Not Be Permitted Is Denied by Louis Peters.

WAUKEGAN, Ill., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—It was reported here today that steps had been taken to prevent the race meeting billed for Libertyville Sept. 23 to Oct. 12. It was said that no release of cars for shipment of horses would be given by government authorities.

Promoter Louis Peters of the Liberty Jockey club last night stated he had learned of no action to stop the meeting scheduled.

Bobby Jones Sets Record in Red Cross Golf Match

New Britain, Conn., Sept. 19.—Bobby Jones of Atlanta, Ga., 17 year old golf star, broke the course record in a golf match at the Shuttle Meadow club today when he turned in a card of 71, against the former record of 72. Jones and Charles (Chick) Evans, the national amateur open champion, defeated Max Marston and John G. Anderson in a team match, 5 up and 4 to play. The event netted $3,000 for the Red Cross.

GOLFERS PLAY FOR BLIND.

A number of entries have been received for the open tournament at Glen Oak on Saturday and Sunday in aid of the Permanent Relief Fund for the Blinded. The event is open to both professionals and amateurs and a special prize will be given for the largest number contestants are asked to send their names to Professional Dave McIntosh at the Glen Oak Country club.

FOUR SURVIVORS LEFT IN CONTEST OF COUNTY GOLF

BY JOE DAVIS.

Two rounds of play in the Cook county amateur golf championship reduced the field to four yesterday at the Garfield park course. This morning Bob Shealy of Garfield will meet J. M. Kennedy of Garfield and W. D. Lukens of Lincoln park will play J. Humphreys of Garfield.

Shealy, who won the low score medal after defeating N. Morris of Glen Oak 5 and 4, in the morning, was given a hard fight in the afternoon by C. A. Castle, unattached, the Garfield pet player winning on the twenty-two green.

Lukens won his position as semi-finalist after a longer struggle with E. Moore, unattached, which went twenty-two holes. Homer J. Rose, last year's champion, was eliminated in the second round by Kennedy, 4 and 3.

Cold Wind Sweeps Course.

The greens were in better shape than on the preceding day, but a cold wind swept the course, and the players were unable to get much roll. Despite these conditions, the scoring was better than in the qualifying round. Castle turned in a card of 43, and Shealy one of 44. The Shealy-Castle match had plenty of excitement, as the first named was two holes down at the fourteenth and fifteenth holes only to lose the seventeenth and eighteenth. The cards of the match:

Shealy—Out	5	4	3	5	3	4	5	4	4	—37
Castle—Out	4	4	4	3	4	5	4	4	5	—37
Shealy—In	4	4	3	5	3	4	4	4	4	—35—72
Castle—In	5	4	3	5	4	4	3	5	5	—38—75

Extra holes:
Shealy, 4, 3, 3; Castle, 4, 3, 4.

Lukens vs. Moore.

Lukens and Moore were all square at the ninth hole and each took two holes on the second nine. On the twenty-second green Moore missed his putt. Cards:

Lukens—Out	5	4	4	5	4	4	4	3	4	—37
Moore—Out	5	4	4	5	4	4	4	3	4	—37
Lukens—In	5	4	4	5	4	4	4	3	4	—37—74
Moore—In	5	4	3	5	4	4	4	3	4	—36—73

Extra holes:
Lukens, 4, 4, 3; Moore, 4, 4, 3.

Championship flight—First round, E. Moore, unattached, defeated N. Morris, Glen Oak, 5 and 4; Charles Castle, unattached, defeated C. A. Castle, unattached, 1 up; J. Humphreys, Garfield, defeated W. Gustafson, unattached, 3 and 1; F. M. Lucas, Garfield, bested P. Sandstrom, Garfield, 2 up; J. M. Kennedy, Garfield, defeated Kenneth Harper, unattached, 8 and 6; H. J. Rose, Garfield, defeated William Robertson, Aurora, 3 and 2; E. H. Moore, unattached, defeated C. A. Lindsay, Calumet, 1 up; W. D. Lukens, Lincoln park, defeated Barre Ryan, Glen Oak, 4 and 3.

Second round—B. Shealy defeated C. A. Castle, 1 up in 21 holes; J. M. Kennedy defeated Homer Rose, 4 and 3; J. Humphreys defeated F. M. Lucas, 4 and 3; W. D. Lukens defeated E. H. Moore, 1 up in 22 holes.

Consolation flight—J. Bailey, Jackson Park, defeated M. Hunter, Jackson Park, 1 up; J. Steckler, Garfield, defeated G. J. Stonecipher, Jackson Park, 1 up; D. Shattuck, Jackson Park, defeated L. E. CHICAGO BANKS RESTRICT LOANS WITHOUT U. S. AID

Government Supervision Held Unnecessary on Ordinary Business.

There is considerable evidence that while Chicago banks will favor any Washington plan looking toward restriction of loans to unnecessary activities they will not welcome a general supervision of their loans or a restriction in their ordinary current transactions.

It is said that conditions in Chicago and the west generally are not like those in New York, where speculation in securities is an outstanding feature, always attracting attention. Local banks, at least some of the larger ones, feel they already are pursuing a conservative course and have been careful in extending credit for speculative ventures regardless of the promise of profit. It would not be possible to borrow here a large sum of money for the inauguration of a new business or the expansion of one whose activities did not contribute in some way to the general welfare under war conditions. That is about as far as the banks care to go.

No Loans for Pools.

It is not an uncommon experience for the larger institutions to make quick loans of half a million dollars on collateral to commission houses. This is regarded as an ordinary banking transaction, lying fully within the discretion of the bank. But loans of this character will not be made for the purpose of pool operations in the securities or grain market.

Within the last few days there has been a noteworthy improvement in the commercial paper market, due to the buying by country banks. These purchases have not been of the "spotty" character, but are general in the middle west. The president of a western bank, in Chicago yesterday, said of the situation:

"Country banks are buying paper at this time for two reasons. The movement of grain has been rather free and this has led to a repayment of loans. Then the banks have reduced their balances with city correspondents and are investing in commercial paper instead.

Buying of Paper Increases.

"A few years ago the so-called country bank was unwilling to buy commercial paper except of firms known in his locality. But gradually the banks have come to learn that large makers of paper throughout the country may afford better security than local concerns. Now the practice is more general of entering the market for paper that is approved by the country bank's correspondents at the reserve centers.

"The federal reserve bank, with its rediscount powers, has made the resources of the banks more liquid, and institutions which very seldom borrowed before the reserve system was established are now continuous patrons of that institution. Commercial paper which the country institutions buy can be taken to reserve banks and turned into currency or credit."

Chicago banks are not noting any particular change in local money conditions except that they do not grow firmer. There appears to be adequate accommodation for all reasonable needs. The banks, however, with one exception, remain out of the commercial paper market.

American Shipbuilding Unaffected by Melon

The extra 10 per cent in Liberty bonds declared on American Shipbuilding common stock had apparently been discounted, for the price on the local stock exchange ruled steady. Pneumatic Tool gained ½ point. The showing of earnings for the first six months was much better than the street had any intimation.

Duluth Superior Carbide shares were steady. The building house stocks were a little lower. There were a few sales of Armour preferred at 98¼. The issue was up 1 point as compared with prices last week. The 1918 7 per cent debentures, convertible into preferred stock, sold at 97.

SEPTEMBER CORN DOWN 3-4C IN AN ERRATIC MARKET

Oats Develop Strong Undertone and Close Higher.

BY CHARLES D. MICHAELS.

An erratic market was on in corn and September was ¾c lower at the close, while October gained ⅝c and November lost ⅝c. Oats had a strong undertone and closed ⅝c higher, the ready absorption of the cash offerings being a feature in Chicago. In the southwestern market corn gained ¼c to ⅝c, while oats were ¼c to ⅛c higher. Oats in Minneapolis were ⅝c to 1¼c higher and Winnipeg unchanged.

Provisions weakened with liberal losses on lard and ribs and gains on the deferred futures of pork.

Corn Traders Fear Frost.

Forecast for frost over a wide territory, following freezing temperatures in North Dakota and parts of Minnesota and South Dakota, resulted in a higher corn market. Trade, however, was light and market easily affected. At the top prices were up 1@1¼c. Toward the last reports that Germany expected an armistice before winter led to rather general selling and a break, with the finish on a small rally. September closed at $1.54¼, October at $1.53⅞, and November at $1.45¾.

Cash demand failed to show much improvement. Arrivals were 352 cars. Domestic shipping sales were 45,000 bu and deliveries 30,000 bu.

Cash Oats at Premium.

Standard oats at the extreme top were ½c premium over October, against 3c under several weeks ago. There was further buying by cash houses against sales to Georgian bay ports, which took the slack out of the market and made short sellers timid. At 74c for October there was heavy selling on resting orders and against offers which checked the upturn.

At no time were prices lower than the previous day's close, and the finish was fractionally higher, with September 73⅝c, October 73¾@73½c, and November 74¾c. Country offerings to arrive increased heavily on the bulge and liberal amounts were bought to arrive. Domestic shipping sales were 135,000 bu and deliveries 11,000 bu. Export bids generally were ¾c higher.

Rye Shows Firmer Tone.

Offerings of rye were moderate and demand slightly better with a firmer undertone. No. 2 sold at $1.42@1.43. Receipts, 17 cars. Futures were more active and slightly higher. Milwaukee was 1c higher and Minneapolis ½c higher. The northwest had 109 cars.

Barley sold readily, with prices unchanged to 1c higher. Bulk of the demand came from elevator interests. Spot sales were at 95c@$1.04. Futures advanced 1¼@1½c. Receipts, 35 cars. Outside markets were firm. The northwest had 153 cars.

Flaxseed at Duluth closed 5@8c lower; October, $4.15; November, $4.06. Winnipeg, 4½@10c lower; October, $3.90; November, $3.85; December, $3.73½. The three markets had 30 cars.

Timothy seed unchanged; October and December, $10.25 bid, and March, $11.00 bid. Toledo, 5@10c higher; September, $5.45; October and December, $5.40; March, $5.35 per bu of 45 lbs. Clover seed, no market. Toledo, 62@75c higher; October, $23.25; December and March, $23.00 per bu of 60 lbs.

Break in Provisions.

Provision prices weakened with hogs and limited buying support, conditions being the reverse of the previous day. There was liquidation in October lard and ribs late in the day, which carried prices down and closing trades were at almost the lowest, with losses at 12¼@25c on lard and 35@47½c on short ribs. Pork was erratic, with September 5c lower and deferred deliveries 45@55c higher.

Cash trade was better, particularly in pickled meats, with a little more call for dry salted plates. Hog receipts were moderate and exceeded last year's. Prices follow:

Pooling of All Tungsten Agreed Upon by Allies

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—An international agreement for the pooling of all available tungsten among the United States and the allies, reached through the interallied munitions council at Paris, was announced today by Chairman Baruch of the war industries board. Its terms will be made public if the arrangement is finally approved by President Wilson. Tungsten is produced largely in Colorado, but some comes from South America and Sweden and other European countries. Distribution of the supply probably will be directed by the war industries board.

COFFEE PRICES.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—A weekly notice ruling in Brazil seemed to promote scattering liquidation of late months in the market for coffee futures here today with the close unchanged to 31 points under last night's final figures.

Closing bids: September, 8.35c; October, 8.65c; December, 8.35c; January, 9.10c; March, 9.35c; May, 9.42c; July, 9.55c.

Spot coffee was quiet. Rio 7s, 9½c; Santos 4s, 13½c. The Brazilian port reported a decline of 75 reis for the Rio spot market. Santos futures were 125 to 200 reis lower. Brazilian port receipts, 40,000 bags; Jundiahy receipts, 27,000 bags.

SUGAR MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—Refiners' prices for granulated cane and beet are 9.40c per lb in 2 bag and 9.57½c in bbls.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Trading in September oats was stopped yesterday at an adjourned meeting of the Board of Trade directors, and a committee of three will be appointed to fix a fair and reasonable settling price. The action was taken because nearly all available storage room for grain is now filled, mainly for government account, and the embargo, which went into effect Wednesday, curtails the movement to this market. All transactions in September oats hereafter were declared null and void.

Expectations are that the receipts of corn and oats will fall off materially for a few days and possibly a week, until the trade becomes accustomed to working under the permit system prescribed by the railroad administration in moving grain from the interior and from one primary market to another. Paragraph 7 of the embargo notice says the permits granted are to cover shipments which must be made within five working days from the date of notification.

A slight modification has been made in the regulation of shipments of grain in the north issued by the railroad administration. Until such time as the elevators at the Twin Cities, Duluth, and Superior are filled permits will be issued by the grain control committee at these points to the railroads, instead of the shippers, specifying the maximum number of cars of grain that will be loaded per day on each line. Shipments to other markets will be controlled by the grain control committee, but the instructions contained in circular No. 34 will not apply until otherwise directed to shipments destined to the Twin Cities, Duluth, and Superior. Shipments of grain to terminal markets other than the Twin Cities, Duluth, and Superior can only be made in accord with the detailed instructions, as shown in circular No. 34. The substance of the latter was printed in these columns yesterday.

For the convenience of the grain trade operating under transit rules, the carriers have opened a joint agency at room 7, Board of Trade building. All freight bills for grain will be delivered there each morning. The bills then will be recorded by the transit bureau and listed for the respective firms, who will call for them any time after 11 o'clock each day. Checks for the payment of charges are to be made out as heretofore in the name of the railroad company to which the charges are due. H. H. Bernstein, joint agent, will receipt for them.

Oats speculators who have watched operations closely say commission houses have selling orders on all advances and buying orders on the breaks. With the last few days there has been a big drop in receipts and an active absorption of the offerings in the pit to take off hedges, which has more than offset the new hedges put on. The government and exporters were in the market yesterday, the latter bidding ¼c better than heretofore and bought a cargo for shipment by Georgian Bay.

Updike paid for the 30,000 bu of cash corn delivered on September contract yesterday, of which 25,000 bu were sent out by J. P. Griffin & Co. Considerable corn has been picked up in the sample market here of late and sold for September at good profits and deliveries have been made.

There were liberal buying orders for barley futures here yesterday slightly under the market, while hedging business was light, due to small receipts.

The Iowa weather crop report says probably not more than 60 per cent of the corn is safe from frost. There was frost in the northwestern counties Sept. 13 and 14, with temperatures of 32 at Primghar. Cutting for fodder and silage is progressing rapidly.

The government report estimates the average value of corn on farm the last ten months at $1.47¾. E. L. Winter, commenting on this, quotes from the government's county recorder schedule, which says: "Price which farmers receive at the home market, the country towns, and railroad stations should represent as nearly as possible the average of all sales."

The Daily Trade Bulletin estimates the movement of wheat from the farms in July and August at 288,000,000 bu, against 281,000,000 bu last year and 144,000,000 bu two years ago. Its reports indicate a crop of 940,000 bu, or 40,000,000 bu more than the government figures, showing 590,000,000 bu winter and 350,000,000 bu spring. Allowing 460,000,000 bu for consumption and 180,000,000 bu for seeding, there would be 409,000,000 bu for export and carry over to July 1, 1919.

CASH GRAIN NEWS

Cash wheat at Chicago was about ½c lower, with No. 1 red mainly ½c over and No. 1 hard 1c over the basis. At St. Louis prices were also ½c lower, and E. Lowitz & Co.'s office reports the demand as slow. Offerings were somewhat larger. Receipts here, 518 cars. The three southwestern markets had 407 cars, against 1,023 cars last year, while in the northwest there were 1,335 cars, against 114 cars last year.

Demand for cash corn was somewhat better, with No. 6 grades showing an advance of about 5c at the last. Bulk of the other kinds showed no change. St. Louis was unchanged to 2c higher, Kansas City and Milwaukee unchanged, and Peoria 3@5c lower. Receipts at Chicago had 380 cars, against 607 cars a week ago and 945 cars last year.

No. 3 white oats sold at October price to ½c under at Chicago, and standards at October to ¼c higher. Sales showed an advance of 1c. St. Louis was 1@1½c higher, Kansas City ½c higher, Peoria 1c higher, and Milwaukee ¼c higher. The principal points had 378 cars, against 758 cars a week ago and 428 cars last year. COTTON TRADE NEWS

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Denials of yesterday's rumors of price fixing were followed by rallies after an early break in the cotton market today, but prices eased off again, with the general list closing easy at a 2@4 decline on sales of 43 to 51 points.

It was reported that the first subject to be considered by the committee of the war industries board would be the matter of allotting high and low grade cotton, that last year foreign buyers secured an undue proportion of the higher grades and that it is proposed to induce exporters to take a bale below for every bale above middling this season.

Port receipts, 19,082 bales. United States port stocks, 945,786 bales. No exports today. Exports so far this season, 427,261 bales. Futures:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. close.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—The local market for spot cotton was quiet and 40 points lower at 33.70c for middling upland; sales nil.

Southern spot markets were: Galveston, 33½c; New Orleans, 33c; Savannah, 33½c; Augusta, 33.13c; Memphis, 33¼c; Houston, 33.76c; Little Rock, 33½c.

LIVERPOOL.—Spot cotton quiet; prices lower; good middling, 24.87d; middling, 24.24d; low middling, 23.10d; good ordinary, 21.87d; ordinary, 21.15d. Sales, 8,000 bales, including 1,500 American. No receipts. Futures closed steady. September, 23.73d; October, 23.43d; November, 23.24d; December, 23.12d; January, 23d.

AUGUST LINTER PRODUCTION.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The census bureau in a report issued today on cottonseed and cottonseed products, places the production of linters from Aug. 1, 1918, to Aug. 31, 1918, at 13,231,000 lb bales. The report places the amount of cottonseed received at mills at 146,036 tons. The quantity crushed during the period was 45,729 tons. Amounts held at mills on Aug. 31 was 136,687 tons.

More Speakers Announced for Bankers' Meeting Here

Announcement was made yesterday of additional speakers for the section meetings of the American Bankers' association convention to be held in this city next week. Among the new speakers announced for the national bank section are the following:

Arthur E. Bestor, president of the Chautauqua Institute of Chautauqua, N. Y., director of the speakers division of the committee on public information; Lieut. Col. G. G. Woodwark, minister of information for Great Britain; W. P. G. Harding, governor of the federal reserve board; C. Frank Reavis, member of congress from Nebraska, and Charles F. Hoerr, president of the Home Bank and Trust company, Chicago, and chairman of the committee on operating costs of the Cook County Bankers' club.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Cotton goods and cotton yarn inquiries today were more numerous, but sales were small except for government purposes. Raw silk was steady. Ribbon's wear trade was quiet.

HOGS ARE OFF 15 TO 40 CENTS; CLOSE AT $20.50

Prime Steers Are Steady at Top Price of $19.40.

Hogs sold 15@40c lower and butchers and light grades showed the most decline at the close. Although $20.65 was paid at the start, just as good closed around $20.50. Nearly one-third of supply went over unsold.

Two loads of prime steers made $19.40 and looked steady, but many of them at $18.50@18.50 showed 50c decline. Trade was uneven and sellers did not find a clearance for the bulk until later than usual.

Although range lambs at $13.25 did not pass the top of earlier in the week, they were not as choice as the first to sell at that price. Natives at $17.75 stood 25c higher than any previously this week.

Average price of hogs at Chicago was $20.00, against $20.35 Wednesday, $20.10 a week ago, $18.25 a year ago, $16.63 two years ago, and $7.36 three years ago.

Receipts for today are estimated at 7,000 cattle, 14,000 hogs, and 20,000 sheep, against 6,688 cattle, 5,716 hogs, and 14,517 sheep corresponding Friday a year ago.

M'ADOO APPROVES SECOND EXPRESS RATE INCREASE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—Director General McAdoo has approved the application of the American Railway Express company for further rate increases estimated to yield $33,670,000 and has sent the proposal to the interstate commerce commission for final action. The commission announced tonight that public hearings on the matter will begin on Tuesday, Oct. 8. The increase asked amounts to about 10 per cent. The amount realized by the recent advance in rates, approximately $10,000,000, has been absorbed entirely, Mr. McAdoo wrote the commission, by making wage advances to express employes. The director general said he was satisfied there must be a further increase in wages and that some $13,000,000 of additional revenue would be needed for that purpose.

INSURANCE NEWS IN ALL BRANCHES EAST AND WEST

Job Hedges Addresses Life Men on Their Patriotic Duty.

BY THOMAS R. WEDDELL.

Job E. Hedges, general counsel of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents, made the principal address yesterday at the annual meeting of the American Life convention, held at the Lexington hotel. He discussed the value of sentiment rather than intelligence as the foundation of human endeavor, with special reference to war conditions.

He pointed out the fact that Germany had argued for years that the human brain was the great moving force in the world, but the action of the United States and the other allies has shown that sympathy and sentiment are more powerful and will win in the end, Mr. Hedges discussed life insurance only incidentally.

Dr. W. A. Evans, formerly health commissioner of Chicago, spoke on the service life insurance companies and agents could perform in the cause of public health.

Mandel Brothers

For children's feet have soft, pliable bones and tender muscles—all in the formation stage—which their shoes must protect and develop.

The shape and fit of any shoe depends upon the last over which the shoe is made

"Buster Brown" shoes, therefore, correctly support, develop and shape growing feet—give boys and girls an easy, graceful carriage—and prevent corns, bunions, weak feet, cramped bones and broken arches, any or all of which might follow the wearing of less carefully designed shoes.

at $3, $4, $5 up

Free: "Training the Growing Feet," a pamphlet recognized as a standard authority on correct foot development.

The Remarkable Sale of Women's and Misses' Suits

Still Offering a Splendid Choice for Selection, as Most of Them Are Sample Suits

We confidently believed this would prove to be the most remarkable sale of women's and misses' suits the Basement ever held. Now we know it! Hundreds of women and young women of Chicago know it, too.

There is still a great many of these new fall suits from which to choose! Pricing far below the season's retail prices! And this is the very beginning of the fall and winter season, not the end of it!

Many of the newest fall styles, beautifully tailored, of those fine, soft, fashionable materials so favored for fall and winter are to be found in this assortment. Finely tailored suits for women and misses are remarkably priced—

At $25, $37.50 $45 and $47.50

Many styles may still be found in all sizes, but most of these are sample suits and the styles, therefore, are varied and in some cases but one of a kind. The greater number of them come in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36-inch bust measurement, while there are other suits in sizes from 14 years to 44-inch bust measurement, although not in all colors or fabrics.

This is too great an opportunity to buy a beautiful new suit at a moderate price for any woman to allow to pass without taking immediate advantage of this sale.

Students desiring to enter should apply at once

The War Department urges that all able-bodied boys 18 years old or over who are qualified should enter the college and be inducted into the S. A. T. C.

The best way to get in line for a commission is to enter the S. A. T. C. Students who acquit themselves well are reasonably certain of promotion to an Officers' Training Camp.

Student-soldiers receive from the Government housing, food, medical service, uniforms, and the pay of a private ($30 a month).

Student-soldier take military drill 11 hours a week, and the Government War Aims Course, based on the State papers of President Wilson, and in addition begin the college course of their choice.

The University of Illinois offers S. A. T. C. courses in:

ENGINEERING	MEDICINE
CHEMISTRY	DENTISTRY
COMMERCE	PHARMACY
AGRICULTURE	LAW

LIBERAL ARTS AND SCIENCES

Any graduate of an accredited high school may enter.

Able-bodied boys of 18 or over will be inducted into S. A. T. C. shortly after October 1.

Boys under 18 may enroll in the S. A. T. C., take the drill, and begin college work, but will not receive pay or maintenance.

All the usual courses for women will be offered and in addition courses in Red Cross Work and Nursing.
